HARDING TO CONSULT SOME 'BEST MINDS' AFTER HIS VACATION

President-Elect Invites Them to Talk Over Foreign Policies on Return to Marion.

HE WANTS ALL VIEWPOINTS

Hopes for Plan to Suit All, but No Announcement Will Be Made Prior to March 4.

NO NAMES ARE MADE PUBLIC

His Headquarters' Statement Says He Won't Act on Cabinet While in Texas and Panama.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 5.—President-elect Harding has already set out to fulfill his campaign promises to consult the " best minds " of the nation, regardless of party affiliation, on the foreign policy of the nation. An announcement by the Harding headquarters tonight said that as soon as Mr. Harding returns to Marion, after his vacation in Texas and Panama, he will hold informal conferences with men and women representing all shades of opinion.

Mr. Harding has no intention of embarrassing the Administration in the conduct of foreign affairs, it is said here, nor any desire to propose a definite program before March 4. Instead, his conferences are designed primarily that he may familiarize himself with the views held on foreign affairs by all groups. He proposes to secure this information in the comparative leisure of Marion before the routine of Presidential duties prevents him from giving as much time to the question as he believes its importance justifies.

The announcement of the intended conferences was made after the President-elect had conferred with Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who was Mr. Harding's guest for the day. It was Mr. Hays's forty-first birthday, and Mr. Harding in explanation of the visit said that he felt indebted to Mr. Hays for a birthday party.

Action on Cabinet to Wait.

The announcement also said that no consideration would be given to the Cabinet during Mr. Harding's vacation. The text of the announcement reads:

" Senator Harding let it be known today that he is sending out a number of requests for personal and very informal conferences with men and women who have been eminent in the discussion of our foreign relations. These conferences will take place upon his return to Marion in December, and will be individual and personal, with the main purpose of learning what policy may enlist united support.

" Senator Harding means to avoid any unseemingly anticipation, but feels it wholly becoming to get an expression entirely free from campaign bias and to get it at the earliest possible day. It is the first step toward the meeting of minds of which Senator Harding so frequently spoke during the campaign. He did not make public any list, because it will not be complete before his vacation ends.

This indicates that until Mr. Harding's inauguration Marion will continue the " Great Listening Post," as it has been called by the President-elect. There will be no reduction in the staff of his headquarters, and the office force will remain virtually the same as during the campaign.

There will be one marked difference, however, between Senator Harding's activities during the front porch campaign and those after election. During the campaign his advisers came wholly from all elements of the Republican Party. Now he proposes to extend his " listening post " to take in all elements of the country. While his fundamental belief is in government through the agency of political parties, he does not intend, it is said, to limit sources of information to Republican Party leaders.

Names Are Not Made Public.

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—President-elect Harding has already made a list of the best minds to be consulted first on foreign policies, and invitations are going forward to several to come to Marion at the conclusion of the month's vacation trip which is to be started by the President-elect tomorrow morning. Both Republicans and Democrats are to present their views in individual and personal talks with Mr. Harding during the Winter months, but he does not contemplate, for the present, at least, any general assemblage of his advisers for round-table discussion.

The names of those already invited have not been made public, but it was said in an announcement from the President-elect's office tonight that "men and women who have been eminent in the discussion of our foreign relations" made up the list. Additions will be made during Mr. Harding's vacation trip, it was added.

Although the President-elect has never named publicly any of those he will include in his consultations, speculation of a wholly unauthoritative character has revolved persistently about a num-

Canada Ready to Open Ship Lines to All Ports

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—The Canadian mercantile marine, numbering seventy-seven ships with an aggregate of 400,000 deadweight tons, is ready to enter steamships in service between Canada and any foreign country, D. B. Hanna, General Manager of the service, said today at the annual meeting of the Canadian Traffic Club.

He asked that manufacturing interests co-operate with the railways to develop an export trade, and predicted that the day is near when Canadian ships will be found in the seven seas.

HARDING DECLINES OFFER OF WARSHIP

BOOKED ON PASSENGER BOAT

President-Elect, in Reply, Expresses Appreciation of Message Sent Through Daniels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Acting at the instance of President Wilson, Secretary Daniels today sent a telegram to President-elect Harding offering to place a warship at Mr. Harding's disposal for the trip he intends to make to the Panama Canal Zone. Mr. Daniels said in the telegram that he was authorized also to offer to Mr. Harding the use of the Government yacht Mayflower to take him to Hampton Roads, where the warship would be waiting for him.

The telegram of the Secretary to the President-elect reads:

> The President desires me to say that, having heard you contemplated a visit to the Panama Canal Zone, he has directed me to place a warship at your disposal. I am also authorized to offer in his name the use of the Mayflower to take you to Hampton Roads, where the ship will wait for you if that suits your convenience. It will give me pleasure to make such arrangements as will be agreeable to you.

No information was obtainable at the White House as to whether President Wilson had sent a message of congratulation to Senator Harding or any communication to Governor Cox. Secretary Tumulty was called on the telephone last night by Governor Cox, who, in the course of the conversation asked about President Wilson. After answering that " the President is fine," Mr. Tumulty said that " we wish to say to you that it was a noble and inspiring fight you made." Governor Cox told Mr. Tumulty, with reference to the report that he would make a trip to Europe, that he had no definite plan.

No attention will be paid by President Wilson to William J. Bryan's suggestion that he resign as a consequence of the election result. It was said today by an official that the President was understood to believe that it was not incumbent upon him to resign because his party had had a political reverse, and furthermore his retirement would be misconstrued and probably would be attributed to pique

Harding Declines in Telegram.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 5.—President-elect Harding today declined the offer of a battleship for his Panama trip. He sent this reply:

> The Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, Washington, D. C.:
> I most gratefully acknowledge your gracious telegram, in which you convey the President's thoughtful courtesy in directing a warship to be placed at my disposal for a contemplated trip to Panama, along with the use of the Mayflower for connection at Hampton Roads. Please assure the President of my grateful appreciation of his consideration, but I cannot accept because I am traveling by railroad to a vacation point in Texas and I have booked to embark from a Gulf port for Panama. I thank you also for your courtesy. WARREN G. HARDING.

Senator Harding will leave Marion early tomorrow morning in a special train for Point Isabel, Texas, where he will be the guest of F. E. Scobey and B. R. Creager of San Antonio. For nearly two weeks he will devote himself there wholy to rest and recreation. From Texas he will go to New Orleans, according to present plans, and sail for Panama, to combine his rest with an inspection of the canal and investigation of the tolls problem. He probably will be back in Marion the middle of December.

POWERS DEFINE SPHERES IN TURKEY BY FORMAL PLEDGES

France, Great Britain and Italy Publish an Agreement Signed Last August.

FRANCE DOMINANT IN CILICIA

BRITISH SPHERE UNDEFINED

This Raises the Question If It May Not Include All Other Parts of the Empire.

PARIS, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—France, Great Britain and Italy have signed a tripartite agreement in which they undertake to support one another in maintaining their spheres of influence in Turkey. The limits of the areas in which the respective special interests of France and Italy are recognized are defined by the same document.

This agreement it developed today, was signed at Sèvres on Aug. 10, the day the public ceremonial of the signing of the Peace Treaty with Turkey took place. Although the agreement, it is explained, is not considered a secret one, it nevertheless has not been made public until now, after a lapse of nearly three months since the signing. Under its own terms the document was to come into force and be published at the time the Turkish Peace Treaty should go into effect. This date is still an uncertainty.

In connection with examination of the text of the agreement, now available, attention is being called here to the fact that, while the treaty defines the spheres of influence of France and Italy —recognizing the special interests of France in Cilicia and the western part of Kurdistan bordering on Syria, and of Italy in southern Anatolia the British spheres of influence are not only undefined, but are not referred to. This has raised the question if the agreement is susceptible of the interpretation that the British interests may be held to extend to any or all the remaining parts of the Turkish Empire.

It is noted also that, while the agreement does not take the form of an alliance, it nevertheless pledges the contracting powers to " render diplomatic support to each other in maintaining their respective positions in the areas in which their special interests are recognized."

Coal Mines Under Italian Control.

One section of the document provides for the exploitation of the Bagdad railway by a company in which British, French and Italian capital is equally interested. It gives the exploitation of the Heraclea coal mines, between Konieh and Adana, to Italy.

Article X. of the agreement provides that nothing contained in it shall prejudice the rights of nations of non-signatory States to free access to the various areas for commercial and economic purposes.

The preamble of the document reads:

"Being anxious to help Turkey develop her resources and to avoid the international rivalries which have obstructed these objects in the past, and being desirous to meet the request of the Turkish Government that it receive necessary assistance in the reorganization of justice, the finances, the gendarmerie and of the police, in the protection of religious, racial and linguistic minorities, and the economic development of the country; considering that the autonomy or eventual independence of Kurdistan has been recognized by them, and that it is desirable with a view to facilitating the development of that country and make provision for any assistance it may require in its administration and to avoid international rivalries in such matters; recognizing the respective special interests of Italy in southern Anatolia and of France in Cilicia and the western part of Kurdistan bordering on Syria, up to Jezire-ibn-Omar, as these areas are hereafter defined, the British, Italian and French Governments have agreed upon the following:

"Article I.—There shall be equality in Turkey between the contracting powers

Cox Warns Party Against Sabotage; Asks for Aid for New Administration

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Governor James M. Cox made public today the first statement he has authorized since the election of Senator Harding to the Presidency. In it he expressed the hope that the Democratic Party would co-operate with the new Administration in working for the welfare of the country and not resort to " political sabotage."

That a new party would result from the election to replace the Democratic Party, Governor Cox held to be absurd.

His statement read:

" For the first time in ten years the Republican Party is in complete control of the legislative and executive branches of the National Government, therefore policy as to statute and administration is with it. Its task is no longer that of the critic, but the constructor.

" It is my hope and firm belief that the Democracy of the nation will not attempt political sabotage. The country has seen quite enough of that. We are in the midst of emergency and the nation's every resource should co-ordinate in behalf of the things that are helpful.

" So long as government exists, the principles of Thomas Jefferson will be the centre about which human hopes will gather. Talk of a new party is absurd. One might as well discuss the destruction of human emotions. As essential as it has been to the welfare of the country in the past, the creed of Democracy is more needed now than ever because recent events have made it distinctly the American party.

" In spirit I am as proud as when the fight started. I would not retrace a step nor yield a single jot in principle. It was a privilege to make the contest for the right in the face of overwhelming odds.

" There is a distinct difference between defeat and surrender. The flag of Democracy still flies as the symbol of things more enduring than the passions and resentments that come with the aftermath of war."

Governor Cox arrived here from Dayton at noon and went at once to the State House, where he spent the afternoon attending to State business. He received an additional mass of telegrams from men and women all over the country.

The Governor has decided to go hunting near Tuskegee, Ala., instead of in Mississippi. He will start early next week and be away for about ten days.

Irishmen Give Gaelic Names To Queenstown and Kingstown

Writing on the letterhead of the Irish Consulate, Beekman and Nassau Streets, J. L. Fawsitt, self-described Irish Consul in this city, advises newspapers of the change of name of two Irish ports. Hereafter, according to the letter, Queenstown will be known as Cobh and Kingstown as Dun Laoghaire.

Action of the Queenstown District Council in changing the name of the district and city is certified by A. P. Ua Raghallaigh, Clerk of that body, and in the case of Kingstown by J. Sherlock Vaughan, clerk of the Irish Council there.

CARPENTIER SIGNS TO MEET DEMPSEY

FIGHTERS TO GET $500,000

The world's heavyweight championship boxing bout in which Jack Dempsey, titleholder, will defend his laurels against Georges Carpentier, world's light-heavyweight champion and holder of the European heavyweight title, is a cold, binding certainty. The prospective ring rivals, their managers and the three promoters who have negotiated for this history-making ring attraction, and a stakeholder and arbiter, who had been mutually agreed upon, signed the contracts for the bout yesterday afternoon in the ballroom of the Hotel Claridge before a gathering of newspaper men and prominent sport figures.

All the ceremony characteristic of such an occasion attended the actual signing of the contracts. The ballroom where the event took place was comfortably filled, and while the principals and the men directly connected with the affair affixed their signatures to the legal documents binding them for the match, moving picture cameras ground out hundreds of feet of film and flashlight discharges boomed through the room while the still camera men photographed the occasion.

It was in the very same spot, on a little raised platform where was arranged a table surrounded by chairs, as if for a conference, that the articles for the bout between Dempsey and Jess Willard were discussed and finally agreed upon, before Promoter Rickard, Dempsey, Manager Jack Kearns and Jack Skelly journey over to Weehawken in order to affix their signatures legally to the papers, without running counter to the laws of this State, which then prohibited boxing or anything pertaining to the professional sport.

Cochran First to Sign.

When the papers were ready for the signatures Attorney Nathan Vidaver, acting as master of ceremonies, called the participants forward to sign separately. Charles B. Cochran, British promoter, who had Carpentier signed to a contract, signed first. He was followed by Tex Rickard, his American partner in the present undertaking. Next came Robert Edgren, former sporting editor of The Evening World, who had been agreed upon as stakeholder and arbiter; Jack Kearns, François Descamps, Dempsey and then Carpentier. William A. Brady, who is the third member of the group of promoters, stepped into the picture last and affixed his signature to the documents.

About the only conditions not definitely settled in the contracts are the date for the contest, the place, the selection of a referee and of judges in the event that the match is held where judges are empowered to decide the winner.

The place is still a moot question. Promoters Rickard, Cochran and Brady have not yet discarded the proposition whereby the contest would go to Havana, Cuba, according to Rickard. He admitted, however, that nothing definite had been done with this proposal, despite the announcement recently that the bout had been actually awarded to Havana. The contract stipulates the bout must be held in the United States, Canada, Mexico or Cuba.

Two Cubans, Marcos Gonzalez and Rafael Posso, introduced by Manager Jack Kearns as representatives of a syndicate of Cuban capitalists eager to obtain the bout, attended the meeting. Gonzalez, acting as spokesman, declared that he and Posso, with Felipe Padro and Lionel Padro, were prepared to guarantee the purse of $500,000 offered by Promoters Rickard, Cochran and Brady, and to give the three promoters the sum of $50,000 additional, in order to stage the bout in Havana. Gonzalez declared that he had backing for a sum up to $700,000, for a Cuban syndicate eager for the attraction. It was his original plan to bid for the bout, but when he arrived here, he said, he discovered that Rickard, Cochran and Brady had the match sewed up. His offer to take the bout off their hands and to present them with $50,000 followed this discovery.

Wants Dempsey to Box Bull Fighter.

Gonzales also announced himself ready to guarantee Champion Dempsey the sum of $100,000 for a bout against John B. Sanchez, bull-fighter, to be held either the last week in April or the first week in May, irrespective of the outcome of Dempsey's match against Carpentier in the event that this bout was conducted before the latter part of April or early May.

The date of the contest is not definitely provided for in the contract, copies of which were distributed by Promoter Rickard. It is stipulated that the bout shall be held any time either during the month of March or between May 29 and July 4, next year. If the

CALDER AND EDGE THREATEN FEDERAL CONTROL OF COAL

Will Press Drastic Regulation of Entire Industry if Prices Are Not Cut.

FIND GROSS EXTORTION

Public Officials Furthered Profiteering Schemes, Says Joint Statement.

HIGH PRICES UNCALLED FOR

Tumulty Denies Dictating to I. C. C. —Acted for the President, He Asserts.

Senator William M. Calder and Senator W. W. Edge, two conservative Republican members of the United States Senate Committee on Reconstruction, announced yesterday in a joint statement that they would press a bill for the nationalization of the coal industry to the greatest extent possible under the Constitution, unless the price of coal dropped radically and profiteering coal interests reformed themselves.

Both of the Senators said that they were radically opposed to Government ownership and control as political principles, but that the vast, confessed profiteering in coal had produced a situation calling for drastic reform by the application of quick remedies. Unless coal prices are broken immediately and crookedness driven out of the business Senator Calder said that the coal operators must be prepared to receive from the nation the same kind of a blow which the real estate interests and the landlords had received from the State.

The question of summoning Joseph P. Tumulty, who is alleged to have exercised the authority to give orders during the coal crisis which released many coal operators from their contract obligations end enabled them to obtain sometimes double and triple the contract price, was discussed, but it was stated that the President's secretary would probably not be asked to testify, though he would be heard with pleasure if he volunteered to appear before the committee. The two Senators made it clear that they were less concerned at present about the causes of coal profiteering than about the remedy. In the joint statement the Senators said:

" We do not undertake to say that this individual is a profiteer and that this one is not, but the coal industry as a whole stands self-convicted of practicing gross extortion on the whole public of the United States, and unless the industry reforms itself and cuts prices to a reasonable figure by Dec. 6, we will introduce a bill for the most stringent regulation of every branch of the business.

Senators in Earnest.

" We are both opposed to Government regulation as a policy, but the Government must assume responsibility for its people, and we will recommend a bill for entire control of the industry, just as far as possible under the Constitution, unless prices are materially reduced to the public by Dec. 6.

" We are deadly in earnest about this. We are both conservatives on the matter of Government ownership, but we are absolutely disgusted with this situation. The country has been justified in the past in thinking that an investigation of the kind conducted by this committee, never amounts to a hill of beans. Our work would be of no value if it merely resulted in a report of two or three thousand pages to be filed and not read. The coal industry stands self-convicted.

" The wrongdoing has been admitted by D. B. Wentz, representing the National Coal Association; by Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Daniel E. Willard representing the railroads. There is a general confession on the part of the industry, even though guilty individuals have not been identified. The reformation of these evils is their own concern primarily. Most of the leading coal operators realize that and are seeking today to clean up their business from within. That is their only salvation. If they can't solve their own problem, we will have to use drastic means to solve it."

Various instances of individual guilt are reported to have been uncovered by the Senate committee, which will be brought to the attention of the Attorney General. These are said to involve criminal profiteering in priority coal and connivance at such profiteering by employes of the Interstate Commerce Commission, coal operators and railroad officials. Such evidence, however, is considered incidental to the principal purpose of the Committee on Reconstruction, which is to find constructive remedies, rather than to fix personal guilt.

See No Reason for High Prices.

" We are not here," they said in their joint statement, " to try to decide definitely just who or what particular element are guilty. The time has arrived when this committee can perform a public service without necessarily resolving itself into a court and jury or acting as detectives. There is guilt somewhere among operators and speculators who have power to fix prices. This has been admitted by man after man. Some of them have suggested remedies and have talked of their own efforts to better conditions, but the fact is that coal prices have not decreased."

Public officials have allowed themselves to be used to further profiteering

BACKER, BUILDER, HELD IN GRAFT CASE; RAKE-OFF OF 150% FOR COURT HOUSE; FURTHER BRIBES OF $20,000 TO BRINDELL

Big City Contracts Made in Last 18 Months To Be Investigated for Fraud by Craig's Order

Every contract awarded by the city within the last eighteen months, and of which a substantial part of the work remains uncompleted, is now being investigated by the Department of Finance, and if any irregularities are found they will be reported to the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, according to a statement made by Controller Charles L. Craig at a meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday when the awarding of contracts for snow removal was held up for another week, after Mr. Craig had asserted that last year's snow removal contracts should be scrutinized by Senator Lockwood's committee and its counsel, Samuel Untermyer.

The delay in awarding the snow removal contracts for the ensuing year is regarded as significant because it comes so closely upon the heels of the Board of Estimate's action recently in canceling, at the instance of Mayor Hylan, the contracts on the new Court House, following disclosures before the Lockwood Committee, which indicated that excessive prices had been fixed for the construction work through combinations among building materials concerns.

" I have in course of preparation," said the Controller, " a list of all contracts awarded by the city within the last eighteen months in which a substantial sum of money is involved, and where a substantial part of the work has not been completed.

" I have notified every head of a department and the Borough Presidents of this and have put the whole matter squarely up to them to decide whether or not the city has been made the victim of a fraud. I have asked for a report from all of them, and unless assured that there is nothing that would suggest that the bids were not openly awarded, I shall refuse to pay any more vouchers on these contracts. I will also send a list of these same contracts to the Lockwood Committee for whatever action the committee may see fit.

" I have this list in course of preparation. There are several contracts which involve millions of dollars. For instance, one is for the building of new piers in Staten Island. Understand, I am making no charges. I simply have been casting up these matters and want the department heads to make certain that no bidding has been rigged, as recent developments seem to indicate many have been rigged. I want the question settled so it will appear clearly whether the contracts should be carried out as awarded, or annulled, or whether bids already accepted shall be rejected."

INNER CLIQUE FIXES PRICES

Stone Contractors All Over Country Pay Heavy Tribute.

IN COMBINATION ON BIDS

LABOR BOSS ELUDES TRAP

Drops Demand for $25,000 from Gotham Bank After Inquiry Began.

The indictment by the Additional Grand Jury of George Backer, millionaire builder, of 137 Riverside Drive, who first swore before the committee that he gambled away and lost at the race track $25,000, and later, under cross-examination, admitted that he had not lost it, but had paid it to two walking delegates to call off a strike.

A general scarcity of witnesses whose testimony was desired, and an assertion by Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, that prospective witnesses were being " tipped off." The witnesses sought by the committee are John T. Hettrick, lawyer, of 165 Broadway; Herman Clompoos, wrecking contractor, of 913 Longwood Avenue, and the following walking delegates of the Building Trades Council: Peter Stadtmuller, Joseph Moran, Richard Pike, John Taggart, Parker and Hogan. Process servers who called at Mr. Hettrick's office yesterday were told he was " out of town."

Admissions by Henry Hanlein that "the inner circle of nine charmers " in the cut stone business estimated on the court house job, and the percentages they demanded amounted, when added up, to 150 per cent. Hanlein testified that the the first estimate for the limestone work was about $1,600,000, but the bid to the city was $2,372,000, approximately 50 per cent. above the first estimate. Hanlein made the only bid on the job, and admitted that his associates signed an agreement " to help me out."

The arrangement was referred to by Mr. Untermyer as an " eleemosynary arrangement " and the most extraordinary he ever heard of. Hanlein admitted it was extraordinary. It was also brought out that Hanlein charged the Cunard Line $5 for a cubic foot of cut stone and charged the city $9 for the same amount, an increase of 80 per cent. He justified the increase by the rise in wages of 29 per cent. and an increase along other lines.

$25,000 Demanded from Bank.

Evidence showing that the officers of the Gotham National Bank had a meeting to discuss a demand of $25,000 made by Robert P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, whose delegates called a strike on the new structure erected by the institution. Plans were made to set a trap for the collector of the money when the beginning of the investigation halted negotiations. Brindell demanded $1,000 for each story in the building, the plans calling for twenty-two stories. Why he wanted an extra $3,000 did not appear.

The existence of inner rings of soft stone contractors levying tribute on every contractor and quarryman in the country, through local and national associations, and fixing prices in restraint of trade. It was brought out that if a builder rejected all limestone bids on any job he was unable to have the stone work done on his structure because of an arrangement entered into by the cut stone men through a set of rules known as "The Code of Practice."

The existence of a " cost plus " system by a wrecking contractor who tacked on arbitrarily 25 cents per day per man on his work so that the extra amount might go to Brindell. Another scheme uncovered was the levying of " waiting time " on builders whose men were called out on strike. The men were supposed to receive pay for time they were absent, and bribes were demanded and paid under this pretext. In one case the amount accruing under " waiting time " was multiplied five times.

Testimony by Albert A. Volk, wrecking contractor, that Brindell said a payment of $636.25 was " small fry " and " penny business " after Brindell pocketed the money.

Retraction by Walter Melton, house wrecker, of his testimony of the previous day and his allegation that Joseph Moran, Brindell's agent, intimidated him into " standing pat." Melton told of payments of $2,500 to Brindell.

Testimony concerning a speech made by William P. Kenneally, Vice President of the Board of Aldermen and a member of Brindell's Executive Committee, before the Board of Estimate when the limestone contract was awarded to Hanlein. Kenneally promised the city that there would be no labor trouble on the job. A demonstration was made by labor men

BARRETT NEW HEAD OF SERVICE BOARD

Governor Appoints Deputy to Succeed Nixon and Praises Commission's Efficiency.

TO FILL UNEXPIRED TERM

Republicans, However, Discuss Reorganization to Permit Miller to Name Official.

Governor Alfred E. Smith yesterday appointed Alfred M. Barrett of Flushing Public Service Commissioner for the First District to succeed Lewis Nixon, whose resignation the Governor accepted just before announcing Mr. Barrett's appointment. Mr. Barrett has been Deputy Public Service Commissioner since June 19, 1919. His appointment is for the balance of Mr. Nixon's five-year term, which ends on May 3, 1924. The salary of the office is $15,000 a year.

In announcing his acceptance of Mr. Nixon's resignation at Albany, the Governor expressed regret and said he was mindful of the sacrifice Mr. Nixon made when he accepted public office. The Governor also said he believed Mr. Nixon had brought the commission to a high state of efficiency.

Whether Mr. Barrett would remain undisturbed after Nathan L. Miller assumed his duties as Governor and the new Republican Legislature took office was said to be doubtful. There was no information locally as to how Judge Miller stood on the matter, but there was a sentiment among local Republican leaders for another reorganization of the commission to give Judge Miller, as Governor, the same opportunity to name the Commissioner or Commissioners that Governor Smith had when a reorganization bill was passed at the beginning of his term. F. J. H. Kracke, one of the Republican Commissioners thus legislated out of office, was reported to favor a reorganization bill, and it was pointed out that Mr. Kracke was a strong factor in the Brooklyn Republican organization.

Mr. Nixon resigned to attend to personal business abroad. He will depart today for Europe. Just before leaving the offices of the commission yesterday he made this statement:

" Since my successor will soon be in office I think it well to leave to him any statements as to the commission's work.

" I gave all my energy and thought to the work for eighteen months.

" My reports dodged no issues, and I believe the policies and plans outlined for remedying the present deplorable conditions are right.

" I feel that the great mass of data and understanding of various phases of our work here, acquired after a year and a half of work, are a personal equipment now of no particular value, as, freed from responsibility which has been absorbing, I cannot see how any one should wish to involve himself in misrepresentation and abuse which in large measure seem the portion of those who conscientiously speak their minds as to public utilities.

" No man has ever had more loyal and able following, and no department was ever more responsive to needs as they arose.

" The Governor held us to our work.

" We could not help doing our best for a man whose character and attainment have secured for him the greatest personal tribute in the political history of the State."

Mr. Barrett, the new Commissioner, was born Sept. 6, 1871. He was educated in public and private schools, and entered the banking business in 1889. He was connected at various times with several leading banking institutions and became President of the Guardian Trust Company. He was an organizer and at one time President of the American Institute of Banking of the United States.

SAMOAN GOVERNOR COMMITS SUICIDE

Naval Commander Terhune of Hackensack, N. J., Shoots Himself When Suspended.

WAS TO FACE AN INQUIRY

Troubles with Natives Led to Charges Against His Administration There.

HONOLULU, Nov. 5.—Commander Warren J. Terhune, Naval Governor of American Samoa, ended his life on Nov. 3, three days before the battleship Kansas was due to arrive with a Naval Board of Inquiry from Washington, D. C., to investigate charges against his administration.

The Governor's body was found in the bathroom of the Executive Mansion with a bullet wound through the heart, according to a dispatch from Samoa received today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Navy Department received today a cablegram from the naval station at Samoa in which the death of Commander Warren J. Terhune, U. S. N., was announced the message stating that Commander Terhune had shot and killed himself at noon on Wednesday last. No further details were given. The Commander had been suffering from ill health for some time, and his heart was affected.

Charges were recently filed against Commander Terhune by Lieut. Commander C. H. Boucher, U. S. N., the charges involving alleged troubles between Commander Terhune and Samoan natives. A Court of Inquiry was named by Secretary Daniels to investigate the charges. Commander Terhune was ordered to be relieved from duty, and Captain Waldo B. Evans appointed to succeed him.

Commander Terhune had been Governor of Samoa since March, 1919. He entered the Naval Academy from New Jersey in 1885 and was graduated four years later. In the Spanish-American War he served on the cruiser Philadelphia, and during the period of the European war was Commandant of a naval training school at Minneapolis. He was born in New Jersey fifty-one years ago.

The records of the Navy Department give the address of Mrs. Josephine L. Terhune, the Commander's widow, as 303 Lookout Avenue, Hackensack, N. J.

Relatives of Commander Terhune, living at 303 Lookout Avenue, Hackensack, said yesterday that the officer had been in ill-health for several years. They believed that his suicide was due to ill-health, combined with worry over a revolt of natives of Samoa recently, during his Governorship of the island.

Commander Terhune had asked for a naval commission to investigate the affair and the United States warship Kansas was due to have arrived there early this month with a commission on board for this purpose.

Commander Terhune was born in New Jersey fifty years ago. He had been stationed at Key West before being assigned to govern Samoa. He has a son who is a Lieutenant in the navy, stationed at present in Italy.

Commander Terhune married Miss Josephine Smith of Hackensack, whose mother said last night that she was with him in Samoa.

Hanlein Coached by Hettrick.

Admission by Hanlein that Hettrick called him on the telephone after Hanlein's first appearance on the witness stand Thursday and coached him as to his forthcoming testimony. Hanlein did not know whether it was a long-distance call.

Announcement of former Supreme Court Justice Clarence J. Shearn that about a week or ten days ago he withdrew as Hettrick's counsel when he found that there was disparity between the position of other clients, cut-stone contractors and Hettrick. Robert Elder, former District Attorney of Brooklyn, is now said to be Hettrick's legal adviser.

United States Senator William M. Calder, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, appeared as an interested spectator in the Aldermanic Chamber and occupied a seat near the other members of the committee. His presence led to reports that Mr. Calder might take an active part in the inquiry. The high cost of building has been one phase of the Senate committee's investigation for the last four months.

Further amounts aggregating $20,136.75 were paid to Brindell or his agents, witnesses testified. Frank Melton, brother of the man who purged himself of contempt of the committee by making an open confession of his relations with Brindell, told of $1,500 having been paid to Brindell by Clompoos in his (Melton's) presence. Clompoos is said to be in Boston. Melton's statement was the first testimony taken since the inception of the investigation pointing to the presence of a third party when money was paid Brindell.

In addressing the committee near the close of the session Mr. Untermyer said he was unable to understand the intense interest displayed by Mr. Coakley, Assistant Sergeant at Arms of the Board of Aldermen, and Vice President Kenneally in obtaining copies of the stenographic reports of the proceedings. He said he did not want witnesses "tipped off," and asked that no minutes be furnished other than by the direction of the committee.

Brindell Still Gets Testimony.

Chairman Charles C. Lockwood explained that the first day or two in which Brindell's name was used by witnesses promise was made to Brindell, through his lawyer, that the testimony would be furnished to him, and that since no orders had been given to stop furnishing the copies the Assistant Sergeant at Arms was taking a copy daily to the lawyer.

The testimony concerning a demand by Brindell of $25,000 on the Gotham National Bank construction work on Fifty-ninth Street, near Columbus Circle, was given by Clarence S. Weller, Vice President; Mr. Volk, the wrecking contractor, and Peter Florence, superintendent of the work.

Volk said he asked Brindell "as a favor" not to call a strike on the job. Brindell replied that it was a "money favor" that was being asked and added, "Suppose $25,000 was found in the bottom of the excavation." Brindell said he wanted twenty-five "berries," referring to a unit of $1,000 as a "berry." He said he wanted it on the basis of about $1,000 a floor.

Volk reported to Weller, who was very much upset. There was a consultation of the President and the Board of Directors. Brindell went to Schroon Lake about that time and when he returned told Volk a greater revenue might be demanded if the money were not forthcoming. Volk explained what he said was "Weller's hard-luck story," that the Vice President was only a salaried man and that the new building was his idea and he was supervising it, and if he failed to get it up in good season he would lose his position with the bank.

Some time after this meeting a strike of hoisting engineers was called on the job. There was another meeting of the directors, and they appeared divided in sentiment as to whether to pay the $25,000 or not. Weller wavered between going down to see Brindell and sticking to his post. At any rate he could not pay the $25,000, Volk said he reported to Brindell.

Brindell's Agent Warned.

Brindell said he was going out of town again and would delegate his agent, Pike, of the Portable Engineers' Union, to handle the situation. Volk said he told Pike that Brindell was acting in too high-handed a manner and appeared to be a "king," but that kings were not popular in this country, to which Pike agreed, but said none of Brindell's associates could tell him that.

During Volk's next conversation with Brindell the latter asked Volk whether there had been any leak about the "compensation" demanded on the Gotham job and admonished Volk to "act dumb" if he were asked any questions, to keep his mouth shut and not to talk too much on the telephone. He said he would turn the Gotham Bank matter over to Pike.

Questioned by Leonard Wallstein, associated with Mr. Untermyer, Volk said the strike was settled without the payment of the money. It was done through the intercession of Mayor Hylan, the Building Trades Association and the District Attorney's office.

Peter F. Florence, construction superintendent on the Gotham structure, was called and he said that on Sept. 28 Pike, walking delegate of the Hoisting Engineers, told him trouble was brewing. He saw Pike again after the strike was called and the delegate said that there were three men in "on the divvy," and he promised to get the job started if $3,000 were paid. After talking with Vice President Weller, Florence told Pike that it would be all right. The money would be paid if the men went back to work. Pike called off the strike and the men returned to work, but the money was not paid.

The climax of the story was furnished by Mr. Weller, the next witness. Weller corroborated Volk's story and said that he "stalled" Brindell through Volk as long as he could. Asked whether he ever had any intention of paying the $3,000 demanded by Pike, Weller said: "We had the intention of paying it and framing the man who received it."

"But you were not successful in that by reason of these hearings having started at that time?" asked Mr. Wallstein.

Hettrick Tried to Enlist Mayor.

"I believe the hearings frightened the man off," said Weller.

Hanlein occupied several hours on the stand during the morning and afternoon sessions. He was questioned concerning a letter written by Hettrick to Mayor Hylan, in which the lawyer said that the unions which he "represented" would commend the Mayor if he gave the limestone contract to Hanlein. The cut stone man could not tell what unions Hettrick represented.

Mr. Untermyer went after Hanlein vigorously when he failed to respond as frankly as he thought necessary. Hanlein insisted that he estimated on the Court House work alone and not as a result of an agreement with the inner ring of eight contractors in the Hettrick organization consisting of about fifty contractors.

Q.—Do you think that eight men, engaged in business competition with you, would hold off from estimating on a job without any kind of arrangement with you; does that seem reasonable? A.—It seems so.

Q.—Now, then, do you believe, and would you like to have us believe, that eight responsible limestone contractors in the City of New York, your competitors, would be willing to agree to do whatever part of the work you might assign to them, without knowing how much you were bidding on the work, or what they were to get for it? A.—I positively do.

Q.—And you think that a man in his right senses is going to swallow that, you you? A.—I don't know.

Group of Eight Wanted 150 Per Cent.

Hanlein denied that certain percentages were assigned to the various contractors in the group of eight, but said that "we spoke of what they would do." He was finally forced to admit that there was a discussion as to the percentage of the job that each man wanted and that when the various demands were added up they made 150 per cent., or half as much again as the job called for. He said his own estimate was to take 40 per cent. of the work and give the others the remainder.

The witness admitted to Mr. Untermyer that when it was found that the estimates were above 100 per cent. they were not scaled down, but that the estimate he submitted was on the basis of 150 per cent. of the work which his associates demanded. Hanlein insisted that the other men merely promised to do whatever work he called on them to do, and if he did not call on them for any work they were not to "get a nickel."

Although a contractor agreeing to take a certain part of the work might stand for a heavy loss, all agreed to go in without knowing the price at which Hanlein was to bid for the job, the witness asserted. Later he said that "there was not going to be any loss," according to the expectations of the contractors. He was unable, he said, to tell what the profit on the Court House contract was to have been, for he never knew what it would cost him. Mr. Untermyer called this an extraordinary arrangement and Hanlein said it was.

Q.—Had you ever done anything for these eight concerns for which they were to make such an arrangement as you have outlined? A.—I didn't.

Q.—They were under no obligation to you? A.—No.

Q.—They were in business for their health or for money, which? A.—They were in business for money.

Q.—And this you thought would bring them money, if you chose to give them any part of the contract, and if you didn't, if it was a loss, they would lose money; did you ever hear of such an arrangement before in all your life? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Do you ever expect to hear of one like it again? (No answer.)

Telephone Talk With Hettrick.

Hanlein said that before submitting the bid he talked the matter over with Charles Hutchinson, employed by Hettrick. He was then questioned concerning the telephone conversation he had with Hettrick. Hanlein was reluctant to testify, and had to be urged a number of times to "be frank" and answer questions.

Q.—I want to know what he said to you. A.—He said that this clause in the specifications distinctly states that before you can give any work, sublet any work to anybody else, you must consult the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. He said, "Of course, you always understood that." I said, "I certainly understand it and always did."

Q.—That was the first thing he spoke about? A.—He started to talk to me about that.

Q.—That was because of your having testified? A.—He read the papers.

Q.—He wanted to remind you, so that you would get your testimony straight, didn't he? A.—That is the idea.

Mr. Untermyer asked Hanlein whether Hettrick's suggestion was by way of giving him a defense against the contract with the other eight stone contractors. Hanlein said it was a clause he "had to consider."

On his first appearance on the stand in the morning Hanlein said that he agreed to pay 5 per cent. into the "insurance fund" maintained in Hettrick's office instead of the usual 4 per cent. on the Cunard Line contract, but that Hettrick was not to get more than his accustomed 1 per cent. The 4 per cent., he said, was to go to the fund which was divided among the fifteen men in Hettrick's combination. Hanlein said he was the only bidder on the Cunard job. The contract amounted to $527,733, he added, and the stone was to be $5 a cubic foot. He admitted estimating the Court House contract on the basis of $9 a cubic foot.

Contractors' Agreement Destroyed.

Taking up the agreement signed by the ring of nine contractors Hanlein admitted that Charles Hutchinson, Hettrick's employe, told him it was destroyed the day that representatives of the committee and officers of the law invaded Hettrick's office. He said he knew there was a carbon copy in existence and thought it was in the possession of the committee.

An amazing revelation of the inner workings of the various cut stone organizations was wrung from the reluctant witnesses' lips by Mr. Untermyer. For every $500 paid into the International Cut Stone Contractors and Quarrymen's Association by local associations, he said, the local association had one delegate. Concerns engaged in quarrying stone and not engaged in the cut stone business were expected to pay to the international association ¼ of a cent a cubic foot on all shipments. The men who did the quarrying as well as cut stone work were also expected to pay ⅛ of a cent on all shipments.

Then the members who did cut stone business but who did not do quarrying were expected to pay ⅛ of a cent on every cubic foot of stone shipped. Hanlein did not make these admissions until Mr. Untermyer confronted him with a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the international association and also the code of practice.

Q.—That International Association covers, doesn't it, every man engaged in the business of quarrying limestone, of contracting for limestone, cutting limestone, throughout the length and breadth of this land? A.—I think so.

Q.—Each set of men engaged in the limestone business, having their yards and factories where they cut the stone and contracting for its erection, they are in local associations, are they not? A.—Yes.

Q.—And all those local associations are in this National Association, that also includes the quarrymen, the owners of the quarries? A.—Yes.

Limestone Trade "In a Vise."

Q.—So that the whole trade in limestone is in a group, isn't it? A.—It is.

Q.—One vise and grip. A.—(No answer.)

Q.—Now, the local associations pay into the national association on the basis of their entire output, don't they? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you pay into the local association on the basis of your entire output? A.—Yes.

Q.—And then you have another inside group called the Hettrick group, inside your local association, in which you pay again? A.—Yes.

Q.—And it all comes out of the people who want to build property, doesn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Inside the Hettrick group of fifteen members there is your little group of nine on the Courthouse, isn't there? A.—There are nine men who wanted to assist me.

Q.—Now, are there any more subdivisions for which the public is asked to pay? A.—No.

Hanlein said the granite men and marble men handling hard stone also had an organization like the soft stone men. Mr. Untermyer asked him whether the country was entirely sewed up on the matter of stone.

"If that be so," said Hanlein, referring to the other association, "it is pretty well sewed up."

Mr. Untermyer took up the Code of Practice of the international association and read from it. One of the rules was that there should be a uniform contract. Another was that there should be filed with the Recording Secretary a copy of each bid or list of bids made by any member on work of 500 cubic feet or over. The list was to be submitted in a sealed envelope and not to be opened by the Recording Secretary until the day after the opening of bids. Hanlein said he obeyed the rule locally.

There was a long discussion as to what Hanlein meant by "cut-throat competition," and the witness finally said he meant that it was desired to prevent builders deliberately cutting contractors down 20 or 25 per cent. on the ground that their low bids were too high. In reply to Mr. Untermyer's question Hanlein said he did not know this was a violation of the anti-trust law.

Another excerpt from the constitution Mr. Untermyer found interesting was one stating that it was the duty of the recording secretary to compile a list of all bidders on a given project, together with the amounts bid, and that each bidder was to have a complete copy of the other bidders' names and their bids. Hanlein did not know what that was for.

Reading another part of the by-laws Mr. Untermyer asked whether it meant that if a man bid on a job and all the bids were rejected by the architect, the contractor could not bid again.

"I think it works that way," replied Hanlein.

Q.—You know it reads that way, don't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—And the local associations have the same regulations, haven't they? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And that is what is called the Code of Practice? A.—Yes, Sir.

How "Code of Practice" Works.

Q.—And that means, doesn't it, that if an owner of a building asks two men to estimate on it, and he does not like their estimates, and he throws them out, you cannot get a man in your business to bid again? A.—That is the way it is.

Q.—He has got to take one of those two, no matter what he thinks about them? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Or not put up his building? A.—Yes.

Mr. Untermyer made a statement at this point that Judge Shearn was offering the utmost co-operation to the committee and that the information as to the destruction of the agreement made by the inner ring of contractors came from him. He announced that Judge Shearn was not representing Hettrick, but the cut stone contractors.

Walter Melton, in recanting his testimony of the previous day, said he gave Brindell $2,500. Throughout his testimony he mentioned the name of George Atwell, head of the Northern Wrecking Company, a favorite of Brindell, according to his testimony and that of other house wreckers. He said he paid $11,250 to George Backer, the builder, for a wrecking job at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, and the job was taken away from him and given to Atwell. Brindell sent for him and asked him to get off the job, as there was a chance for him, Brindell, "to make some money." Brindell told him that Atwell was to have the job.

The witness said he used men from the Building Trades Council, but they were mainly "pugs" or fighters and did little work. Peter Stadtmuller, Brindell's delegate, pulled his men off the job, and he found himself prevented from getting the salvage by an injunction obtained by Backer.

Later he made estimates on two jobs for the Standard Concrete and Steel Company, but was told he could not have them if he used men working for the House Wreckers' Union affiliated with the A. F. of L., but had to use Building Trades Council men. He then went to Brindell and gave him $500.

Begged Mercy of Labor Boss.

He said he begged Brindell to permit him to remain in business and promised him $1,000 if he kept his competitors off two jobs that he planned to get. In reference to another job, he said that Max Mininson, his partner, gave $1,000 to Mr. Klosk, President of the Interborough Brick Company, for Brindell. Brindell was not in, and Stadtmuller took the money from Klosk, he said.

In order to purge himself of contempt Melton said that the reason he told his first untruthful story was that Moran, Brindell's delegate, called him on the telephone and urged that if he were subpoenaed he was to "stand pat" and "watch your step."

Melton's brother Frank then took the stand and testified to having been present on the occasion when Clompoos, one of the witnesses wanted by the committee, gave Brindell $1,500. It concerned a job on the Hotel Plaza Annex. Atwell promised to "fix it up" for Melton if he took Clompoos as a partner. In Brindell's office the labor leader, he said, told him that he was willing to permit Melton to go on with the work on the Plaza if he took Clompoos as a partner. For this consideration, said Brindell, Clompoos agreed to pay $1,500. Brindell at first demanded $5,000 for his services, but compromised on $1,500. After Clompoos paid Brindell the money, said the witness, he repaid Clompoos immediately.

Atwell, said the witness, informed him he could not work on any big jobs any longer, but that he would be able to work on only small jobs thereafter. Asked to state why Atwell made such a statement, the witness replied: "He said I would have to get more friendly with Brindell if I wanted more work, any more big jobs of that kind."

Melton said he had decided to give up business and wait until "better times comes," as there were too many difficulties in the way of a wrecking contractor.

Brindell Got $20,000 in Six Months.

The witnesses who appeared yesterday told of paying Brindell or his agents $20,136.75 in a period of about six months.

Meyer S. Blumberg, secretary and treasurer of the 305 West End Avenue Corporation, engaged in constructing an apartment hotel in West End Avenue, said he paid $5,000 so that bricklayers' helpers might resume work after being called out on strike by Pike and Chapman, Brindell's agents. He said he made a check of $5,700 out to Connolly Brothers, plumbing contractors on the building, of 156 East 102d Street. The extra $700 was for plumbing work.

In spite of the fact that the plasterers and bricklayers' helpers on the work were A. F. of L. men the strike was called. It was in Blumberg's testimony that "waiting time" appeared as a new item in walking delegates' rendering of a bill for their services. The delegates informed him that if the men went out there would be quite a charge for "waiting time," as the men would have to be paid for the time they waited to return to work. He estimated that the cost of the strikers' services was about $1,000 and paid $5,000.

Blumberg testified he saw Pike and Chapman in the presence of Thomas Connolly, one of the firm of plumbing contractors. The strike was called and he had to agree to withdraw the plasterers' helpers. He tried to get the delegates to accept $2,500, but they refused. They refused to take the money from him and told him to give it to Connolly, and that it had to be in cash. He said he gave the check to James Connolly, and the work was resumed the following day. However, the plasterers went on strike soon afterward because they refused to work with the Building Trades Council men furnished by the delegates and which they insisted that Blumberg had to employ. The result was that a week later he had the same plasterers' helpers at work, and the situation was the same as before he paid the $5,000 except that he was out the money and had lost the time on the job.

Thomas Connolly was next called and admitted that his firm got $5,000 that it was not entitled to, but refused to say what became of the money. He denied having any knowledge of the destination of the $5,000.

Gave $500 to "Tall Dark Man."

James Connolly, his brother, told the committee that after depositing the check in the bank he drew $500 in bills and did as he was told to do. He went to the subway station at Lenox Avenue and 116th Street and gave the money to "a tall dark man" whom he did not know and who merely approached him and asked him if he had the money. He admitted he thought it was not a business transaction but stuck to his story of the "tall dark man" and swore that Blumberg told him to deliver it to the unknown person.

Blumberg, recalled, said he did not tell Connolly to deliver the money to the "tall dark man" and that most of his testimony was a myth. Connolly was recalled and he still stuck to his story.

Volk, the first witness of the day, said he gave Brindell $2,500 so that a strike might be avoided on a job he had at 100 Broadway. He gave Brindell $500 in the latter's garage at the rear of the Brindell home on Daly Avenue when Brindell said he used his influence so that Volk might obtain the wrecking work for the Garment Center Realty Company, building at Broadway and Thirty-eighth Street.

Subsequently he had two small jobs, one for the Hahnemann Hospital, Fifth Avenue and 105th Street, and the other for a job at Broadway and Forty-ninth Street. He told Brindell of these jobs, and the labor boss asked, "What am I going to get out of those jobs?" Volk said he cut the price on the Fifth Avenue job because it was a hospital and the best he could do was $200. Brindell asked about the Forty-ninth Street job, and Volk said he would give him $200 on that also. Brindell looked at him rather quizzically, he said, as if to say that it was pretty cheap.

Volk said that in making contracts he generally had the price he was to pay Brindell in mind and arranged the contracts accordingly. In Brooklyn, he said, he did a job for the White Construction Company. He made the contract on the basis that he was to receive $1.25 a day for each man he had on the job above the regular pay of the worker. The 25 cents, he said, he told the White company, was to go to Brindell. He estimated that he owed Brindell $236.75 on this job and paid him in one check for this job and the two smaller ones. The check came to $636.75.

Brindell Calls $636 "Small Fry."

When Brindell received this check he was dissatisfied and said grumblingly that it was "penny business" and called it "small fry."

According to Volk, Brindell became quite friendly with him and they called each other by their first names, "Bob" and "Al." It was in a burst of confidence that Brindell told Volk, according to the witness, that he, Brindell, had received $10,000 from Atwell on two jobs, $5,000 for each.

As an evidence of Brindell's strength in his own organization Volk recited the following incident. He was in Brindell's office one day and saw a letter sent to the labor leader by the Structural Iron Workers' Union. It was in the form of a resolution and said that the iron workers were the only union in the building industry whose men were permitted to work on jobs with non-union men. They did not think it fair and asked that the Building Trades Council call a strike on all buildings where non-union structural workers were employed.

"So I said to him," Volk continued, "'How are you going to overcome that?' I said, 'They are pushing you pretty hard, aren't they?' He says, 'Well, I tell you. We got this letter, and there was a meeting called, and the question was put to a vote.'

Q. What question? A. Of action on this letter, and he said, somebody got up and made a motion that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee. He says, "We put the motion; any dissenting votes? None; carried." He says, "Immediately somebody alongside of me puts a motion, 'Move that be referred to the Chairman of the Executive Committee.'" He says, "That is me." He says, "Everybody looking forward without batting an eyelash, everybody votes 'Aye.'" He says, "That settles it." I says, "What action were you going to take?" He says, "Why, of course, Al, we will have to pull a few strikes here and there, but we are not going to pull our friends."

Because of the great mass of testimony that is flowing into the committee, Mr. Untermyer at the end of the day said a larger organization would be necessary. Additional accountants and lawyers will have to be engaged and it will be necessary to work day and night until next Thursday, when the committee will again meet in open session in the Aldermanic Chamber.

PARTY COMMITTEES BOTH FACE DEBTS

Republicans from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 Behind and Democrats About $100,000.

The Republican National Committee finds itself deeply in debt—more than $1,000,000, and maybe as much as $1,500,000. The Democratic Committee finished its fight with a debt of approximately $100,000.

Officials at the headquarters of the two committees declined to either affirm or deny the reports. It was said by one clerk of the Democratic National Committee that the aggregate of its expenditures during the campaign would not be above $1,200,000. The Republican Committee's budget contemplated $3,079,000, but expenditures may exceed that amount.

The Republican State Committee spent about $500,000, and, according to Chairman Glynn, was compelled to go into debt besides.

Headquarters of both National Committees were being dismantled yesterday, although the committees will maintain quarters here for some time. Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican committee left for Indiana on Thursday. George H. White, Democratic Chairman, will leave today for Oklahoma, where he has oil interests.

BRITISH WEEKLIES CRITICISE PRESIDENT

They Agree That a Policy of Isolation Is Impossible for This Country.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The weekly reviews, commenting on the election of Warren G. Harding to the Presidency of the United States, regard it as being primarily due to "a revolt against Wilsonism." Occasion is taken by several of the journals to criticise President Wilson's policy severely. As an instance, The New Statesman says:

"President Wilson's name will surely go down to posterity as one of the greatest failures of history."

All the reviews discuss the fate of the League of Nations, the consensus of opinion being that the force of events will drive the United States away from its policy of isolation.

"All accounts agree," says The Spectator, "that there is a strong feeling throughout America in favor of the principle of associating the great nations in the common work of preventing war. That is enough for us."

The Economist also thinks that complete isolation by the United States is impossible.

"We may be confident," says this newspaper, "that the American people, which during six years kept a large part of the population of Europe alive and rendered splendid service to the defenders of popular liberties, will not be found wanting at any great crisis in the future remaking of a distracted old world."

The Nation, in an editorial article, taking the line that a spread of Bolshevism and fear of being engulfed in "the morass of European political and economic troubles," led the Americans to vote for Republicanism and what it terms virtual isolation, remarks that the election of Senator Harding means tariffs and subsidies and "the big stick" for "refractory labor unions and radicalism." The Nation adds:

"Europe has disgraced herself in the eyes of Americans. * * * Sympathy with the Allies has evaporated and given place to suspicion and hostility. Never were the relations with England worse since the crisis of Venezuela. The infamy of our Irish policy, the grabbing of mandates, over-representation by the British Empire in the League of Nations and our world struggle for oil are some of the ingredients in this brew of enmity."

Cox Lead in Georgia Only 25,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Nov. 4.—Election returns are far from complete, but on the basis of those received the vote for President should be about 75,000 for Cox and 50,000 for Harding. For United States Senator Thomas Watson, Democrat but anti-Wilson and anti-League, will have about 95,000, and H. S. Edwards, running as pro-League Independent, 30,000. Incomplete returns show the Republicans have carried fourteen counties. Hughes received about 12,000 votes in Georgia four years ago.

CALDER AND EDGE FOR COAL CONTROL

schemes, according to the statement, which continues:

"The time has come for the coal operators to live up to their contracts and stop trying to divert fuel to the speculative spot market by connivance with public officials.

"With 46,000,000 more tons of coal produced so far in 1920 over the same period of 1919, there is no reason for high prices and coal shortage."

"It might be reasonably inferred that the White House, working through Mr. Tumulty and Mr. Alvord together, has been handling the coal situation, influencing the issuance of Interstate Commerce Commission orders.

"The usual coal contract provides for the nullification of the contract if Interstate Commerce Commission orders interfere with its performance. Priority orders have thus had the effect of abrogating contracts made at low prices and of diverting to speculative purposes millions of tons which should have been used for contract fulfillment.

"The frank statement of Colonel Wentz at the Cleveland meeting of the coal operators shows that these men became frightened over the public agitation against high prices and the repeated demands made upon Washington for a remedy of the existing situation.

"In other words, some of their number had been so greedy in pursuit of profiteering that the majority feared the Federal Government would step in with proposed regulation of the industry.

"In order to meet these charges of profiteering at the next session of Congress committees of the coal operators were appointed to co-operate with similar bodies representing the anthracite industry, the wholesalers and retailers in order to present a united front.

"The condition of affairs in the soft coal trade has its direct relation to the anthracite trade, inasmuch as soft coal shipments monopolized rail facilities and forced the coal off the railroads.

"Thus, while soft coal speculators were able to buy carload lots of coal, divert them from contracts by reason of the interference of the Interstate Commerce Commission and route them to tidewater to be held for speculative purposes, anthracite coal designed for the householder was withheld from transportation.

"This condition existed regardless of the fact that the railroads claimed that their tonnage during the first nine months of 1920 had been the heaviest in their history and, regardless of the fact that geological survey statistics show that approximately 46,000,000 more tons have been mined in the United States this year than in the same period of last."

TUMULTY DENIES DICTATING.

Acted as President's Intermediary in Coal Matter, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, who, according to a statement issued yesterday in New York by Franklin T. Miller, adviser to the United States Senate Reconstruction Committee, was the director of Governmental activities during the coal crisis last Summer, denied without qualification today the assertions made by Mr. Miller.

Mr. Miller's allegation that Mr. Tumulty had even gone so far as to dictate to the Interstate Commerce Commission the orders issued by the commission to bring to an end the coal shortage and to make possible the accumulation of a sufficient supply of bituminous fuel to supply the nation during the Winter of 1920-1921 was entirely withot foundation, Mr. Tumulty said.

Mr. Tumulty's statement was corroborated by other persons who were concerned in the solution of last Summer's coal problem, one of these persons pointing out that Mr. Tumulty's principal rôle during the negotiations that led to a solution of the problem was to keep the President informed of the different moves that were made with that end in view. According to the statement, Colonel D. B. Wentz, President of the National Coal Association, made frequent reports to the White House, in which the coal situation was covered in its various angles, and as the President was unable to receive visitors, owing to his illness, the reports were transmitted to him through Mr. Tumulty, who, as a rule, received them from Colonel Wentz or the latter's representatives.

"There was no politics in the matter of priority shipments of coal," said Mr. Tumulty this afternoon. "I acted upon the representations made to the President, which came from Republican Governors from all parts of the country. Mr. Alvord, acting for Judge Payne, Director General of Railroads, advised the President with reference to the handling of this difficult situation. I simply acted to bring the information which reached the White House to the attention of Mr. Alvord, without any specific recommendation of any kind to him or to the Interstate Commerce Commission. I never at any time conferred with or made suggestions to the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission with reference to shipments of coal."

A report was current here today that the Senate Reconstruction Committee may be requested to investigate the charges made by Mr. Miller.

"In such an event," said a friend of Mr. Tumulty's today, "the committee will quickly find out that Mr. Miller was badly advised, to say the least, in his criticisms of Mr. Tumulty."

Beyond the brief statement quoted Mr. Tumulty indicated that he would have nothing further to say in regard to the Miller charges. The National Coal Association, it was said, may also issue a statement in reply to Mr. Miller.

INDICT CONTRACTOR IN BUILDING INQUIRY

Grand Jury's First Presentment Following Charges of Graft Is George Backer.

TO ASK BAIL OF $25,000

He Contradicted Himself in Telling of $25,000 Bribe Paid to Brindell's Agents.

The first indictment growing out of the investigation into the alleged combinations of building materials men, trust companies and insurance companies by the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing was returned yesterday against George Backer, a wealthy building contractor, of 137 Riverside Drive. The indictment was returned before Judge Joseph P. Mulqueen by the additional November Grand Jury. The fact that Backer was the defendant named in the indictment was learned from his lawyer, Samuel Levy.

An erroneous report that three persons had been named in the indictment was published in the afternoon papers. When it was brought to the attention of Robert P. Brindell, who has figured repeatedly in the testimony before the Joint Legislative Committee as the power behind the Building Trades Council, into whose coffers was paid enormous tribute by contractors anxious to have strikes on their construction jobs stopped, he immediately decided he would surrender to the prosecuting authorities. So sure was Mr. Brindell that he was named in the indictment that he and his lawyer, J. J. O'Connor, went to the Criminal Courts Building, where they learned their mistake.

When Backer and his lawyer arrived at the Criminal Courts Building, they found Judge Mulqueen had gone for the day. They then went into conference with Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, who, by special designation of District Attorney Swann, is also conducting the Grand Jury investigation as Special Assistant District Attorney. At the conference also were Stanley L. Richter, Mr. Untermyer's son-in-law, who has been designated a special assistant district attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Robert S. Johnstone.

Backer to Give $25,000 Bail.

In view of the fact that court had adjourned at the time of his appearance at the Criminal Courts Building, Backer was paroled in the custody of his lawyer and directed to appear in court this morning at 10:30 o'clock, prepared to furnish a bail bond of $25,000.

Mr. Levy was asked last night what was the nature of the charge or charges contained in the indictment, and he said he was not prepared to answer that question as he had not had a chance to read the indictment.

When Mr. Untermyer heard the name of the indicted man mentioned by some newspaper men in the Criminal Courts Building, he said:

"Wait a minute. Who gave that out?"

When he received no reply to his question, Mr. Richter and Mr. Johnstone both hastened to make a disclaimer, and assured Mr. Untermyer that they had said nothing about either the indictment or the person named as defendant.

Mr. Backer was then asked if he had any statement to make to the newspaper men, but his attorney urged him to make none.

"Will you have $25,000 bail ready when you appear here tomorrow morning," he was asked.

"Yes," he said, "$250.000 if they ask it."

After failing to learn from the newspaper men where the confirmation of Backer's indictment had been obtained, Mr. Untermyer turned to the group of reporters and said:

"Well, all right; but we will see to it that greater precautions are taken next time."

Brindell Ready to Surrender.

Just a little while previously, Robert P. Brindell appeared at the Criminal Courts Building, accompanied by his attorney, J. J. O'Connor. The two went to the office of Clerk Edward Cowing, in Part I., General Sessions, and inquired whether or not Brindell had been named in the indictment. They explained that they had read in the afternoon papers that three persons had been indicted, and Brindell was anxious to know whether he was one of the defendants.

The clerk told Brindell and his lawyer that he could give no information on the subject, and he referred them to either Mr. Richter or Mr. Johnstone. Mr. O'Connor hastened up a flight of stairs to the office of the District Attorney while his client awaited the result of his quest in the office of the clerk. In the office of the District Attorney Mr. O'Connor had a brief conference with Mr. Johnstone, and he came back to the clerk's office and reported the result to Brindell. They left the building straightway.

So far as could be learned at the Criminal Courts Building no indictment has been returned in which Brindell is named as defendant. There is every reason to assume that the indictment against Backer was the only one drawn up.

It is understood that the indictment charges perjury, but the charges cannot be definitely ascertained until after the arraignment of the defendant, when the indictment will be filed and will become a public document. When the Grand Jury filed its report, a little before 1 o'clock, Thomas McCarthy, its foreman, presented the indictment to Clerk Cowing, who turned the document over to Judge Mulqueen. Then there followed a conference among Judge Mulqueen, Mr. Richter and Mr. Johnstone, after which the court permitted the Grand Jury to adjourn its hearing and instructed that body to resume its investigation on Monday.

Several witnesses have been questioned by the Grand Jury since it began its investigation into the housing situation on Wednesday. As to the identity of the witnesses and the nature of the evidence submitted no inkling has been obtained. At the time of the selection of the Grand Jury it was agreed among the prosecuting staff and Judge Mulqueen that every effort should be made to keep the jury's deliberations secret, after Mr. Untermyer had complained that in recent years similar proceedings had been made public.

Backer's Contradictory Testimony.

Backer appeared as a witness before the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing on Thursday, Oct. 21, and the testimony he gave was regarded as of such importance by Senator Lockwood that he decided it ought to be turned over to the prosecuting authorities for immediate action. Through the testimony of Backer it was disclosed that $25,000 had been paid by Ephraim B. Levy, a builder of 2 West Seventy-second Street, to two walking delegates for Robert P. Brindell and a "committee" to effect the settlement of a strike of employes engaged in the construction of a large sales and office building on an entire block from Thirtieth to Thirty-first Street on Seventh Avenue. Backer, who was employed as superintendent of the construction job by Levy, at a salary of $30,000 a year, admitted that he had been the go-between for Levy and Brindell. The money to end the strike was paid to Backer in two installments. The witness said he first received a payment of $15,000, and when asked what he did with it he said he went to the race track and came back with nothing. Afterward he received $10,000, he said, and when asked what he did with this sum he testified that he sometimes played cards.

On these two statements the witness was trapped, and finally was compelled to admit that the story of how he disposed of these sums was a myth. He then testified that he had turned the money over to two "strangers" in the Hotel Chatham. He had seen these two men several times, but said he did not know their names. His understanding was that they were to give the money to Brindell and a committee as the price of calling off the strike on Mr. Levy's construction job, which had been tied up eight or nine weeks.

Backer has been engaged in construction work in this city for fourteen years and has erected a number of large buildings, including the Chatham Hotel, the Film Building, 729 Seventh Avenue, and the Backer Building, 136 Madison Avenue.

At the time that the payment of $25,000 by Mr. Levy was disclosed, Mr. Untermyer said this was "small change" in the organized raid on the building industry in this city, and his assertion was corroborated to some extent by Backer, who, in referring to the demands made on builders to have strikes on their construction work called off, asserted that Sam Parks was only a "$100 grafter" who was not to be compared with the walking delegates of today. Backer said Parks would have taken $250 instead of $25,000.

SOLDIER BONUS WINS BY 400,000 HERE

Vote in Five Boroughs, with 300 Districts Missing, Is 642,691 For to 295,423 Against.

UP-STATE RETURNS SLOW

Cities Favor Measure 6 to 1, but Rural Communities Reject It—Majority Put at 100,000.

The proposal for a $45,000,000 State bond issue for bonuses to soldiers and sailors who served more than two months in the war was carried in this city by a plurality estimated at 400,000. With about 300 districts missing, the vote in the five boroughs was as follows:

	For.	Against.	E. Ds. Reptd.
Bronx	111,767	45,147	369
Brooklyn	198,122	95,396	750
Queens	73,537	31,836	286
Richmond	14,953	6,529	69
Total	642,691	295,423	2,400

Although only scattering returns from up-State have been received on the measure, which was voted on as Proposition No. 1, it was said at the Secretary of State's office in Albany that the bonus proposal probably had passed by a majority of at least 100,000. The returns show that many persons did not vote on the measure.

Up-State the vote in the cities was as high as 6 to 1 for the bonus, but in the rural communities the vote was largely adverse or resulted in small pluralities for the bonus.

In many election districts, both in this city and up-State the ballots were put aside, and no tabulation was made when the returns on candidates were compiled. It may be several days before the exact result is known.

DARTMOUTH RAISES $60,000.

Part for Permanent Alumni Fund and Part to Pay Debts.

An addition of $15,000 to the permanent Alumni Fund of Dartmouth College was reported last night at a meeting and dinner of the Alumni Council and the class agents in the Waldorf-Astoria. The financial goal aimed at for the year was $60,000, and it was said that the full amount had been raised.

After deducting twenty-five per cent. or $15,000, for the permanent Alumni Fund, the rest was donated to the treasury of the college, and a large part of it will be applied on mortgage payments to clear off indebtedness of the new gymnasium. E. W. Knight is chairman of the Alumni Fund.

Sexton Named a Tax Commissioner.

John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, announced yesterday the appointment by Mayor Hylan of James J. Sexton as a Tax Commissioner. Sexton is Democratic leader of the Sixth Brooklyn Assembly District and he succeeds James P. Sinnott. The salary is $7,000 a year. It was said that Sexton's place as a Deputy Commissioner of Licenses may be taken by Patrick J. Diamond, Democratic leader of the Eighth Assembly District, Brooklyn.

CARPENTIER SIGNS TO MEET DEMPSEY

match is arranged for March the promoters must notify the boxers by Jan. 1 and the contract provides that neither of the boxers can engage in a bout from the date of notification until the day of the championship meeting. If the bout is scheduled for between May 29 and July 4, the promoters must notify the boxers March 1, and the boxers will be permitted to engage in bouts up to May 28, Dempsey being barred from competing in Europe and Carpentier from appearing in a bout in this country.

The bout will be for not less than ten and not more than fifteen rounds. Dempsey is guaranteed $300,000 and Carpentier is to receive the sum of $200,000. In addition both boxers will retain a twenty-five per cent. interest in the moving pictures. The remaining fifty per cent. will be held by the promoters. The $500,000 purse must be deposited in full with a bank or trust company located near the scene of battle twenty-four hours before the men enter the ring. Immediately after the fight the purse will be distributed as is provided in the contract.

On or before Nov. 20, the promoters agree to deposit $100,000 with the Central Union Trust Company of New York City, which will be divided equally between the boxers in the event the promoters fail to fulfill their contract. Manager Kearns and Manager Descamps agree to deposit $50,000 each on or before Nov. 20. In the event that either of the boxers fails to carry out his contract this sum will be divided equally among the promoters and the prospective opponent of the delinquent boxer. The weight of the gloves, bandages and manner of awarding verdict depend on the conditions which prevail where the bout is held.

Five Prospective Arbiters.

The selection of a referee and judges will be confined to five men whose names are embodied in the contract. The names are Robert Edgren, Bill Brown, veteran local referee; James J. Corbett and James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champions; Otto Floto, Kansas City, and James F. Dougherty, Philadelphia. Edgren in also appointed sole arbiter of any disputes which may arise between any of the contracting parties and is invested with final authority to decide disputes and award any distribution of the forfeit money should an emergency arise.

Although there is an apparent air of mystery surrounding the time and place for the bout it is generally accepted as likely that unless the Boxing Commission manifests stern opposition the match will be held in the vicinity of New York City. A special open-air arena will probably be constructed outside the city limits and the contest will probably be scheduled for between the middle of June and July 4. If opposition is encountered the bout probably might be shifted to New Jersey.

Who Sells
Hart Schaffner & Marx
in New York?

A stranger in New York had his coat stolen. He had always worn Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes and wanted his new coat to bear their label.

So he asked the hotel clerk who sold Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes in New York. The clerk told him instantly. To make sure that the hotel clerk was right he asked the porter and got the same answer.

He began to wonder if everyone in New York knew who sold Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes, and as an experiment he asked, in turn, a policeman, a stranger, a salesman in a jewelry store, and a ticket seller in the Grand Central.

Each in turn gave the information without hesitation.

"That proves," he said to us in telling the story, "that it pays to handle the clothes of a world famous manufacturer; for people not only know the clothes, but they also make it a point to know the name of the merchant who sells them."

Winter Overcoats
by Hart Schaffner & Marx

It pays to sell good clothes because it pays to buy them. These handsome, all wool overcoats at $50, further evidence what we are doing to lower the cost of good clothes, while upholding our quality standards.

GOMPERS CLAIMS VICTORY FOR LABOR

Contends Non-Partisan Campaign Defeated 50 Foes in House and Elected 55 Friends.

BUT REGRETS REACTION GAIN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, in his first statement on the outcome of Tuesday's election declared today that an analysis of the results indicates that labor's non-partisan campaign had been justified. He contends that fifty Congressmen hostile to labor have been defeated and that fifty-five to sixty friends of labor have been elected to the House. He asserts that of the new men at least fifteen will hold union cards and that the total may yet be as high as twenty-five.

Mr. Gompers adds that the election was not satisfactory in every respect. "Every forward looking man or woman," he says, "must feel some deep regret because of the great plunge toward reaction." But this he declares will be corrected at the proper time. He concludes by saying that in any way the American labor movement can be of service to the incoming President "it will be our duty and our pleasure."

Text of Gompers's Statement.

Mr. Gompers's statement follows:

"The non-partisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor is more completely justified than ever and the futility of separate party action more convincingly demonstrated.

"Every man in the House whose record of service was perfect has been re-elected.

"Incomplete checking already shows that fifty ongressmen who were inconsiderate and hostile have been defeated.

"This is one of the most impressive features of the entire election. Fifty time-servers have been beaten.

"Against these fifty who were defeated the working people have elected from fifty-five to sixty men whose records show fair and considerate service.

"This represents a clear gain for integrity in government. The new Congress also will show an increased number of men who hold union cards. Incomplete checking up of the results so far shows fifteen elected to the new Congress with the probability that final counting will show more than twenty, possibly twenty-five.

"It is not to be said that the election was satisfactory in every respect. Every forward looking man and woman must feel some deep regret because of the great plunge toward reaction. But democracy will right itself at the proper time, and meanwhile the actual tabulation of results in Congress, the lawmaking body, shows a definite and specified gain for all that makes for progress and a response to the needs of our time.

"The non-partisan campaign of the American Federation of Labor was primarily and most effectively a campaign in Congressional districts. Its results were gained in the primaries and in the election. These results will serve as a constant reminder to all servants of special privilege and the ever-present and aways impressive fact will be before the new Congress that fifty of the unfaithful and the hostile were defeated by the organized workers of our republic.

Promises to Give Out Names.

"A notable American has said, 'I would rather be right than be President.' To be engaged in a righteous cause, to fight for freedom, for justice, for peace and human brotherhood, is of greater concern to the human family than is a passing success. The labor movement of America recognizes the tremendous struggle of the masses of the people in all history to obtain the right, and the setbacks they have often had to endure and the sacrifices they have had to make, decade by decade, cycle by cycle, in the march and the trend of the cause of freedom of America, forward, onward and upward.

"Shortly the names of the men who have been fair and just and who have been re-elected and of those who have been unfair and antagonistic and defeated, will be published by the American Federation of Labor.

"Senator Harding has been elected President of the United States. He will be as much my President as of any other citizen of our country. In any way that the American labor movement, including myself, can be of service, it will be our duty and our pleasure."

Chester M. Wright, publicity agent for the American Federation of Labor, through whom the statement was issued, declined to furnish the list of those defeated by the federation. He said that the names would be given out later and declared that the federation had not opposed candidates solely because of their vote on the Esch-Cummins act, but had compiled the record of members of Congress on labor questions and sent them to the State labor federations.

Republicans Deny Labor Victory.

Clarence B. Miller, Secretary of the Republican National Committee, said that organized labor had generally opposed the Republican candidates for the Senate and those who had voted against the Esch-Cummins bill. He said that the fight of organized labor to defeat men who had voted independent of labor apparently had been lost. "Certainly this is true in the Senate elections," he added. "As labor fought Senators Wadsworth, Cummins, Lenroot, Watson and Brandegee, I cannot see where a victory for labor appears in the election returns."

Republican politicians say that as the relations between capital and labor will present one of the greatest problems that will come before Congress there is every reason to believe that the members will be able to deal with the question without bowing to the will of either capital or labor.

In the opinion of Washington observers there have been few Congresses in recent years more independent of either class, capital and labor, as the Sixty-seventh or next Congress will be. They say that the new Congress was elected by such large majorities as to make it thoroughly representative of the people and that therefore the economic questions and the matters affecting capital and labor will be taken up in a spirit of working out measures that will give a fair deal to all sides

CHRISTENSEN FUND $23,892.

Farmer-Laborites Had $8,500 Lent by Marie Tudor Garland.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Contributions to the Farmer-Labor Party's campaign aggregated $23,892.45, and expenditures were approximately the same amount, according to a report filed today with the Clerk of the House of Representatives. The report included all receipts to Nov. 2.

The contributions included gifts of $100 and $200 from thirteen labor union locals and two loans aggregating $8,500 from Marie Tudor Garland, Buzzard's Bay, Mass.

WASSERVOGEL WINS OVER M'GOLDRICK

With Three Districts Missing Republican Has Lead of 2,036.

Tabulation of previously unreported election districts in the count of the vote for Justices of the Supreme Court made certain the election of Isidor Wasservogel, Republican, over Justice Edward J. McGoldrick, Democrat, and increased the lead of James O'Malley, Republican. With three election districts, all in Manhattan, missing, Mr. Wasservogel's lead over Justice McGoldrick was 2,036. The practically complete returns put District Attorney Edward Swann, Democrat, whose defeat was indicated on Thursday, 3,565 votes behind Justice McGoldrick.

This constituted an absolutely safe margin on the face of the returns. The closeness of the vote, however, makes an inspection of the void and protested ballots probable, if that and the allegations of fraud and looseness in making the count does not lead to an application for a recount.

Justices Giegerich, Guy, Platzek, Erlanger and Ford, who were renominated by both the Democratic and Republican Parties, were, of course, re-elected. Justice William P. Burr, with a total of 272,286 votes, led the eight contesting candidates. District Attorney Francis Martin of the Bronx was second with 271,393, Mr. O'Malley third with 269,741 and Mr. Wasservogel fourth with 262,899. Justice Burr and Mr. Martin are Democrats, and there was an even break politically on the four places for which there were contests.

The vote, with three election districts in Manhattan and none in the Bronx missing, follows:

DEMOCRATIC.

Borough.	Martin.	Burr.	McGoldrick.	Swann.

Borough.	O'Malley.	Wasservogel.	Davis.	Marsh.
Total	269,741	262,899	253,800	236,844

Of the election districts missing, two are in the Ninth Assembly District and one is in the Nineteenth Assembly District. All three are believed to be Republican. No returns for the vote on Justices were returned at Police Headquarters from these districts, and efforts to trace them failed.

AUGUST CLAESSENS BEATEN.

Ousted Socialist Assemblyman Loses to Lieberman by 690.

Revised and almost complete returns from the Seventeenth Assembly District in Manhattan show that August Claessens, one of the five ousted Socialist Assemblymen who sought re-election, has been defeated by Nathan Lieberman, fusion candidate. With only one election district missing, which cannot change the result, the count last night stood: Lieberman 7,835, Claessens 7,145, a plurality of 690 for Lieberman.

Thus three of the five ousted Socialists have been beaten.

Complete returns from the Eighth Assembly District, the Bronx, give Edward J. Walsh, Democrat, 131 over Charles A. Connor, Republican, who on the face of earlier and less complete returns appeared to have won.

Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Democratic candidate for re-election from the Twentieth Assembly District, Manhattan, who led on earlier returns, has been defeated by his Republican opponent, Mario Di Pirro. Both are ex-service men. The district is normally strongly Democratic.

Miss Marguerite L. Smith, Republican, who has served one term in the lower house at Albany, was re-elected from the Nineteenth Assembly District with a plurality of 2,130 over Martin J. Healy, Democrat. This vote does not include figures from the Fourteenth Election District, where the canvassing board sent in a blank sheet marked "No result," according to officials of the Board of Elections.

KENTUCKY SAFE FOR COX.

He Has a Lead of 3,713—Beckham Beaten by 7,500.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 5.—Unofficial returns from all but four precincts in Kentucky in Tuesday's Presidential race, give Governor Cox a majority of 3,713 votes over Senator Harding. The figures are: Cox, 463,072; Harding, 459,359.

Five precincts are missing in the Senatorial race and the remaining 3,221 gave Richard P. Ernst, Republican, a majority of 7,596 over Senator J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat. The figures are: Ernst, 463,465; Beckham, 455,869.

Republican and Democratic State campaign managers refused to admit the defeat of either candidate. John L. Grayot, Democratic State Campaign Chairman, has charged the Republican organization with fraud, and declared an official count would re-elect Beckham. C. H. Searcy, Republican campaign manager, is emphatic in his denial of fraud and says a recount will show Harding has carried the State.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Attorney General Palmer said today that charges of fraud in elections in Kentucky had been referred to District Attorney Slattery at Covington for investigation.

POWERS DEFINE SPHERES IN TURKEY

in the composition of all international commissions, whether existing or to be established, charged with the organization and supervision of the different public services and for insuring the protection of racial, religious and linguistic minorities. However, in the event the Turkish Government or Kurdistan is desirous of obtaining external assistance in the local administration or policing of areas in which the special interests of France and Italy are respectively recognized, the contracting powers undertake not to dispute the preferred claim of the powers whose special interests in such area are recognized to supply such assistance. This assistance shall be specially directed to enhancing the protection afforded to the racial and linguistic minorities in said areas."

Equality of Commercial Privileges.

Article II. provides that the products and manufactured articles coming from or going to the territories, dominions, colonies or protectorates of the contracting powers shall enjoy in the areas defined perfect equality in all matters relating to commerce and navigation. The next article reads:

"Article III.—The contracting powers undertake to render diplomatic support to each other in maintaining their respective positions in the areas in which their special interests are recognized."

Article IV. provides that the Anatolian railway, the Mersina-Tarsus-Adana railway and that part of the Bagdad railway lying in Turkish territory as defined by the treaty with Turkey shall be operated by a company with its capital furnished equally by British, French and Italian financial groups. The French Government under this article has the privilege of exchanging its interests in the Bagdad railway for the exclusive exploitation of the railroads within its area of special interest.

The signatories agree to support the unification in the near future of the entire railway system in the territory remaining Turkish by the establishment of a joint company to work those lines.

Equality of treatment regarding railway rates and facilities for passengers, whatever their nationality, destination or origin, is provided for.

Article V. fixes the boundaries of the areas in which the special interests are recognized. The next article is as follows:

"Article VI.—The mandatory powers for the territories detached from the former Turkish Empire will enjoy, vis a vis with the contracting powers, the same rights and privileges as the powers whose special interests are recognized in the areas defined in Article V."

Article VII. reserves to Italy the right of the exploitation of the Heraclea coal basin.

By Article VIII. the French and Italian Governments agree to withdraw their troops from the respective areas when the signatories are agreed in considering that the treaty of peace with Turkey is being executed.

By Article IX. the signatories with special interests accept responsibility for supervising the execution of the terms of the treaty with Turkey for the protection of minorities within their respective areas.

The agreement is to be ratified, it is provided in Article XI., and be communicated to the Turkish Government and to be published and come into force at the same time the Turkish Peace Treaty goes into effect.

A convention has been concluded between France and Great Britain to govern the military relations of the Allies at Constantinople, it is announced today. The Governments of the two countries have reached an agreement on principles relating to a number of points for execution of the Turkish Peace Treaty, the announcement adds.

It was agreed that a British General should have the Presidency of Constantinople for approximately two years after Turkey's ratification of the Peace Treaty. The Presidency of the Financial Commission will be given to a French representation at first, and Italy, it is understood, will have the chairmanship of the Railroad Commission.

REPORTS ADRIATIC ACCORD.

Rome Paper Says Italy Gives Up Claims on Dalmatia.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The London Times prints a dispatch from Rome which gives the Popolo Romano as authority for the statement that an agreement on the Adriatic question has been reached, the Jugoslavs having obtained satisfaction by Italy's renouncing her claim to Dalmatia.

BALLOT COUNTING FOUND DEMORALIZED

Talley Says Officials' Fatigue Gave Opportunity for Manipulation.

EVIDENCE IS INDEFINITE

Irregularities Discovered in Case of Twenty-six Votes Recovered at Sewer Opening.

"A complete demoralization of the machinery for counting the ballots" was alleged yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley as a result of his investigation of charges of election frauds. Mr. Talley said that the big vote caused a looseness in the methods of the election district officials, and declared that they began to get tired by the time they reached the count for judicial candidates. He made no further charges of fraud and did not indicate that any definite evidence of it had been discovered, but declared that fatigue on the part of some of the election district officials undoubtedly furnished an opportunity for manipulation by others.

Assistant District Attorney James G. Wallace examined the twelve members of the election board in the Thirteenth Election District of the Fourth Assembly District to get an explanation of why twenty-six ballots marked for the Democratic candidates, except Isidor Wasservogel, Republican candidate for the Supreme Court, happened to be found at a sewer opening at Orchard and Stanton Streets, not far from the polling place. Mr. Wallace obtained evidence of irregularities, but was not able to fix definitely the responsibility for the disappearance of the ballots from the ballot box.

According to Mr. Wallace, the day inspectors said the ballots were all right when they left the polling place, in Public School 92, at 6 o'clock, and the canvassing inspectors, who relieved the day officials, denied all knowledge of the missing ballots.

Mrs. Marion Schrader, Chairman of the board, said she quit work at 6 o'clock, and everything was all right then. She said that toward the end of the afternoon the ballot box became so filled that the ends of the ballots protruded from the slot. Other officials of those examined said that during the last hour a number of ballots were placed on top of the box, as it was impossible to force them into it.

Murray Kosof and Abraham Kressner, ballot clerks, admitted, Mr. Wallace said, that they had not filed the report of the number of ballots voted and unused, as required by law, and declared that they did not know that they were required to do so.

Joseph Eisenstein, Max Frank, David Meisel and Herman Dergeger, the canvassing Inspectors, said they could throw no light on what happened to the ballots. Mr. Wallace said the canvassing board had failed to file the returns with the Board of Elections and that the only papers sent there were two unsigned tally sheets, which should have been signed by all four canvassing Inspectors. He said it was possible that these returns had been filed with the County Clerk, as is also required, but that if so they were in sealed envelopes, which could not be opened until the canvass by the Board of County Canvassers. He said the ballot box in this district would be opened eventually, but that it was inadvisable to open it for examination of the ballots until after the official canvass.

"This case is an illustration of the incompetency of election officials," Mr. Wallace said. "If they are to be believed, nobody gave them any instructions or at least any instructions that they understood. Only one member of the board had ever served before, and two were sworn in to replace two members who did not qualify the night before the election."

Swann Says Inquiry Is Unbiased.

District Attorney Swann said that his investigation was in no way influenced by the fact that he had been a candidate. He denied a published report that he intended to resign and said he believed it to be unfair to print it. "The District Attorney is investigating charges of specific acts or alleged crimes against the election law, such as usually happen in every election," he said. "This will not in any way affect the final result of the election. The fact that the District Attorney was a candidate is forgotten by him and he accepts without question the count of the vote as announced as final and conclusive, so far as he is personally concerned."

Assistant District Attorneys John T. Dooling and Albert B. Unger continued the investigation of charges of fraud in certain Harlem election districts, and devoted most of the day to an inspection of the returns filed with the Board of Elections, giving particular attention to those affecting the judicial candidates. Mr. Dooling said that certain discrepancies had been discovered.

John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections, sent a letter to Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright asking him to take special care of the ballots in his possession.

Although the Socialist Party was not prepared to say officially yesterday what course it intended to pursue with regard to alleged election frauds, some of the defeated Socialist candiates were bitter in their denunciation of Election Day methods. At Socialist headquarters it was said that frauds were committed against Louis Waldman, Socialist candidate for the Assembly in the Eighth Manhattan District, and August Claessens, candidate for the Assembly in the Seventeenth Manhattan District.

Spent Nothing, Received Nothing.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Governor-elect Nathan L. Miller spent nothing and received nothing to further his election Tuesday, according to his personal expense statement, which was filed today with the Election Bureau of the Secretary of State's office.

GOV. SMITH DEFERS POLITICAL PLANS

Will Rest at French Lick—Returns to His Desk at the Capitol.

ALBANY, Nov. 5.—Governor Smith said today that no one, not even himself, knew what his political plans for the future might be. "I haven't given them a thought," he remarked.

Tired by the strenuous campaign he made during the month preceding the election, the Governor returned to his desk at the Capitol today, where he found many telegrams of congratulation on the fight he made for re-election. "Congratulations, Governor. You almost swam up the Niagara River," one of the telegrams read.

The Governor plans to go to French Lick, Ind., next Monday. He will remain away from Albany about two weeks, and then intends to do much work.

Questioned as to whether he would consent to be a candidate in the Mayoralty election in New York City next year, the Governor said he had nothing to say about the future. "There is a lot of work for me right here," he said, "and I'll be busy when I return from French Lick. I'll also have a lot of work to do during December, but right now I need a rest."

Reviewing the campaign, the Governor said that he "wouldn't care to go through another one." He announced that he had received a telegram from ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller, his successful opponent, thanking him for his message of congratulation sent yesterday.

The Governor expressed deep satisfaction at having been able to carry Albany, Troy, Rensselaer, Watervliet and Cohoes, in the capital district. When he ran ahead of Governor-elect Miller in this city last Tuesday it was the first time since 1896, when the city had given a plurality for any Democratic candidate for a State office.

HARDING TO CONSULT SOME 'BEST MINDS'

ber of conspicuous figures who might answer the description Mr. Harding has laid down.

So far as the Senate itself is concerned, this undercurrent of gossip has carried frequently the names of such Republican Senators as Lodge, of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; Knox, of Pennsylvania, a former Secretary of State and a treaty irreconcilable; Johnson, of California, another irreconcilable leader, and Lenroot, of Wisconsin, a leader of the reservationists. On the Democratic side there has been mention, among others, of Senators Underwood, of Alabama, the party leader; Hitchcock, of Nebraska, who led the fight for ratification; Simmons, of North Carolina, and Robinson, of Arkansas.

Hoover and Root Mentioned.

Among those outside the Senate frequent speculative mention has been made of former President Taft, a leader for international peace and a supporter of the Versailles League; Herbert Hoover, another League advocate; Elihu Root, former Secretary of State and a participant in the recent international court negotiations; Charles Evans Hughes, Republican presidential nominee in 1916; Myron T. Herrick, former Ambassador to France; Henry P. Davison, head of the American Red Cross; former Senator George Sutherland of Utah, and many other Republicans.

There is a much smaller list of Democrats outside the Senate whose names gossip has associated with the "meeting of minds." Among them is Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State and a member of the Peace Commission, often mentioned by Mr. Harding in the campaign as disagreeing with Mr. Wilson on some features of the Versailles covenant; Frank L. Polk, the State Department's former Under Secretary; Chief Justice White, and George Harvey, the New York editor.

There has been even less speculation with regard to what women would be asked for advice in the making of the new plan for an international association. It is expected, however, that Mr. Harding will choose those who have been closely associated with public activities of their sex, as to be familiar with the sentiments of their sisters regarding American membership in the League, or any substitute for it.

POLICE STILL SEEK FOR LOST BALLOTS

No Trace Found of Boxes from Three Manhattan Election Districts.

TOTAL CANVASS HELD UP

Trouble Laid to Incompetence of Officials Rather Than to Efforts at Fraud.

Late last night policemen and agents of the Board of Election were still searching for three missing sets of ballot boxes from as many election districts in Manhattan. From these districts—the 30th and 38th of the Ninth Assembly District and the 14th of the Nineteenth Assembly District—no returns had been received, although when the discovery was made almost forty-eight hours had elapsed since the polls closed.

When persons compiling the returns of the vote for Supreme Court Justices in Manhattan and the Bronx discovered the incompleteness of the figures they had to work with in a very close contest, returns from five instead of three election districts were missing. In addition to those already mentioned one election district in the Fourteenth Assembly District in Manhattan and the Seventh Election District of the Seventh Assembly District in the Bronx had not been heard from. The ballot boxes from these districts were finally discovered and the sheets on which returns are made to Police Headquarters were obtained.

Never since the election machinery has been as highly organized as at present have returns been so late in coming in as this year. Ordinarily those compiling election night returns for the newspapers have been able to "clean up" their work on the day following election. Last night these men were still at work assembling figures. Complete returns from the election for Senate and Assembly in the city were still lacking, although the election districts not included in previous totals were not sufficient in number to vitally affect the result, except in a few close contests.

The fact that the number of votes cast in Tuesday's election was the largest in the history of this city, that there were three separate ballots, and a greater number of "split" votes than ever, undoubtedly had a great deal to do with the delay. John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections, however, said that lack of experienced and intelligent canvassers was responsible in a greater measure than any other factor that entered into the situation.

The canvassers had the most trouble, it appears, over the returns on the Supreme Court contests in Manhattan and the Bronx. There were thirteen candidates for nine places. There was scarcely a ballot with a "straight" party vote in this contest, for Democrats were running with Republican indorsement, Republicans with Democratic indorsement, and with the indorsement of only party. In addition there were candidates of minor parties. With the vote zig-zagging across party lines the count of the votes was a task which kept election boards in many of the 2,737 election districts at work until long after dawn on the morning after election.

President Voorhis said yesterday that in his opinion the carving out of election districts had been done as intelligently as possible and that the delay was not due to the fact that the number of registered voters in many of these units was too large to permit the polling of the vote and the count within the hours allotted. The average number of voters in election districts was 502, but in some districts there were as many as 700, which had been set as the limit.

Under the plan that was in force prior to the enfranchisement of women, 400 was the quotient used in carving out the election districts. Until three years ago the work of polling and canvassing was performed by one board in each voting precinct. Now there is one board sitting while the voting is in progress and another board taking hold when the count and tabulation begins after the polls close. This enlargement of the working force, in itself has been a handicap.

Considerable difficulty was experienced by the Board of Elections in getting enough canvassers for the 2,737 polling places. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Election Day, in response to an emergency demand on the County Committees of the two major parties, a batch of eligibles was rushed down to the Board of Elections and sworn in as canvassers. But at that there were vacancies in very many districts, and when the time to canvass the votes came so many of these recruits failed to appear that about 500 men and women had to be drafted from the crowds about polling places.

"There was not time to give these persons the necessary instructions that our canvassers receive, nor to put them through the examination the board has held in recent years for the purpose of determining whether those sent here by the two County Committees are qualified for the work," said Mr. Voorhis.

"Would not the installation of voting machines go a long way to eliminate the difficulties with which the board has had to contend?" Mr. Voorhis was asked.

"They did try machinery in a few west side districts two or three years ago, before I came here, and found them unsatisfactory," was his reply. "They are working well up State, I am told, and they might work well here, but there are some fundamental objections."

Mr. Voorhis said one objection was that the voter must accept in good faith the perfect operation of the machine, although he had no means of knowing whether his vote actually was recorded as cast. Another objection was the fact that machine voting did not permit of corrections.

"You cannot go behind the record made by a voting machine," said Mr. Voorhis. "A recount would be impossible or next to impossible. The only way in which a defective record could be corrected would be by having every voter who had voted for the candidate take oath to that effect."

Stories are coming from police stations throughout the city to illustrate the way in which the canvassing boards were working while the public was waiting for returns. In one precinct the perturbed head of a canvassing board rushed in at 2 o'clock in the morning to say that his board had fallen down on the work of tabulation, and he asked that a policeman be sent to show how it should be done.

Many boards, according to officials of the Election Board, after puzzling over the figures for hours, broke down from sheer exhaustion and were compelled to quit work temporarily before the canvass was completed.

COURT ORDER STOPS CLOSED SHOP STRIKE

Massachusetts Injunction Issued in Plant Shoe Factory Case.

FIGHT BEGAN IN MAY, 1919

Payment of Strike Benefits, Picketing, Intimidation and Circularizing of Public Forbidden.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—A strike of shoemakers which began at the factory of the Thomas G. Plant Company on May 13, 1919, in an effort by labor unions to enforce a closed shop, is ordered to cease in an injunction granted by the Superior Court today.

Local unions of the United Shoe Workers of America and of the Allied Shoe Workers' Union of Greater Boston are enjoined perpetually by the decree from any attempt to bring about a closed shop, from proceeding with the existing strike or any further strike for that purpose, from paying strike benefits, intimidating employes, picketing the plant and from circularizing either employes or the public on the subject. The injunction is said to be one of the most sweeping granted by a court in this State.

The decree returned by Judge Sisk also enjoins the labor unions involved from inducing or endeavoring to induce any person now or hereafter in the employ of the plaintiff to leave such employment or to abandon any written contract of employment or otherwise cease fully to perform such contract, and from interfering in any way with the business of the plaintiff, and from following any of the workmen of the plaintiff in groups, and from dissuading persons from accepting employment with the plaintiff, and from purposely interfering with employes or customers in the use of the public highways, and from persistently talking with such employes regarding their employment or their relations to the defendant after they may have definitely objected to further conversation on such subjects, and from applying opprobrious epithets to them, and from assaulting any of such workmen or encouraging others so to do, and from holding out the plaintiff as being unfair or prejudiced against union labor, and from endeavoring by pamphlets, circular letters or otherwise to persuade customers of the plaintiff or others using its manufactured product to cease or refrain from having business dealings with it, and from endeavoring to promote in any way a closed ship in the factory, and from doing anything designed so to place any of the plaintiff's employes as more effectually to demand or require a closed shop in the factory of the plaintiff or in any line of work therein conducted, and from interfering in any way with the plaintiff in its dealings or contracts with its employes as individuals.

The controversy between the former employes of the Plant Company and the management has been in the courts much of the time since the strike was started. The factories of the company were closed for several months, but reopened with workers engaged under a contract system of employment, and the company sought relief from picketing and other activities by strike sympathizers who sought to bring the new employes into the movement for a closed shop.

NEW MARK FOR UNEMPLOYED

Demand for Workers in Massachusetts Decreases 42 Per Cent.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The highest record of unemployment for any month this year was announced today in the report of the State Public Employment Office for October. Orders from employers fell off 22 per cent. from the preceding month, and 42 per cent. from the figures of a year ago.

"The closing or part time operation of factories," Supt. Harry G. Dunderdale said in the report, "has resulted in large numbers of men and women visiting the office in search of work, but a majority of the applicants, having spent a large portion of their lives in the textile and like industries, are not physically able to accept positions which call for sturdy manual labor."

American Woolen Mills in Lawrence Blame Lack of Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 5.—The four mills of the American Woolen Company in this city Thursday night closed for the remainder of the week, and on next Monday will go on a four-day-a-week schedule.

The mills have been running on a six-day schedule, but, according to the agents, with only about 50 per cent. of their personnel. Lack of orders was given as the reason for the curtailment.

MONON FORCE AGAIN CUT.

Railroad Shops Reduce Locomotive Workers 25 Per Cent.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 5.—Notices were posted today at the Monon Railroad shops here announcing a 25 per cent. reduction in the working force of the locomotive department, to take effect Nov. 10.

This is the second cut since September. The new order will put 150 men out of work.

WILLYS-OVERLAND IDLE.

Automobile Plant Employing 15,000 Closes for Indefinite Period.

TOLEDO, Nov. 5.—Announcement was made here today that the Willys-Overland automobile plant, normally employing around 15,000 workers, will be shut down tomorrow for inventory.

It will remain closed for an indefinite period.

ENGINEER DIES IN WRECK.

Locomotive of Newport Train Derailed Under Suspicious Circumstances.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 5.—George Boles, engineer of Dedham, was killed and a fireman was seriously injured when a New York, New Haven & Hartford passenger train, bound for Newport, R. I., was partly derailed just south of Sandy Beach, in Tiverton, R. I., tonight. No passengers were hurt.

The police said they had been informed that the accident was due to tampering with a switch, and that a man and a woman had been seen running away from the spot just before the engine left the rails.

BOSTON BROKER FOUND DEAD

Told Friend He Had $2,000—Pockets Contained Only $1.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The body of Ambrose E. Roberts, head of the stock brokerage firm of A. E. Roberts & Co., was found in an alley in the Back Bay district today. The pockets contained only a fountain pen and one dollar. An autopsy failed to disclose the cause of death or any mark of violence. Medical Examiner Timothy Leary said there were indications that the body might have been dragged into the alley.

Dr. Frederick L. Hayes, Assistant Medical Examiner of Norfolk County, the last person known to have seen Roberts alive, said Roberts came to him last night for consultation and remarked that he had $2,000 in cash in his pockets.

Roberts's business associates said he had intended going to Chicago today or tomorrow, having received word from the police there that Gerard Hickey, his former chauffeur who disappeared last July, was held there charged with forging Roberts's name to a check.

VOTING RECORDS FOUND.

Bronx Tabulation Sheet Sent to Election Board in Error.

A missing tabulation sheet of the record of votes cast in the Seventh Election District of the Seventh Assembly District in the Bronx last Tuesday was discovered yesterday in the office of the Board of Elections, where it had been sent by mistake by Henry Stillman, Chairman of the board in that district. It was reported yesterday that all of the election records of the polling place, which was in Public School 44, at 176th Street and Prospect Avenue, had disappeared.

Chairman Stillman told the police that he had sent the ballots and the other election paraphernalia to the Tremont Avenue Police Station with the exception of the tabulation sheet, which he had sent to the Board of Elections. The police verified Mr. Stillman's statement and the Board of Elections announced the tabulation sheet would be returned to the police today.

DRY AGENTS SEIZE SAFE IN SALOON

WHISKY IS FOUND INSIDE

Counsel for Defendant Asks Punishment for Men Who Removed Property.

There was much ado yesterday afternoon in the Federal Building, Brooklyn, over the performance of four prohibition enforcement agents, who seized and removed from a saloon a big iron safe suspected of being the hiding place of liquor.

Armed with a search warrant, Agents Baer, Collins, Gherity and Miller yesterday went to the saloon of Gustave Metzger at 1,727 Atlantic Avenue, thinking to find a violation of the Volstead law. As they entered the place, they saw Metzger close and lock the door of a safe. He declined to open it and, after vainly trying to work the combination, the agents called a truckman, who removed the safe to the Government warehouse at Fifth Avenue and Fifteenth Street.

Metzger telephoned to his lawyer, Charles Harwood, who called upon United States District Attorney Leroy W. Ross, demanding that the safe be returned. In removing it, Mr. Harwood declared, the agents had exceeded their authority. Chief Prohibition Agent W. D. Allen finally had the safe taken back to Metzger's place. There it was opened by a safe expert, and two bottles of whisky were found. The whisky was seized and Metzger arrested for violation of the Volstead law.

As soon as he heard of the find, District Attorney Ross had an information drawn against Metzger and filed in court. When Metzger was taken before United States Commissioner McCabe the latter declined to hear the case on the information, which is an accusation in the nature of an indictment, presented by the District Attorney on his oath, without the intervention of a Grand Jury, asserting that the proper course was to first arraign Metzger before a United States Commissioner upon his arrest.

After some argument, Assistant District Attorney Eno took the information into the United States District Court and laid it before Judge Garvin. Judge Garvin finally directed that memoranda in the matter be filed by Nov. 12 and paroled Metzger in his own custody.

Mr. Harwood asked Commissioner McCabe to punish the agents for removing the safe from Metzger's place, but the Commissioner put the question off for a few days.

Following the 100 raids on the lower east side on Thursday there was a let-up yesterday in the activities of the prohibition enforcement agents. Frank L. Boyd, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, would give no information as to his future plans here other than that "my men are still making twenty-five or thirty cases a day against violators of the prohibition law."

There is a general impression that there will be further and more important raids within the next few days.

Charged by the police with suspicion of complicity with six men posing as Federal prohibition agents who stole two truckloads of liquors, valued at $30,000, and moved it away from the garage at 541 West Fifty-second Street on Oct. 9, these prisoners were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Levine in the West Side Court: James Gavin of 529 West Fifty-first Street; James Sheehan, 185 Columbus Avenue; James Leahy, 952 Columbus Avenue, and James Keenan, 504 West Forty-eight Street. Each man was held in bail of $10,000 for examination on Nov. 9. The fake agents, the police said, got away with the liquor by locking the garage employes in a storeroom.

SHOTS FLY IN ROBBER CHASE

Escaping Tombs Prisoner Run Down in Centre Street.

Thomas Donohue, alias Donovan, a mail robber wanted in Atlanta, Ga., was being escorted to the Tombs yesterday for an adjourned hearing before United States Commissioner Hitchcock in extradition proceedings when he broke away from the Deputy Marshals who had him in charge and made a desperate attempt to escape. Two other prisoners, Ellis B. Kittson and Jacob Rubin, who were also on their way to the Tombs, joined in the chase for Donohue, who was run down in Centre Street after three shots were fired and the neighborhood stirred to its depths.

Donohue is described by the authorities as one of the most dangerous of law breakers. It is charged that he held up a mail wagon on June 15 in Atlanta and compelled the chauffeur, under threat of instant death, to drive the vehicle to a lonely road near East View Cemetery. Then, it is alleged, he bound the chauffeur and a mail distributer and leisurely rifled the mail bags. He was arrested here by Patrolman O'Brien, who recognized him from descriptions sent out by the Atlanta police.

RADIO STRIKE AVERTED.

Operators on American Ships Continue Agreement Another Year.

All danger of a strike of radio operators was removed yesterday when at a conference in the office of the American Steamship Owners' Association, 17 Battery Place, the wage and working agreement with the radio operators on the American ships was extended to May 1, 1921, without any change in compensation, according to announcement of Winthrop L. Marvin, Vice President and General Manager of the Owners' Association.

TWO PAINTERS DIE IN FALL.

Ropes Supporting Their Working Platform Break—Employer Arrested

Two painters employed by Julius Levy, a contractor of 884 Steinway Avenue, Long Island City, were killed yesterday afternoon when the ropes supporting a scaffold on which they were working broke and they fell thirty feet to the ground. The men were working at the factory of Steinway & Sons, on Ninth Avenue, near Riker Avenue.

One of the dead men was Samuel Seidman, 20 years old, of 41 Maujer Street, Brooklyn, while the name of the other is unknown. Levy told the police that he had only hired him on Friday and did not ask his name. The contractor was arrested, and will be arraigned in the Long Island City Court today.

SEEK SWARTHY MAN AS WATERS SLAYER

Detectives Said to Have Clues to "James Dunn," Who Shared Victim's Room.

THINK ROBBERY THE MOTIVE

Evidence Reported Found That Waters Had Little Money When Killed in Hotel Here.

With one man under surveillance and the possibility of an arrest within twenty-four hours, the police were hopeful yesterday of clearing up the mysterious murder of Leeds Vaughn Waters, clubman and member of a well-known New York family, early Wednesday morning in the Plymouth Hotel, 257 West Thirty-eighth Street. Detectives were reported to have obtained clues expected to lead to the arrest of the swarthy-skinned man who, under the name of "James Dunn," shared the hotel room with Waters when the latter was beaten to death.

The detectives questioned a man who they believed knew Waters's slayer and could furnish a motive for the crime. What information they obtained was not revealed. It was said the man was permitted to go after the detectives were convinced he had given all the information he had concerning the man suspected of the slaying.

The detectives believed yesterday that Waters was killed by a frequenter of saloons and other resorts in the vicinity of the hotel. They learned that Waters visited one of these resorts a few hours before he was killed. The police also are convinced that the murder was inspired by a desire to rob the victim, although less than $8 was taken from him and the few articles of jewelry he wore were undisturbed. They held to the robbery theory because of information that Waters was believed by patrons of certain resorts to be wealthy and to carry with him large sums. They believe his slayer, after crushing Waters's skull with his victim's gold-headed walking stick and some other weapon not yet traced, searched Waters's pockets and found he had little money.

While several detectives combed the neighborhood for a man answering the description of Waters's supposed slayer, three other detectives went to the murdered man's home in Bronxville. It was reported they searched his room, but found nothing that would solve the crime. It was stated by one of the detectives, howeevr, that evidence was obtained indicating that Waters was in financial straits. Pawn tickets found in his room, it was said, revealed that within the last year he had pledged more than $10,000 worth of jewelry in this and other cities for sums totaling $1,400.

In tracing Waters's movements after he left the Delta Kappa Epsilon Club in West Forty-fourth Street, less than six hours before he was murdered, the police learned that Waters, accompanied by a dark-skinned man believed to be the one who shared the hotel room with him, were in a restaurant at Ninth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street soon after midnight Wednesday morning and that Waters purchased a meal for his companion and bought an apple for himself. Waters was seen near Broadway and Forty-second Street soon after he left the club, but was unaccompanied.

BERLIN POLICE SEIZE SEVERAL BIG HOTELS

Extraordinary Raid Is Supposed to be Campaign Against Profiteering.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—An extraordinary raid was carried out by the Berlin police on Wednesday, when they occupied and held completely for eight hours some of the largest and most fashionable hotels and restaurants.

Information as to the reason for this curious act is not officially vouchsafed, but it is believed that the raid was ordered by the anti-profiteering department of the police. At any rate, it is alleged that evidence of profiteering to the extent of 1,250,000 marks was discovered at one hotel, the Directors of which were arrested. Two other hotel company Directors this morning were reported still missing. The manager of the Eden Hotel, who was arrested, a year and a half ago was a waiter there, and it is probable that the police attribute his sudden rise to profiteering.

At a restaurant in the Zoo the manager was isolated for six hours without any reason being given, and permission was refused him to communicate with anybody.

Nine sacks of sugar were seized, but it was soon discovered that they were obtained in a legal way.

The police, of whom fifty were employed, acted, it is said, without warrants or any written orders. The Directors of the hotels and restaurants involved have forwarded vigorous protests to the Minister of Justice.

WOMEN VOTERS TO CONFER.

Regional Meeting on Nov. 15 and 16 Called by Mrs. F. Louis Slade.

Mrs. F. Louis Slade, Director of the Second Region of the League of Women Voters, which includes the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, issued a call yesterday for a regional conference of the league on Nov. 15 and 16 at the Hotel Pennsylvania. In her message to Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Chairman of the New York State League of Women Voters, and the other State Chairmen, Mrs. Slade said:

"We shall be glad to welcome as many members of your State League as can attend the meetings. We particularly hope that you will bring with you all the members of your State Board and the Chairman of your Standing Committee."

The part women are to play in politics in the future and legislation desired by the league will be discussed. Mrs. Maud Wood Park, National Chairman of the league, will attend.

WOULD SHIP POOR COTTON.

Texans Consider Sending Low-Grade Product to Europe.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Nov. 5.—A mass meeting of all holders of low grade cotton in Texas has been called for Nov. 16 at Waco for the purpose of considering the advisability and practicability of pooling all low grade cotton in this State for shipment and sale to European countries.

Thirty-two prominent cotton growers in twenty-nine counties have signed a plea, which is being sent broadcast as an announcement of the meeting.

MORE SEALSKINS IN SIGHT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Sealskins promise to be more plentiful as a result of the granting of permits by the Game and Fisheries Department of the Australian Government for the killing of seals off the southern coast of Victoria, according to official dispatches received here today.

Seals there have multiplied to a very great extent in recent years owing to the protection given by Government regulations, but during the last few months fishermen have complained that the seals have become so numerous that they are destroying the fish and damaging the nets.

Permission for the killing of seals is being granted, preferably to returned soldiers or to persons who undertake to kill 1,000 head, on the payment of a small royalty to the Game and Fisheries Department.

ARNSTEIN PLEA, NOT GUILTY

He is Arraigned in Washington in Stolen Securities Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—"Nicky" Arnstein of New York pleaded "not guilty" when arraigned here today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court on an indictment charging him and others with conspiring to bring stolen securities into the District from New York. Arnstein reserved the right to withdraw his plea within a week and to make other motions.

Justice Gould refused to decide the question of bail. One phase of the Arnstein case is now before the United States Supreme Court and as the Justice had been informed that an opinion from that court is expected Monday he said he would wait until Monday before ruling on the application.

David W. Sullivan and Willen W. Easterday, Washington brokers named with Arnstein in the indictment, were arraigned with him and also pleaded "not guilty." Both are at liberty on bail.

SUNK BOLSHEVIST STEAMER

French Destroyer Attacked Zenabe, Carrying Ammunition to Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4 (Associated Press)—The steamer Zenabe, flying the red flag and freighted with ammunition for the Turkish Nationalists in Trebizond, was sunk in the Black Sea off Batum by a French destroyer at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, according to advices received here today.

POLAND TO PASS PRISONERS

Agreement Made with Germany Covering Repatriation.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—A Berlin dispatch announces that the German and Polish governments have concluded an agreement, under which the Polish Government will permit the passage of Russian and German prisoners of war across Poland.

The Polish Government also agrees to hand over to the German authorities German members of the Russian Soviet forces taken prisoner in the campaign against the Bolsheviki.

The Man's Shop

Atop the Lord & Taylor Store

An Institution New to the Metropolis, with Express Elevators which Lift One Instantly into a Realm of Complete Masculinity

THERE are the Twentieth Century Limited, the Pennsylvania Special, and the Express Elevators to The Man's Shop at Lord & Taylor's—a floor whose lofty windows look straight down into the heart of Fifth Avenue.

It is a new thing for the man about town to discuss. Occupying the tenth floor of the store, The Man's Shop is like a man's planet, all to itself, with the busy city moving about beneath it.

From it one gets a bird's-eye view, not alone of the accepted styles in clothes, but of London's newest raincoats and single-stud evening shirts—of the latest gloves and the bootmaker's finest products—of this Fall's Spitalfields squares, and brushed yarn stockings from the Highlands — of lounge robes from England and motor scarfs from Zurich.

For The Man's Shop is unique among shops—immaculately, splendidly masculine—offering in ready-for-service form a complete wardrobe selected from the best the world affords for the busy man or the man of leisure, each article characterized by that correct simplicity and quietness of taste whose prime requisite is quality.

All in a setting as interesting as that of a most realistic play. There is an appropriate background for the business and street suits and topcoats; quite a different one for the requirements of the traveler and the sojourner in foreign parts; and yet another for the male characters in the metropolitan society drama, with its weddings, its afternoon saunterings and its opera—with the evening clothes actually shown in evening shadows.

The Man's Shop distinctly is a spot to visit.

If You Are in Quest of What a Man Wants

WHEN a man from the West strikes the Hudson River at Albany, he expects to find something different—an atmospheric difference, a difference in dress, a different arrangement of the elegances of life.

For he is nearing New York—the metropolis of the world.

When he alights on Manhattan he thrills with the realization of his expectations. He has reached that historic plateau, Murray Hill — the center of the greatest hotels and the finest shops and theatres in the world, on either side of that most wonderful business street, Fifth Avenue.

We, too, who live in this metropolitan district, whether born here or true Manhattanites from other sections of the globe, constantly feel this same thrill when we visit this most attractive sphere of human activity.

In the center of this plateau, on the Avenue, a short walk from any of the great railway terminals, is the Lord & Taylor store, atop of which, at the end of an express-elevator trip of twenty seconds is The Man's Shop — the journey's end if you are in quest of What a Man Wants.

It is a shop so new in character that New Yorkers are still talking about it —presenting the best that New York, London and Paris can offer. The greater his hurry, the more pressing his demand, the more vividly will the limitless resources of this shop shine forth.

If it be a suit of Scotch tweeds, he will find it. If it is a suit of English blue diagonal, he will find it. If it is a mixture, a herringbone, a brown or business-like gray or check, the suit will be readily forthcoming.

IN overcoats, he will find the same conservative taste and perfect fit, in a numerous selection made of materials imported by Lord & Taylor's Man's Shop and made up by leading American tailors.

Among the scores of imported coats he will find English Guards' Coats, of the type worn by the Prince of Wales; and raincoats of those strictly British materials which are not imitated elsewhere—made for this shop by London coatmakers. Then there is the Asheville Coat, made of the famous Biltmore hand-loom homespuns woven at Grove Park Inn, North Carolina—a coat sold exclusively by this shop which has obtained the sole right to offer this sturdy homespun in ready-to-wear coats.

OR if it be a golf suit, made in England, or made here of English goods, or a pair of Scotch golf hose which only an Edinboro house would be expected to supply, or a pair of Tom Logan golf shoes—he may be fitted and on his way to the links without loss of time.

Whatever his desires—he will not be annoyed with "novelties." Just those things that men of the world are using he will find here, selected by a rigid standard of correctness—some new with the season—others approved by long usage.

In the underwear offered he will find adequate assortments from the great underwear makers of England, as well as of the United States; in the lounge robes and house gowns, everything from an English flannel to the richest of imported brocaded silks —quite the largest assortment he has ever seen.

Where he might expect to find a few offerings of imported woolen hosiery, just now so much in vogue for street wear, he will find probably the largest assortments ever brought to America—with wide selections of imported French lisle and silk hosiery.

SHIRTS in such variety of fabrics and patterns that they well nigh exhaust the range—and every shirt distinctly desirable, never approaching the venturesome in color or design; the ready-to-wear assortments backed up with a custom-made department.

And particularly evening dress shirts and collars, which are as unquestionably correct as the evening clothes and boots, and all the evening dress accessories shown in the room especially set apart for them.

One could keep on, mentioning—pajamas, from the sheerest India silks to imported flannels; sweaters and knitted golf waistcoats; walking boots, brogues, oxfords and dancing shoes; tweed caps, felt and velour hats—until a wardrobe trunk would be needed for one's purchases.

The Man's Shop extends you a cordial invitation to call—
this morning, this noon, or on the way home.

GOMPERS SAYS MAN MUST RULE MACHINE

STEEL CORPORATION SCORED

W. B. Dickson Asserts Its Autocracy Unchecked Will Cause Feudalism.

The celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the American Society of Merchanical Engineers, held last night at the Engineers Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, not only was participated in by men of prominence, but brought congratulatory messages from public men in all parts of the country. President and Vice President elect Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Charles M. Schwab and Andrew J. Peters were among those who telegraphed their wishes for the society's continued prosperity.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, in his address pointed out that one of the problems facing American industry is the checking of the tendency to have the machine replace the man. The process already has been carried too far, he said, for in many places the man has become "a human connecting link" in the machine and mastered by it instead of controlling the machine itself.

Mr. Gompers said:

"During the last fifty years the labor movement has endeavored to protect the workman against the inroads of the machine upon his own life. Our fundamental effort toward this end we epitomized in this declaration: 'The labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce.' We knew that human labor was inseparable from thinking, living beings, but it took the organized power of our labor organizations to secure recognition of this principle in law and in practice. Workmen's compensation laws and other legislation of a similar nature are a recognition of this fundamental.

"I see, however, before the labor movement a great future, as I also see a great future before the engineering profession, if the engineer should join hands with the workman—both devoting their energies to one cause, namely, the development of a kind of industry and a kind of work in which the man will not only learn the processes of production, but each day will have increasing opportunities to develop those human functions which are essentially intelligent."

William B. Dickson, Vice President of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, criticised the "autocratic" United States Steel Corporation and the Carnegie labor policy. He said:

"The autocratic policy of the United States Steel Corporation is diametrically opposed to American ideals and if it and similar organizations in other industries continue to grow and maintain their autocratic attitude then there can be only one result—industrial feudalism; feudalism with a high degree of comfort for the workers, but none the less feudalism.

"I believe that the greatest task to which American employes must address themselves is the devising of practical ways in which labor can be given the full recognition to which, as an equal partner, it is entitled. Any manifestation of autocracy is repugnant to the American people, whether it proceeds from a President of a corporation, a President of a labor union or a President of the United States. What is the answer? Only one—an industrial democracy."

J. Herbert Case, acting Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, told of the part the banks of the country are taking in reconstruction. Fred J. Miller, President of the society; Edwin Ludlow, Vice President of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, Henry R. Towne, A. P. Davis and Charles F. Scott also spoke.

The celebration was one of 39 similar meetings held simultaneously in the leading industrial centres of the country.

TO URGE THOMPSON PLANKS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Mayor William Hale Thompson's platform, which was rejected by Chairman Hays, Governor Lowden, Senator McCormick and other Republican leaders at the Republican National Convention, may get an airing when the House of Representatives meets in December.

Representative M. A. Michaelson is likely to urge some of the planks, and it is said that Representatives Mason, Sproul, Mann and Madden will help Michaelson. Senator McCormick's help is not expected nor wanted, says a friend of the Mayor.

One thing the Mayor wants is an amendment to the income tax law to exempt incomes of less than $5,000. Another plank says:

"We appeal to Congress to adopt without delay a resolution declaring the United States at peace with the world, to repeal all wartime legislation, and demand of President Wilson that our soldiers now abroad be brought home forthwith."

Another plank reads: "We advocate the amendment of the United States Constitution so that Congress shall have the power to conscript gifts to, or inheritances by, any individual in excess of $1,000,000."

THREE HOLD UP 60 AND STEAL $4,700

SNATCH CASHIER'S PAYROLL

Work Like Experienced Robbers and Escape Without Trouble in Motor Car.

While sixty men standing in a payroll line looked on with their hands in the air, three armed men snatched up the $4,700 payroll of the United States Trucking Company of 281 North Seventh Street, Brooklyn, yesterday and sped away unmolested in an automobile. The holdup men also robbed some of the employes who had just stepped out at the head of the line with their week's wages in unopened envelopes.

Harry Eckles, cashier for the trucking company, was paying off the employes when an automobile drove up to the curb unnoticed except by a few of the men at the end of the line. Three men got out of the car without haste, walked deliberately to the cashier's booth and then suddenly became active, apparently acting on a careful plan.

One man went to the foot of the line, pistol in hand, and saw that the men there did not flank the robbers. Another stood at the head of the line and saw that every man kept his hands up. The third man swept the pay envelopes into a small cloth sack which he took from his pocket and hurriedly ransacked the clothes of the employes who had just stepped out of the line after signing the payroll. Then the man with the money ran to the car and started the motor, while his retreat was covered by his two companions, who then joined him. They were out of sight before the astonished employes could think of pursuit.

"They worked like old hands at the business," said Charles Spring, Superintendent of the company, in reporting the holdup to the police. "But they were young men—none more than 25 years old. The leader spoke perfect English and all were well dressed. They certainly looked like men who would shoot if a victim batted an eye."

Although they were able to get no accurate description of the robbers' car, the police of the Bedford Avenue Station believe it was a taxicab. No one caught the figures on the license plate.

MILLIONAIRE HELD AS STOCK SWINDLER

Arrest Reveals Story of Ex-Convict's Rise to Riches—50 Per Cent. Dividends Lure.

Charged with operating a "get rich quick" scheme, Adolf Pricken, head of a chain of warehouses on the west side of this city adjacent to the North River waterfront, was arrested yesterday at the direction of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Brooklyn. He was arraigned late in the afternoon before Magistrate McCloskey in Adams Street Police Court and held in $50,000 bail for examination on Tuesday. A bond was suplied by a surety company.

Pricken was arrested by Detective Charles Eason in his office at 534 Washington Street. The arrest revealed an amazing story of how a man who served two terms in prison and began life anew only five years ago had amassed a fortune estimated at more than a million dollars in that comparatively short time.

Pricken is President of the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., whose executive offices are at the Washington Street address. He is also President of the Thirty-fourth Street Stores, Inc., Washington Street Stores, Inc., Charlton Street Stores, Inc., and Jayne Street Stores, Inc. Other officers in the concerns include Adolph E. Gutgsell, attorney, of 41 Park Row, Theodore Southard, brother-in-law of Pricken of 1,624 University Avenue, Frank A. Page of 418 Seventy-fifth Street, Brooklyn, and Lorlys E. Rogers, an attorney of 41 Park Row. The affairs of Rogers figured prominently in the newspapers a number of years ago. No charge of any kind has been made against any of these men.

$500,000 of Stock Sold.

About six weeks ago complaints were made to the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn concerning the sale of stock in the Thirty-fourth Street Stores and the Washington Street Stores. Mr. Lewis delegated Assistant District Attorney Louis Goldstein to make an investigation into the affairs of Pricken. Mr. Goldstein subpoenaed the books of the concern. As a result of the investigation, Mr. Lewis said, it was discovered that some of the corporations of which stock was sold were "paper corporations," and their stock worthless.

Mr. Lewis said that many persons bought the stock on the representation that it would bring in guaranteed dividends of 50 per cent. a year. He said that about $500,000 of stock was sold, and that the purchasers were widely scattered, some of them living as far away as Maine.

The specific charge on which Pricken was arraigned was grand larceny, arising out of alleged fraudulent and false representations made in the sale of $11,000 of stock to Thomas Fynes of 379 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn. After ordering the arrest of Pricken, District Attorney Lewis submitted the evidence found by Mr. Goldstein to the Kings County Grand Jury. That body had not completed its inquiry last night, and will take it up again today.

Pricken's Prison Record.

In his investigation of Pricken's personal affairs Mr. Goldstein discovered that he was convicted of a $25,000 forgery in Philadelphia on June 15, 1905, and was sentenced to eight years in the City Prison. After he was released from jail in Philadelphia, Pricken obtained work with Park & Tilford' in this city, and committed a series of thefts amounting to more than $10,000. On July 6, 1911, he was sentenced by Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions, to serve four years and five months in Sing Sing. He was released in 1915. The search for Pricken previous to his arrest took detectives all over Continental Europe and back to this country. He was finally located in St. Paul, Minn. His picture in the New York Rogue's Gallery is No. 26,368.

Pricken lives at 251 West Ninety-eighth Street. He also maintains a suite of rooms at the Hotel Pennsylvania and a country estate at Montrose, N. Y., which was at one time the home of William H. Seward, who was Secretary of State in President Lincoln's Cabinet. He is about 45 years old, tall and thin.

Pricken was represented in court by Attorney Peter P. Smith of 44 Court Street, Brooklyn. When the question of bail was brought up Mr. Smith told the Magistrate that his client was a millionaire and that no bail was necessary to insure his presence in court.

"Well, if he is a millionaire," replied District Attorney Lewis, "he should have no difficulty in furnishing $50,000 bail." Magistrate McCloskey agreed with the prosecutor and set the bail in that sum.

"No Ponzi Stuff," Attorney Says.

After he left the courtroom Mr. Smith said to the newspaper reporters, "This is no Ponzi stuff." I am convinced of the innocence of Mr. Pricken and am positive that when the case is heard everybody else will be of the same opinion."

Mr. Smith denied that his client ever offered anybody 50 per cent. dividends, and asserted that when he sold the stock mentioned in the complaint he guaranteed only 1 per cent. a month and offered to buy it back at par at any time. Mr. Smith admitted that Pricken had served time in prison, but asserted that his record since had been clean. Mr. Smith said that after Pricken was released from Sing Sing he went to work as a longshoreman, and that while engaged in that occupation he saw the possibilities of the warehouse business. He saved what money he could from his earnings and borrowed several thousands of dollars more from friends. With this money he formed his first corporation, which was a money-maker from the start. From this beginning, according to Mr. Smith, Pricken extended his operations until they included the corporations now under his control.

TWO LAWYERS DISBARRED.

Another Suspended by Court for Improper Conduct.

Julius J. Propper, a lawyer and office associate of Paul Beck, who pleaded guilty to accepting money to keep Irving Price out of army service, was disbarred yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Propper had testified in behalf of Beck before the latter changed his plea and admitted his guilt, and Propper then sought an opportunity to change his testimony and "tell the truth."

"The giving of false testimony strikes at the very heart of the judicial system," said Presiding Justice Clarke, in disbarring Propper.

The Appellate Division also disbarred Charles A. Steinberg for violating an agreement with an attorney and giving false testimony concerning it.

Christian J. MacWilliams was suspended for six months for making improper use of the funds of a client. The punishment was not made more serious because the lawyer paid back the money and the court was not convinced that MacWilliams intended to risk his client's funds.

Dr. Rumely Jury Completed.

The jury in the trial of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, former owner of The Evening Mail, on an indictment returned against him two years ago charging him with conspiring against the Government during the World War, was completed at 5 o'clock last night in the Federal Court. Judge Grubb adjourned the trial until Monday morning, when the Government will begin the presentation of its case. It required two days to obtain the jury. Eight challenges were used by the defense and five by the prosecution. Dr. Rumely was indicted jointly with his attorneys, S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin R. Lindheim.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT
"I am very glad to give my sympathy and support to such a movement as this."

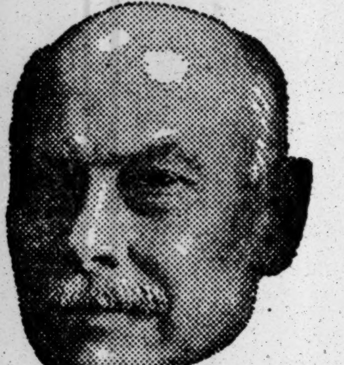
They All Agree

—that the Boy Scout idea is one of the finest things that ever happened to boyhood

—that the Boy Scout movement should be extended to reach every boy in the nation:

—that the Boy Scout program of out-door activities, character building and citizenship training is an indispensable aid to home, school and church in making boys into worthy men:

—that the Boy Scouts of America should be a permanent American institution supported by all the people.



ELBERT H. GARY
"The Boy Scout movement is conferring a lasting benefit upon our boys and the nation."

SAMUEL GOMPERS
"The American Federation of Labor eight years ago endorsed the Scout movement, and I am in hearty accord with that declaration."

THE SCOUT OATH

Before he becomes a scout, a boy must promise: On my honor I will do my best:

1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law;
2. To help other people at all times;
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

THE SCOUT LAW

1. A SCOUT IS TRUSTWORTHY.

A scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie, or by cheating, or by not doing exactly a given task, when trusted on his honor, he may be directed to hand over his scout badge.

2. A SCOUT IS LOYAL.

He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due; his scout leader, his home, and parents and country.

3. A SCOUT IS HELPFUL.

He must be prepared at any time to save life, help injured persons, and share the home duties. He must do at least one good turn to somebody every day.

4. A SCOUT IS FRIENDLY.

He is a friend to all and a brother to every other scout.

5. A SCOUT IS COURTEOUS.

He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people, and the weak and helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful or courteous.

6. A SCOUT IS KIND.

He is a friend to animals. He will not kill nor hurt any living creature needlessly, but will strive to save and protect all harmless life.

7. A SCOUT IS OBEDIENT.

He obeys his parents, scoutmaster, patrol leader, and all other duly constituted authorities.

8. A SCOUT IS CHEERFUL.

He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheery. He never shirks nor grumbles at hardships.

9. A SCOUT IS THRIFTY.

He does not wantonly destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing, and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay, but must not receive tips for courtesies or good turns.

10. A SCOUT IS BRAVE.

He has the courage to face danger in spite of fears and to stand up for the right against the coaxing of friends or the jeers or threats of enemies, and defeat does not down him.

11. A SCOUT IS CLEAN.

He keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd.

12. A SCOUT IS REVERENT.

He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.

MAYOR JOHN F. HYLAN

Why All Citizens Of New York Should Contribute To The Support Of The Boy Scouts

Because New York's greatest asset is not its banks and business blocks—but its boys.

Because three hundred thousand New York boys are waiting to be scouts today.

Because Boy Scouting is for your boys and your neighbors' boys; Fifth Avenue's boys and the Bowery's boys; rich boys and poor boys; everybody's boys. It is the great democracy of boyhood!

New York Protestants, Catholics, Jews! The heads of your Faiths want your boys to be scouts. New York Workingmen! The leaders of American labor want your boys to be scouts. New York Business Men! The greatest business leaders want your boys to be scouts.

All New York Citizens! The past, present and future Presidents of your country, the Governor of your State, the Mayor of your City, and other public men want all your boys to be scouts.

But the scout program cannot be effective without organized leadership. Leaders must be recruited and trained. National and city-wide organization is already established, but must be maintained. It is a going concern and requires adequate income.

All your boys will be scouts, and will grow up to clean-cut manhood and intelligent citizenship, if you will each and all contribute according to your means to support the Boy Scouts of America. It is a duty to both your boys and to your country.

GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING
"The Boy Scout movement has my unqualified approval."

CASH AND CREDIT IN PLENTY.

The November statement of money in circulation allows each of us $59.48, against $54.63 a year ago. The total this year is $6,393,140,821, against $5,816,925,779 last year. These are the figures of money in people's pockets and tills. Including the money in the Treasury and banks, not circulating, the total is $8,254,949,120, including $3,663,517,685 in gold. It would be a pity to publish these figures and deny credit to those deserving it. As a matter of fact, credit is not denied to those deserving it, but only to those not establishing their right to it by meeting the conditions of credit which are regarded as right and proper by competent judges. The crop-moving period begins with August. From that date up to Oct. 29 the Federal Reserve increased its discounts from $1,250,613,000 to $1,597,392,000, and the circulation of Federal Reserve notes has increased from $3,120,188,000 to $3,351,303,000.

The trouble with the agriculturists who complain that they cannot sell their crops is less that prices are low than that there are few buyers at the decline. Their best customers are foreign buyers who have neither cash nor credit to spare, and who are not able to supply goods in payment for lack of raw materials from which to produce them. Those who have goods have credit, if only they will sell instead of holding. The crops will move themselves if only buyer and seller can be brought together. There is no lack of cash, credit or crops. There is only a derangement of financial machinery, and it is most serious in the case of our least experienced exporters—the farmers. They have been accustomed to let others sell their property and make a profit belonging to them if they will earn it. When they become as good exporters as our manufacturers, they will have less to complain of.

REPUBLICANS AND THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Before and during the campaign the Republicans were greatly exercised by the number of superfluous civil servants. It is, in fact, a matter of general opinion that there are too many employés in the civil service of the Federal Government. Last February the introducer of a resolution, approved by the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, instructing the Executive Committee of that body to urge Senators and Representatives in Congress from this part of the country to inquire into the number of Federal employés, asserted that before the war there were 500,000 of these; that in the course of the war their number reached 1,500,000; that since the signing of the armistice their number had been reduced by some 650,000, and that there were still some 850,000—350,000 more than before the war. There are all sorts of varying figures. Thus, on July 31 the United States Civil Service Commission estimated the number of persons employed in the Executive Civil Service at 691,116, some 200,000 more than before the war.

Former Congressman MILLER of Minnesota, Secretary of the Republican Committee, in a speech at Washington last August, advocated the dismissal of 300,000 Government employés for the purpose of reducing the cost of living. In Washington alone, according to Senator SMOOT last Spring, there are more than 100,000 Government employés, 65,000 more than before the war. In his speech of acceptance Mr. HARDING said:

> I believe Federal departments should be made more businesslike and send back to productive effort thousands of Federal employés who are either duplicating work or not essential at all.

That is sound doctrine, Democratic and Republican. The United States can't afford to keep in its employ any unnecessary persons. It has no right to saddle taxeaters upon the taxpayers. In the campaign Mr. HARDING talked of dismissing "hundreds of "thousands of unnecessary Federal "employés." In a few months it will be his task to find out what their number is and to dismiss them. We hope that it is not his victory that has modified the amplitude of his pre-election figures.

He spoke on Thursday of lopping off "the useless jobs." That is a thing absolutely necessary to be done, yet it will be very hard to do it. A job that is useless and a waste of public money in Democratic hands is very liable to become an absolutely indispensable place when the Republicans are in power. The Republicans will have an overpowering majority in the next Congress. A multitude of Republicans will expect to be taken care of. Every Republican Congressman will be besieged by applications for office. It will be difficult for the honorable members to maintain the just and virtuous attitude in regard to the superfluous office holders that was so easy while the superfluous were Democrats.

The doctrine is right. It is for the Republicans to apply it right. Wherever there is a superfluous Federal employé there is waste of money. The Republicans have clamored against Democratic waste and extravagance. In power will they favor Republican extravagance and waste? Here is a considerable opportunity and duty. Mr. HARDING and the Republicans are bound to lighten the burden. The cost of the unnecessary employés is only a small part of it, but the Republicans are pledged to get rid of it, no matter how tempting the spoils look to the victor.

HE WILL BE MISSED.

Why must the great "Republican wave" submerge the handsome and well-beloved head of CHAMP CLARK? What will the House be without him? He first began to ornament it in 1893, the Fifty-third Congress. He didn't reappear in the Fifty-fourth, from no fault of his, probably. He was back again in the Fifty-fifth and has been there ever since. Four times Speaker, minority leader in this Congress, he has a place of his own, much resembling Mr. CANNON'S. It is irrespective of political influence and power. It is founded in some part on long service, but mainly on an original, salient and lovable character. Mr. CLARK has sometimes said impulsive and unwise things, but did he ever lose a friend? There is something sound, hearty, simple, natural about him. In his time he has been a hired man on a farm, a clerk in a country store, that miniature repository of everything and prophecy of the great urban department store. He has had the education and discipline of the editor of a country newspaper. He was a college President at 24. WILLIAM EVERETT of Massachusetts, a shy, accomplished scholar, who became about the best stump speaker in his State much to his own surprise and was sent to Congress, had a great admiration and fondness for Mr. CLARK, whose contacts with the world had been so much more numerous and varied, but whom he found a cultivated man as well as a character of multiform interest and experience.

Mr. CLARK has been beaten by a Republican of German descent. We are sorry for it. At least Pike County long stuck to its old Favorite Son. The House is maimed without this familiar and engaging figure. Mr. CLARK is the youngest fellow of 70 anywhere on view. We hope and expect to see him back at the old stand in 1923.

AN INDESTRUCTIBLE PARTY.

A post-mortem has been held over the Democratic Party by PARLEY P. CHRISTENSEN, Farmer-Labor candidate for President. He concludes that the next campaign will be fought between the Republicans and Mr. CHRISTENSEN'S own party. Doubtless he is sincere. Depressed Republicans were in earnest when they saw no future for their party after the Cleveland landslide in 1892; but four years later the landslide reversed itself and Mr. BRYAN was buried in the detritus. If the complexion of Congress could be regarded as prophetic, each party has in turn seemed not long for this world. In 1890 the Democrats elected 235 Representatives, and the Republicans 88, the Farmers' Alliance or Populists 9. Thus of a membership of 332 the Republicans had a few more than one-fourth. The McKinley Tariff bill did it. Two years later the Cleveland landslide happened; but two years after that, in 1894, Congress went Republican with a tremendous sweep, 241 to 104.

If ever a party seemed to be in extremis, it was the Democratic Party when the civil war ended in 1865. WILBUR F. STOREY called it with savage contempt (in 1872) a "putrescent corpse." Two years later that party had a majority in the House. Two more years passed and SAMUEL J. TILDEN polled 250,935 more votes than RUTHERFORD B. HAYES and lost the Presidency through the decision of the Electoral Commission by one electoral vote. During the intervening period the Republican Party has held power twenty-eight years and Democratic Presidents have occupied the White House sixteen years.

The party of JEFFERSON, JACKSON, CLEVELAND and WILSON has had great recuperative power, even when suffering from violent concussion and shock. The vital spark has been quickly fanned into flame by the vicious legislation of Republican Congresses, construing a party victory as a commission to disregard the interests of the people in favor of a select few. The Democratic Party is indestructible because, whatever mistakes it has made, it is a people's party, though the ultra radicals and irresponsible fanatics will not accept it as such. It may sometimes wander from the foundation principles, but returns to them. Its traditions go back more than one hundred years. It has only to be true to itself to be a formidable Opposition party; and however it is derided by the Republican Party when flushed with power, it is always reinstated when that party goes wrong.

SOCIALISTS AND LABOR.

MORRIS HILLQUIT'S speech just before election will not commend him to the approval of better friends of labor than he. These are his words:

> There is a concerted move to crush the organizations of labor and to paralyze the struggle for better living conditions led by high Government officials in open and shameless partnership with the railroad and mining magnates and the Manufacturers' Association.

Hostility to labor was not one of the faults punished by the election returns in either nation or States. No one ever alleged that President WILSON sought to crush labor, and the attack on President-elect HARDING on that ground was conspicuous for its failure. Among the worst foes of labor, from the Socialist standpoint as expressed by Mr. HILLQUIT, was Governor COOLIDGE. He did not weaken the Republican ticket and labor's assault on him was in vain. Speaking for itself, labor protested the Kansas method of preventing strikes contrary to the general interest, but Governor ALLEN suffered not at all in his political health. He was re-elected by an overwhelming plurality and his labor assailants carried 3 counties of 104. It is true that labor suffered in the election, but it was rather for its errors than from the malice of its oppressors.

The real "enemies of labor" are those denounced in those words by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters as the result of the Lockwood investigation. To the list may be added the "borers from within," whom Mr. GOMPERS warmed in his bosom, unawares perhaps, but certainly contrary to the interest of labor of another sort. Mr. HILLQUIT unkindly says that both the old parties are hypocrites. If that is so, he must include in his list millions more than the greatest political majority ever cast. If Mr. HILLQUIT were a hypocrite, he would be less dangerous. He is rather a fanatic, reckless of the harm he would do if allowed to realize his dreams of a millennium to follow ruin.

CABINET GOSSIP.

About this time, the political almanacs might say, look out for rumors in regard to the new Cabinet. They always set in directly after the Presidential election is over. Even shrinking gentlemen contrive to get themselves "mentioned." It may be by means of a dinner with significant guests. It may be by the mysterious starting up of a demand in a remote part of Iowa, let us say, that a public man of Massachusetts shall get the Treasury or the Navy, as the case may be. In many States prominent citizens are to be observed who have a shy but distinct air of expectancy. They go about the streets like men who feel it a duty to deport themselves as they think a Cabinet member should. If the announcement of their appointment comes unexpectedly, one day, they want the public to be prepared, so that it will not be too much astonished, or too much amused.

All this gossip is mildly entertaining, harms no one, and serves as a welcome relaxation after the tense efforts of the campaign. Senator HARDING will doubtless go on keeping his own counsel for some weeks. He has affirmed, and no doubt with entire truth, that he has not promised any office to anybody. No Simon Cameron is to be forced upon him, as upon LINCOLN, in payment for political support. Yet it is to be presumed that Mr. HARDING will follow established custom in at least making offers to his chief competitors for the Presidential nomination. That would put Governor LOWDEN and General WOOD on the list of possibilities. Senator JOHNSON might be put off with the Ambassadorship to China, for which he developed such a sudden sympathy.

Disregarding most of these early reports, the country will count upon Mr. HARDING'S living up to the one definite promise that he did make to the people. This was to summon to his aid the ablest men to be found. He frankly acknowledges his need of such assistance, and the people hope that it will not be denied him. They would like to see a strong Cabinet — the stronger the better. They take comfort in the thought that the new President will not be jealous of talents confessedly greater than his own. The men selected as his advisers should be of established reputation. It would be a disappointment and a shock to have, as England once had, a "who-who Cabinet," made up of great unknowns.

It was a sound political principle which GAMBETTA laid down. "You "can govern by means of a party, but "you can administer only by means of "able men." And as the very highest tasks of administration are to be laid upon the new President, he will be thinking more of ability than of party. The politics of the incoming Administration may be turned over to other hands. But the work of managing the public finances and watching over the great labor of post-war reconstruction and guiding the nation's foreign policy safely and honorably can be intrusted to none but men of proved capacity, who will devote all their power to disinterested public service.

ALBANIA.

Order reigns in Albania, at least by contrast with other days; and an Albanian Government, controlling nearly all the country, hopes for recognition by other Powers. Naturally, it looks first to America. Everybody looks first to America, but Albania has special reasons. Chief among them is the defense of Albanian territorial integrity in President WILSON'S Adriatic correspondence last Winter, when the French and British Governments attempted to settle the Fiume question in Italy's favor and buy off the Serbs with Albanian territory.

The Peace Conference decided that Italy, whose armies of occupation had done some excellent work in the building of roads and the introduction of orderly administration, should have a mandate for Albania. Assuming that the mandate had been carried out disinterestedly, and not used as a lever for intrigue against other Balkan States, that would probably have been the best thing. But the Albanians would not have it. Last Summer they rose against the Italian troops of occupation and drove them down to Avlona, where they held on precariously while the Italian Socialists "demonstrated" against sending any more men and money across the Adriatic. GIOLITTI had no choice. He made the best of the situation by an agreement which gives Italy permission to fortify some islands off Avlona, thus adding to the strategic security of the Adriatic, and affords special economic openings to Italian enterprise. More than that Italy could not take, and the Albanians calculated shrewdly that Italian aid could always be relied on in case of Serbian or Greek aggression.

Hardly was this question out of the way when there was a little border war with the Serbs, started, apparently, by Albanians in territory that has been Serbian since 1913. At Belgrade, Italian influence was seen in this, just as in Rome Serbian influence was believed to be behind the rising three months earlier. But Serbia and Albania appealed to the Powers to settle the dispute and hostilities for a time have been suspended.

Then there is the dispute with Greece over Northern Epirus. It has not been settled, but apparently the two Governments have come to some sort of working agreement; so for the moment Albania is at peace with her neighbors. Internal affairs, too, seem quieter; the faction which supported that stormy but tenacious character ESSAD Pasha has apparently been broken up, ESSAD himself having been assassinated. For the moment the Government of Tirana seems to be pretty well obeyed throughout the country; but the record of Albanian civil turbulence will incline the cautious to wait and see. If the new Government continues the policy of trying peaceful arrangement with its neighbors instead of fighting out disputes, one of the sorest spots in the Balkans may be healed.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Ostracism Becomes Wearisome.

From October, 1914, to November, 1920, is only a little over six years, but they were years in which so many and such great things happened that they count double at the very least, and therefore it justly can be said that the eminent Germans who to the number of ninety-three in the earliest of those years signed a vehement defense of their Government's course in starting the war have taken a long, long time in arriving at and confessing the conclusion that they then were mistaken in what they believed and said to the world.

Even now, a few of the ninety-three stand by their signatures, but the majority of them, with more or less grace and humility, have admitted that their signatures to that outrageous document were obtained by what amounted to false pretenses—that they were careless as well as misguided, and that they regret having placed themselves in a position so offensive to the outside world.

Some of them are angry as well as repentant, and denounce the Government that kept themselves and their class generally in ignorance of what was doing in high German circles. Most of the belated recantations are open to one sort of criticism or another, but, with due allowance for the difficulty there was in making them at all, they can be allowed to pass as adequate. In effect, if not in actual words, they ask for pardon and promise to be good, or at any rate better, in the future. That is something—it is even much. German erudition, science and art are not restored thus fully to their old right to respect, but a beginning has been effected. If too many German steamers manned by former German aviators and submariners, boasting of the ships they sank and the planes they downed, do not come over here, the professors may soon find their foreign confrères becoming less hostile—even becoming cordial again.

A Decision Involving an Injustice.

Among the decisive settlements made by the votes cast last Tuesday is that of the question whether or not the State of New York is to give to each of its citizens, men and women alike, a bonus of $10 for each month of participation in the great war, the only exceptions being officers above the rank of Captain in the navy and that of Senior Lieutenant in the army. The people have spoken and the thing must be done at a cost to the taxpayers estimated at $70,000,000.

Complaint now is useless, and, of course, the money can be raised without any very terrible hardship for those who pay it. Regret is permissible, however, because the distribution of this money will probably lessen by much the probability that the men who in one or another way were disabled while serving in the field are to get what they deserve in the way of additional assistance or support. Under this bonus system they receive no more than those who came out of the war as sound as when they went into it, or sounder, and in most cases with increased earning power.

Having given so much, the State is not likely to give more, and therein lie both cruelty and injustice.

Such Pardons Arouse Questionings.

Always, when a President or a Governor exercises his pardoning power for any other reason than that there has been a miscarriage of justice in the courts—a miscarriage as a result of which a man has been punished for a crime he did not commit or has been punished more severely than, in the circumstances, he deserved—there is difficulty in finding either an excuse or a defense that is adequate for the display of Executive lenience. Inevitably there arises, in all such cases, the criticism that one criminal has received mercy that is denied to others—that the bandage over the eyes of the lady with the scales and the sword has been lifted at least enough for her to see differences of one sort or another to which she should be wholly blind.

Thus is warrant given sometimes for saying that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor, sometimes that the members of the "privileged classes" stand by each other, and sometimes that some kind of "influence"—most often political—has been used effectively. In all these cases the consequence is the creating or increasing of disrespect for the law—or questioning its impartiality.

Often and often, of course, these accusations or suspicions are ill-founded, and the course of the Executive, at worst, has illustrated only an honest and commendable desire to show mercy. But, unfortunately, that desire may be unaccompanied by due appreciation of the fact that mercy and justice are in a natural and unavoidable conflict, and that between the two there is a No Man's Land full of dangers.

A Governor Pardons a Governor.

It is with thoughts like those just expressed that the pardoning by the present Governor of Vermont of his predecessor in office must be approached. Governor CLEMENT—congruous name!—seems to have found justification for nullifying the decision of his State's Supreme Court on the very day that decision was handed down by what he calls "the great and valuable services to the State of Vermont" which Governor GRAHAM had rendered while in office.

But before taking that office, while State Auditor, GRAHAM had been guilty of embezzlement. After indictment and before trial he made restitution of the greater part of the money he had taken, but he was convicted in the lower court and the Supreme Court sustained the conviction, declaring the verdict well found and that it could do nothing except enforce the law. The sentence was to imprisonment of from five to eight years. Before a single day of this sentence had been served, Governor CLEMENT, on the ground that enough punishment already had been inflicted, GRAHAM being what he was, gave him unconditional pardon and full restoration to citizenship.

In doing this the Governor used, unquestionably, a permitted discretion, but had he been of another and sterner temperament he would have seen GRAHAM, not as a man deserving mercy, but as one whose sin was the more grievous because committed against the light, without any of the excuses that can be made for criminals without his training, intelligence or environment.

Perhaps Governor CLEMENT gave some weight to the consideration that his State would be humiliated by having one of its ex-Governors in jail. Is the State not more humiliated by what seems to be proof that its Governors can do without going to jail things which, when done by men of less official eminence, send them there to stay till their sentence has been served?

Death of a Young Sailor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Monday of this week you published an error which I am sure that you will be only too glad to correct so that my friends will not labor under a false impression as to my son Enoch Perkins, who was the sailor from the Florida who died as a result of inhaling illuminating gas at the home of a Mr. and Mrs. Harold, who also died at the same time.

In your article you stated that Perkins and Lambert had overstayed their leave as the boat had sailed for a Southern drilling station. This is not true. My son was out on legitimate shore liberty and had been to the theatre with these friends of his sailor friend who was the chief of the radio division. The boat did not leave that day because we had a letter from my boy written Saturday morning and they were just about to arrive in the New York Harbor. He was in the sick bay of the ship and got his liberty Saturday afternoon. Enoch was only 17 years of age, and had been in the navy thirteen months and had eleven months more to serve. He was a petty officer and had a clean record of punctuality. He would not have remained off the boat when he should be on it.

CRYING FOR THE MOON.

Mad it is to sing a song
  Of one who wants the moon;
Mourns a midnight loveliness
  That vanishes at noon;

Weeps to find his silver piece
  Has rolled along the sky—
Surely such a foolish one
  His folly would deny!

Yet here and there a simple soul
  Is set upon the moon—
Woos it with a silver flute
  In never-ending croon:

And though you tell him moons are high
  And moons are dead and cold;
Are only deserts pitted deep,
  And shine by borrowed gold;

Unlearningly he looks at you
  Like any Bedlam loon,
And whispers in his foolish flute
  His whim to have the moon!

THE REPUBLICAN TRIUMPH.

Victory of Fear Over Courage—A Call to Carry On.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The American public has rendered a verdict which, if not altogether unexpected, is certainly to be deplored and which will give thoughtful Americans occasion for sober reflection.

At no other time in her history has our nation had such a chance to show that the high ideals which she has hitherto cherished were still hers. The fear instilled by the Lodges and Borahs and Johnsons has won over the straightforward, courageous and unselfish stand of the President.

But although the League seems surely defeated, the name of its author and greatest advocate will never be obscured. The wisdom, courage and altruism of Woodrow Wilson, who fought a losing fight for a new order in the world's affairs, has won for him the respect of his countrymen for all future time. In the great crisis of the World War we had a great leader. In the solving of the problems of peace that have since arisen he has also shown good statesmanship. But real Americans will respect our President for steadfastness in a great fight for an ideal, and unswerving loyalty to the right.

JOHN J. MARR.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I please to be permitted to congratulate you on the splendid campaign you made in behalf of a great moral issue, the League of Nations? We have not been defeated. Party lines were broken and the intellectually honest were standing solidly behind the Democratic candidate. I feel that our flag, figuratively speaking, is flying at half mast. The reactionary interests, together with the un-American elements, the deluded Irish and bitter Germans, have momentarily triumphed. The two latter groups will come to regard the League as the safeguard of the peace of the world, for all peoples.

The fight has just begun and it behooves those of us who have the faith to carry on. RITA C. FRUCHT.

Riverdale, Md., Nov. 4, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that it is all over good Democrats ought to try to discover what led to the disaster. We cannot accuse the Republicans of it, for surely in their nominee and in his wabbling they did everything possible to hand us a victory. The fault must be our own—and I believe it is.

If ever there were a time when the party should have put its best men to the fore it was in this campaign. After the nomination at Chicago there was very perceptible all over the country a most decided feeling of disappointment. Instead of profiting by that our delegates to San Francisco honestly tried to make a worse mess of it and they succeeded admirably. Neither nominee nor managers seemed to have the least idea of what people were thinking about. The League did appeal to the few. But to the average man, and I asked over a thousand of them, the thing foremost in his mind was that clothing and shoes and food costs too much money; that taxes were high, and they had got it stuck in their minds that somehow or other the Government at Washington was an arbitrary one. I saw very little in the whole campaign to explain or dispel this. True, the League did make an appeal to a certain group and, in fairness, it must be said that that group was the most intelligent in the country, but it is small and even among thousands of those who wanted the League there was a feeling that Cox could do nothing.

If this is in any way a correct diagnosis, what is the remedy? It is to my mind to clean house and get at the head of affairs some one who knows an issue when he sees one, to put away the petty jealousies and select for office men of standing and fitness.

A DEMOCRAT STILL.

New York, Nov. 4, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why not be a good loser and admit that the American people showed very conclusively their desire to get rid of not only the Wilson Administration, but also the League of Nations?

M. G. E. RENNA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Two years from now when the people see how things are going under reactionary Republicanism, and they reflect on the achievements of Mr. Wilson and the success of America in the war, they will realize what a great mistake they made in electing Harding. Then they will turn to 1924 and, in my humble opinion, William Gibbs McAdoo, who by that time will have ammunition enough to blast the Special Interests, who will dominate the Presidency for the next four years, from the face of the earth.

Col. George Harvey's Explanation.

> There appeared in the number of this journal dated Oct. 23 a cartoon whose publication was justly resented by many devout Christians, especially of the Roman Catholic faith—a caricature of Murillo's famous representation of the Immaculate Conception. * * *
> I was personally absent from the city and not only never saw the cartoon as drawn or in proof, but was so fully occupied with other pressing matters that I actually did not see it in my own paper until my attention was drawn to it by its reproduction in The World.
> I am not disclaiming responsibility for the appearance of the picture in my paper. I am simply telling how it happened. If there are people who really believe that I would consciously outrage the faith or religious sensibilities of any fellow-being, I cannot help it. If there are others who think I am so idiotic as to attempt to win an election by deliberately alienating the support of thousands of voters, I cannot help that. If there is one sane, living person who honestly believes that I would knowingly have printed that cartoon, I can do no more than concede his existence. Frankly, I do not believe there is.
> Obviously, nevertheless, I have a distinct obligation to express deep regret that the shocking picture ever appeared in my paper, and this I do with full sincerity. * * *

For American Students in England.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With reference to the article on the Ph. degree (in THE TIMES of Oct. 31) established by several British universities, mainly with the object of attracting American students, may I draw the attention of your readers to the pamphlet, "Opportunities for Graduate Study in the British Isles," prepared by Dr. G. E. MacLean, Director of the British Division of the American University Union in Europe, and published this Spring by the Institute of International Education, 407 West 117th Street, from which it may be obtained without charge.

MORE OF HARDING'S YOUTH.

Hard Worker, Says Realty Man—Tells of Watermelon Party.

George E. Payne, a real estate operator of Long Island, who received a letter from President-elect Harding confirming Mr. Payne's recollection that Harding as a boy worked for him as a teamster when the Marion and Kenton, Ohio, railroad was built in 1882, said yesterday he remembered that young Harding was a particularly hard and fast worker.

"Although it is 38 years ago," said Mr. Payne, "I remember young Harding well. When the railroad was being built it was a slack season with the neighboring farmers and they hired out with their teams for grading work. From time to time it was necessary to weed out the slackers, but we kept young Harding to the last. He was the fastest worker among the lot.

"I remember that I kept company with a girl named Ida Barnhart, who was a sister of Henry Barnhart, afterwards a millionaire steam shovel manufacturer. At the same time young Harding kept company with a girl named Florence Kling, the present Mrs. Harding. On one occasion we all attended a watermelon party, the melons being kept in tubs of ice water. The President-elect of the United States was the life of the party that evening."

NEWSPRINT $140 A TON.

Canadians Indicate That This Price Will Prevail in 1921.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—The price of newsprint paper for export to the United States during the first quarter of 1921 probably will be between 6½ and 7 cents a pound, or $130 to $140 a ton, it was announced semi-officially here today.

While definite information is lacking as to the prices at which Canadian producers will renew contracts with consumers in the United States, it was stated that official information will be forthcoming within a few days.

Woman's Party Will Urge the Passage of an Enforcement Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Protection of the woman suffrage amendment through the passage of an enforcement act will be urged by the National Woman's Party as soon as Congress reconvenes in December.

This measure will be urged on the ground that enforcement measures must accompany all legislation and not merely to safeguard the right of franchise, since, according to the editorial in the current number of The Suffragist, there is no practical danger to be feared from the legal attacks upon the amendment still pending before the United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of Tennessee.

2,300 ENTER NAVY WEEKLY.

Recruiting Improves So That Many More Ships Are Sent to Sea.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Recruiting for the navy is progressing so satisfactorily that naval officials believe it will soon be possible to send to sea a large number of vessels of all classes now carried on paper as part of the fleets, but actually tied up at navy yards for lack of crews.

Recruits are entering the service at a rate exceeding 2,300 a week and the training stations are daily sending large numbers of men to the fleets after the usual four months of training.

On Nov. 1 the navy was only 28,000 men short of the authorized strength of approximately 143,000 and it is believed at the department that the full strength will be reached before March 1.

WARNS PASSPORT USERS.

State Department Points Out Risk of Failing to Travel as Americans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The attention of the State Department has been directed to instances in which naturalized citizens are leaving the United States without procuring American passports and are using instead documents issued by representatives of the countries of their original allegiance. The department points out that persons who accept such foreign documents and travel abroad as aliens may not necessarily be deemed to have lost their American citizenship in so doing, but that they have gravely compromised their loyalty and allegiance to the United States.

QUESTIONS PALMER'S POWER

Judge Anderson States Inquiry Will Be Into Suppression of Evidence.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States District Court today disclosed the reason for his proposed investigation of Attorney General Palmer's connection with the soft-coal conspiracy cases, when he declared he was "going to find out whether the Attorney General can make an agreement to suppress a portion of the evidence on the part of the Government." The investigation is set for next Monday, the date when the cases are to be called for trial.

District Attorney Van Nuys and Special Prosecutor Slack started tonight for Washington to meet the Attorney General in conference. They went at the request of Mr. Palmer. Dan W. Simms, who resigned as a special prosecutor in the cases, was asked by the Attorney General to go to Washington, but refused to accompany them.

PLEADS GERMAN POVERTY.

Helfferich Says Treasury Faces a Deficit of 70 Billion Marks.

BERLIN, Nov. 4 (Havas).—Germany's treasury faces a deficit of approximately 70,000,000,000 marks, according to Dr. Karl Helfferich, former Vice-Chancellor, who declared in the Reichstag today that in the face of expenditures amounting to 100,000,000,000 marks, the receipts would total 30,000,000,000. He said it was impossible to vote the credits demanded for the Inter-Allied High Commission in the Rhine territory and reproached the Minister of Finance, Dr. Wirth, for not having done anything to remedy the situation.

Dr. Wirth, in answering, said that the Cabinet had decided to introduce a bill providing for a "sacrifice tax," adding that the Government would ask a credit of 1,000,000,000 marks to buy cereals abroad. He declared that the financial difficulties of the German people could be solved "only if they can live."

ANOTHER SAN JOSE PLAN.

Suggestion That Central American Union Need Not Be All-Inclusive.

SAN SALVADOR, Nov. 4.—Reconsideration of the program to be discussed by representatives of Central American republics at their meeting to be held at San José, Costa Rica, early in December, has been requested by Unionist groups of this country. They have asked the Salvadorean Foreign Office to propose that if all five republics are not able to enter the proposed union at once, a union may be formed by others, and those which refuse to become charter members may enter later, after due consideration.

This request has been forwarded to the International Central American Bureau by the Salvadorean Foreign Office, which is asked to reply by telegraph.

INTERCHURCH PLAN TO BE CARRIED OUT

TO UNITE PROTESTANTISM

Quadrennial Meeting in Boston Next Month Will Consider World Policy.

The Reorganization Committee of the Interchurch World Movement, after three days spent in conference with representatives of other religious organizations, at 25 Madison Avenue, adjourned yesterday afternoon after adopting a resolution which it is believed will result in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America taking over what is left of the Interchurch movement and undertaking to carry on what the Interchurch Federation tried to do. It is furthermore believed that this will lead to a complete federation of Protestantism. The resolution was as follows:

> In bringing about the further conservation of the values of the Interchurch World Movement we request the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America to call a thoroughly representative council of the following agencies in the month of December, if possible, or early January, to work out the best plan to bring about the most helpful work and relationships and arrangements on their part.

The organizations the resolution includes are the Federal Council, the Reorganization Committee of the Interchurch, the Home Missions Council of the United States and Canada, the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, the Federations of Women's Board of Foreign Missions, the International Sunday School Association and the Council of Church Boards of Education.

The personnel of the conference is to be determined by the Chairman and General Secretary or other two officials of each of the foregoing agencies in consultation. While it is expected the Interchurch will carry on the surveys and correlate the same, it will not under any circumstances assume the responsibility for any of the vast debt of the Interchurch.

All of these organizations sent representatives on invitation to the sessions and agreed to the resolution, with the exception of the Sunday School Association. The Interchurch Committee sent no invitation to it because most of the Sunday School leaders have not yet returned from Japan, where the world's convention was recently held. It is believed, however, that the Sunday School organization will concur.

The Reorganization Committee also called in representatives of ecclesiastical bodies not a part of the Interchurch. One of these was from the Protestant Episcopal Church. Another was from the Northern Baptist Convention, which cut off all relations with the Interchurch last June, although it had underwritten the movement for $2,500,000. Still another was the Presbyterian Church, which withdrew from the Interchurch last May, although it had underwritten the movement for $1,000,000.

The Rev. Dr. Charles McCrea Cavert, Associate Secretary of the Federal Council, said yesterday that the general policy and the actual steps to be taken by the Federal Council in the future will, no doubt, be determined at the coming quadrennial meeting in Boston Dec. 1 to 6.

$2,000 FOR JAPANESE PRINTS

"A Yenoshima Pilgrim Party," by Kiyonaga, Brings $130.

A number of prominent people were buyers at a little sale of Japanese prints and printed books at the Walpole Galleries last evening. To one of these went an interesting print by Kiyonaga, "A Yenoshima Pilgrim Party," a woman riding in the Kago, for $130. To the same buyer went a "Night Scene" by Shuncho, a broad sheet, a man and three girls in front of the shrine gate at night, for $50.

To Charles Towne went "Sekidera: One of the Seven Komachi," by Yeishi, for $42, and to the same buyer another Kiyonaga, "Group of People at a Dinner Party," for $37.50. H. Hall paid $43 for a Hiroshige rain print, one of the famous ones by the artist, "Shower at Suhara Station," and a quaint little print: "Portrait of a Lady Holding a Doll," went to E. T. Shima for $25. To Hall went a "Man and a Woman of Ryukyu Island" for $27.

Among the Japanese books Hokusai's "Hundred Views of Fugi," one of the rare copies of the first edition in good condition, in three volumes dated 1832, sold to W. R. Evans for $20, and a four volume set of the "Hundred Views" printed in 1771 went to W. Stilhamer for $12. Returns for the evening were $2,000.

BRINGS 500 PAINTINGS.

Widow of Edward Louyot, French Painter, Arrives on Leopoldina.

Adele Louyot, widow of the French landscape painter Edmond Louyot, who died in January, this year, through the hardships he endured during the war, arrived yesterday from France on the French liner Leopoldina with 500 paintings made by her late husband. The pictures were all carefully packed in a furniture van which was placed on the steamship at Havre and will be taken to the Public Stores today for the works to be examined by the appraisers before they are released for exhibition in New York.

Mme. Louyot told the reporters that the pictures had been valued at 400,000 francs before leaving France and were chiefly landscapes painted in Holland, France, Italy and scenes in the Alps. The Duchess of Luxemburg purchased a painting of a Dutch landscape for 12,000 francs and she sold another one of an Alpine scene for 10,000 francs.

As original paintings they will be allowed to enter free and she hopes to sell them to enable her to buy back the family estate in Lorraine.

A Purple Lustre Tea Set Brings the Highest Price, $270.

At the Dr. Pleasant Hunter sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon a purple lustre tea set—teapot, creamer, eight cups and saucers and two cake plates—brought the highest price, going to Seaman, agent, for $270. W. R. Hearst, who made many purchases, paid $120 for a pair of seven-inch copper lustre pitchers, $110 for a hexagonal silver lustre teapot and $120 for a fluted silver lustre coffee pot with domed lid.

Returns for the day were $6,886, making a total of $12,853 to date. The sale closes this afternoon, when English and other foreign glass will be sold.

GET FIELD MEMORIAL FUND.

Chicago Children Give $9,920.25 in Pennies for Poet's Monument.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Announcement was made yesterday, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Eugene Field, the children's poet, that funds for a field memorial monument at Lincoln Park had been raised. Since his death Chicago children have been adding their pennies to the slowly growing fund of $25,000, which was completed by action of the Art Institute Trustees, who today voted to supplement the children's collection of $9,920.25.

Johannes S. Gelett and Eugene McCarten, New York sculptors, have submitted two models for the memorial.

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE CUT OFF WITH $200

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 5.—Edward Dudley, a millionaire lawyer of New York and Philadelphia, accused his wife, Marie, of squandering his fortune and cut her off with $200, in his will filed with Surrogate Reeves in Camden today. Mr. Dudley left his estate, estimated at $750,000, to his son, Lawrence, and daughter, Mrs. May Irene Goodman, wife of Dr. E. H. Goodman. In his will Mr. Dudley said:

"During the years 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905, my wife, Marie Dudley, treated me terribly, refused to live with me as a wife, threatened to ruin me financially, spent most of her time at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, against my protest. She became extravagant and ran up bills everywhere, until in 1905 I was compelled to send public notices to all stores and hotels in Philadelphia, New York, Paris and London to cease giving her any further credit.

"I was compelled to sell securities of over $40,000 over and above my actual income. She took $5,000 worth of silver in 1905 and left my house for good. She knew I would not continue the house as she disgraced me in New York as reported by Town Topics of April, 1905.

"She then commenced proceedings in numerous courts, making all kinds of false charges, which the Court of Chancery threw out as not proved after years of litigation. She ran bills up again so that I had to pay some thousands of dollars more in 1905; then these numerous cases in court cost me many thousands of dollars, and the continued publications in the newspapers injured, and finally destroyed, my legal business.

"She has already received more than one-third of my estate, or caused me to spend that much for her benefit, so that is the reason I only leave her the sum of $200, which I hereby instruct my executor to give her as soon as possible after my decease. All my personal property I am giving away now before my decease."

Mr. Dudley, who was 70 years old, died in September in the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia. He was sentenced to two years in Federal prison for contempt of the Federal court at Newark two years ago, but an appeal was pending when he died.

BOWERY MISSION TO EXPAND

Fewer Drunkards to Care For, Women and Children to Benefit.

At the forty-first anniversary celebration tomorrow of the Bowery Mission, 227 Bowery, announcement will be made that prohibition has reformed so many men of the district the mission will undertake work for women and children.

"With the passing away of so many saloons and with the ultimate total destruction of the liquor traffic clearly in sight, this notorious thoroughfare has taken on utterly changed conditions," says the Bowery Mission announcement.

"The effort to Americanize the immense foreign population which crowds upon the mission from every direction will be directed primarily through the children. A children's work is already launched, and a work for boys is contemplated, under the direction of Graham Patterson, the President of the Christian Herald Company."

CALL TO LOUWISCH'S POST

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 5.—Dr. J. D. Braverman, a well-known educator of the Bronx, has been selected as the successor of Dr. Joseph Louwisch as Principal of the Poughkeepsie Hebrew School. The latter was asked to resign after the scandal ensued after his bride killed herself by strangling when he obtained an annulment of their marriage. Because it was felt that the students had lost confidence in Dr. Louwisch his resignation was demanded by the School Board.

A letter has been sent to Dr. Braverman offering him the post, and the Directors feel confident of his acceptance. Dr. Braverman was graduated with honors from Oxford University, England, and continued his studies until he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

He has taught in a high school in the Bronx, and for the last five years has been a professor in the Talmud Torah School, in the same borough.

The Louwisch annulment case will be reopened tomorrow at a special term of the Supreme Court, presided over by Justice Joseph Morschauser. It is expected that Lr. Louwisch will be present, as well as the dead girl's uncle, Benjamin Rabalsky of Boston.

Captain Frank M. White Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 5.—Captain Frank M. White who, as Master of the steamship Utopia, brought the first gold seekers to Alaska in the Winter of 1897, died today at the age of 70.

Captain White was born in New York State. He came to the Pacific Coast in the early seventies as mate on a sailing vessel. In the Nome rush he went north as as Master of the steamship Lorada, which was later wrecked near Unalaska. Captain White saved all hands.

He was also the first Captain to sail a ship manned by Eskimos. This happened when he brought the bark Mermaid, then lying wrecked on Nome beach, to Seattle. These Eskimos were probably the first to visit the United States.

Patrick J. Gillespie.

Patrick J. Gillespie, Deputy Chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart disease at his home, 17 Maple Street, Dobbs Ferry, at the age of 50. As a contractor he did part of the construction of the Waldorf-Astoria. While Thomas Ahearn was State Fire Marshal Gillespie was his Chief Inspector. After serving as Fire Prevention Expert in the State Labor Department in 1916, he was transferred to the Fire Prevention Bureau. He was a member of the Boards as well as the dead woman's uncle, Benjamin Rabalsky of Boston.

Dr. Oswald Joerg.

Dr. Oswald Joerg, for thirty-seven years a practicing physician in the Heights section of Brooklyn, died on Thursday at his residence, 12 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, in his seventy-seventh year. Dr. Joerg was born in Leipzig, Germany, the son of Johann Christian Gottfried Joerg, professor of gynecology in the University of Leipzig. He was educated in the University of Leipzig and came to this country in 1881.

TAP PHONE WIRE; TRAP 4 FOR FRAUD

Detectives "Listen In" on Alleged Fraudulent Solicitation for Charity.

4,000 PROSPECTS LISTED

Suggestions of Amounts to be Asked and Best Way to Approach Them Also Found.

Charged with collecting money under false pretenses, four men were arrested late last night in an office in the building at 1,777 Broadway by Detectives Maskiell and Maney, who had tapped the telephone wire of the office and "listened in" as funds were solicited for alleged charitable purposes. When the office was searched the police found a list of 4,000 prominent men and business concerns with suggestions as to the amounts to be asked from each and the best way of approaching them.

The prisoners gave their names as Arthur Avery, 37 years old, of 472 Halsey Street, Brooklyn; Frederick Pryor of 220 East Thirty-sixth Street, Charles Hamilton of the Hotel Cumberland and Major John F. Linscott, 80 years old, of 100 Bleecker Street. All were charged with violating Section 934 of the penal law.

The detectives had received numerous compalints of persons who had been swindled, and on information obtained through the arrest of a man on the same charge on Oct. 26 they tapped the wires of the office. While "listening in" they heard one of the men call up P. F. Smith of 520 West Thirty-sixth Street and, representing himself as an agent of ex-Senator Peter Justin Foggarty and James Evans McMahon of the First Ward Democratic Club, ask for $25 toward a coal fund for the poor. Smith agreed to contribute.

Hamilton, the police say, then left the office and when he returned with the money they arrested him and the other three, who were waiting. In the office the detectives also found cards bearing the names of the two ex-Senators and printed receipts bearing the name of the "First Ward National Democratic Club." There is no such club, the police say. The names of the ex-Senators mentioned are also fictitious.

ITALY CELEBRATES VICTORY.

Great Patriotic Demonstrations Held on Anniversary of Triumph.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Nov. 4.—National Victory Day was celebrated in many towns this afternoon with grand processions and demonstrations in support of the monarchy. In Northern Italy the festivities were marred by severe weather, but at Rome a magnificent state pageant was organized in which the King and all members of the royal family took part. The procession, headed by the most famous Generals and Admirals and numerous regiments which had played a conspicuous part in the war, marched amid a forest of tattered battle banners to a great altar of the Motherland on the Capitol Hill for consecration of the victory and the distribution of honors.

Later on another procession, which took half an hour to pass, filed across the city to Pincian Gardens. Fifty military bands and upward of 500 ex-soldier associations participated. The whole route was gayly decorated and strewn with floral tributes from crowded balconies of onlookers.

"Happiness" in Every Box
Chocolates
Thousands Welcomed Evangeline Yesterday

THOUSANDS more will welcome "Evangeline" today. Before we announced "Evangeline" we felt certain such a wonderful gift box of fine chocolates, selling at the pre-war price of $1 the pound, would be an immediate success. But results yesterday proved people were more eager to buy good chocolates, at a fair price, than even these "Happiness" Stores realized.

"Evangeline" is, we believe, destined to be the great gift chocolate. It's a box you are proud to send people—it's a box you're proud to receive.

You will understand the instant appeal of it when you see the opened box—the beautiful top tray, the delicious contents offering 21 different centers, many of nuts and fruits.

In short, "Evangeline" is the biggest achievement in the way of "Happiness-giving," these "Happiness" Stores have yet evolved; the biggest chocolate value in town—the kind that generally sells at $1.50 and $2 a pound. Get acquainted with "Evangeline"—one dollar the pound.

IT was time for the annual Spring announcement of one of Chicago's large retail stores.

The Printer was called in to "receive instructions." He listened to the plan that had been worked out, but he was not satisfied.

"How often do you advertise your goods?" he asked.

"Every season, four times a year, when we get in our new line."

"That's just the trouble," said the Printer. "I think I'm like most other people and I buy because I need a suit of clothes or a pair of shoes, not because the dealer has a new stock."

"There's something in that," said the retailer. "But what's that got to do with my announcement?"

"Just this: If you sell goods twelve months a year, advertise twelve months a year. Send out your announcements every month and get real results."

An order was placed for 7,500 announcements a month. Sales doubled. Then they doubled again.

Within a year 16,000 copies were being printed monthly, and the retailer was forced to buy out the adjoining store in order to secure floor space adequate for his increased business.

10 years ago the Printer was an order chaser Today he is contributing constructive ideas

SELLING printing is becoming more and more a matter of giving constructive service—less and less price competition. Valuable advice on illustrations, color, paper! Plans that sell more goods! Service! That is what the buyer of printing can have from the progressive Printer* of today, whether he is large or small.

Salesmanship of printing used to consist simply in seeking an opportunity to quote prices. The salesman was a solicitor, an order chaser, acting merely as a messenger between the customer and the print shop. His responsibility, as well as the responsibility of the organization back of him, was merely that of following specifications and making deliveries, not of producing results.

The United Typothetae of America, the national association of employing Printers, has met this question of salesmanship by starting a national school for Printers' salesmen. Thousands of men are already taking this salesman's course, studying such broad subjects as: studying the customer's business and needs, advertising, and methods of product distribution.

A new day has come in the Printing Industry

Salesmanship is only one indication of the fundamental change that has come about in the Printing Industry. Printers everywhere are broadening their point of view—are studying the business problems of their customers more intensively, are taking more and more of the responsibility for the finished printed product.

UNITED TYPOTHETAE OF AMERICA

The trademark of the association of employing printers, one of the greatest organizations of its kind in the world.

The American Writing Paper Company wishes to add its influence to the effectiveness of the U. T. A. work. To all buyers of printing the American Writing Paper Company makes these recommendations:

Do not get four or five competitive bids from as many Printers and give the work to the man with the lowest estimate.

Select your Printer on the basis of service rather than price. Employ him on the same basis as you would a doctor or a lawyer. Give him the facts about your business policies and methods. Furnish him with a basis for constructive criticisms and suggestions, and then maintain a permanent business relationship with him.

Let your Printer co-operate and work with you rather than merely work for you.

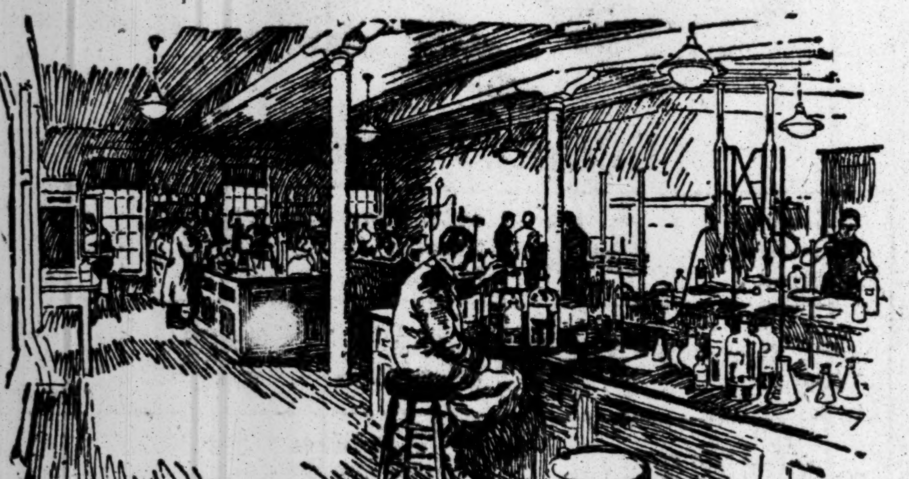
Be open-minded to your Printer's advice.

Your Printer is the one best qualified to select the right paper for the particular job. He is in a position to help you effect real economies—improve quality—bring RESULTS.

---

*NOTE:—In general where the term "Printer" is used in this announcement it refers not only to the printer who does flat bed and rotary work, but also to the offset printer, the lithographer, the engraver and the stationer.

Paper salesmen must conform to the new service attitude of the Printer



"Discovering New Facts About Paper"

Some of the remarkable accomplishments of the American Writing's Research Laboratory are described in detail in a new book by one of the foremost practical scientists in the United States. This book, "Discovering New Facts About Paper," contains information of the greatest value to everyone who uses or deals in paper. A complimentary copy will be sent to any business concern, Printer, or Paper Merchant. Write to the American Writing Paper Company, Holyoke, Mass.

SALESMEN'S promises reflect factory conditions. If manufacturing processes are not exact, the salesman can express quality, uniformity and value merely in generalities. He is handicapped.

Paper-making for centuries has really been only high-grade guesswork. The removal of dirt from raw material, problems of sizing, rosin, water, and the mechanical processes of manufacturing — everything about paper making has been too largely a matter of uncertainty.

Eliminating the guesswork

Printers today are feeling the need of a more scientific knowledge of what they buy. With responsibility for results on their shoulders, they are feeling more and more the need for facts in determining the suitability and value of the paper they use. These facts the salesman must be able to supply.

To eliminate guesswork in the making of paper, the American Writing Paper Company has recently enlarged its Scientific Research Laboratory at a cost of $225,000.

Inspection of raw materials, standardization of processes, testing of the product at every stage of manufacture, savings in costs passed on to the consumer in better values—these are only a few of the actual accomplishments of this scientific organization, the greatest in the paper industry.

Co-operation essential

The ideas of the superintendents, foremen and mill men in the 26 mills give the scientists the starting points of many important discoveries. Then after these ideas have been perfected by the Research Laboratory, the mill men put them to practical test and bring them into successful operation.

One thousand of these mill men have been with the company for more than 10 years; 500 for more than 20 years; many even longer. These men represent the craft skill in the making of paper that it has taken centuries to perfect.

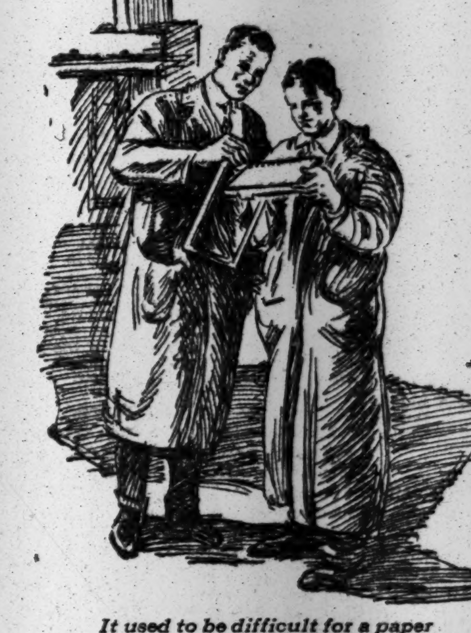
The Printer is the creative force in the Printing Industry and should be the one to consult in specifying the grade and finish of paper to be used in any particular work.

It is the policy of the American Writing Paper Company to send its samples to customers through the Printers and Paper Merchants.



It used to be difficult for a paper maker to match samples for color after four o'clock in the afternoon. In the Laboratory and mills of the American Writing Paper Company, a special kind of electric lamp is used which makes possible matching even at twilight.

LENIN PUT ON TRIAL BY CENTRAL SOVIET

Engages in Long Debate with Accusers, Denying Charges of Abuse of Power.

STAGED IN LARGE THEATRE

LENIN ADMITS FOOD CRISIS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Nicolai Lenin, the Bolshevist Premier, recently faced the most severe test of his career, according to information received through official channels in Washington in the last few days. This information is to the effect that Lenin has been on trial before a Bolshevist tribunal, charged among other things with being a grafter, of trying to make himself absolute and in other ways abusing the great power conferred upon him by the Soviet Government.

Lenin was placed on trial, after the filing of formal charges by certain Bolsheviki whose names are not given, before the Soviet Government, accused of graft, endeavoring to make himself absolute in power and suppression of definite promotion of Bolshevist theories in certain industries and businesses in Russia and especially in Moscow, where he is accepted as dictator. The trial began last month, but the outcome of the trial was not known at the time the information was dispatched.

The cable conveying the information came from a European point, being brought by courier from Moscow. The utmost secrecy is being maintained as to the source of the information and even the point from which the cable was sent.

The facts contained in the dispatch are slight, but sufficient to indicate the popular excitement that the accusations and trial caused in Moscow. The trial was to have been held in a courtroom of the old régime, but it was not large enough for the crowd that assembled to attend the proceedings, and it was adjourned by the Soviet Central Committee to the largest theatre in Moscow. The place was packed when Lenin appeared in person to face his accusers.

Twice when Lenin was on his way to the trial demonstrations were started by the crowds, but in each instance they were quickly suppressed by his large and heavily armed bodyguard. Several persons were killed on each occasion.

Lenin first denied the right of the "Central Committee," the exact status of which is not known to the officials here, to bring him to trial. But he was overruled and the charges against him were read. The names of the complainants were not given and Lenin demanded that they be made public. This was refused by the Central Committee, members of which said openly that they would not permit the names to be made public because of the possible injuries that might be inflicted upon them.

A four hours' debate then ensued between Lenin and members of the Central Committee, Lenin in an impassioned speech denying the truth of the charges made against him.

The specifications of the charges against Lenin are not disclosed in the report received in Washington.

TELL OF MOSCOW MUTINY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 5.—A dispatch from Helsingfors to the Berlingske Tidende quotes a detailed report on rebellions in Moscow. It states that the fact that the most trustworthy troops were sent against Wrangel gave better chances for the rebels. Troops that were sent against the mutinous soldiers in a suburb of Moscow joined the rebels.

Owing to overcrowding of the prisons cloisters are now used as prisons.

The Bolsheviki execute 100 to 300 persons every night. The Government has not yet caught the ringleaders of the anti-Bolsheviki who daily issue proclamations urging the people to crush Bolshevist rule once for all.

BIG CITIES PARALYZED BY FAMINE, LENIN SAYS

Russia Facing Worst Food Crisis, He Admits—Trotzky Reveals Army's Distress.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Nikolai Lenin, the Russian Bolshevist Premier, frankly admits the seriousness of the food situation in Russia. A Central News dispatch from Copenhagen quotes him as writing in the Russian newspaper Proletaskaja Pravda as follows:

"Soviet Russia never before has experienced such a food crisis. Moscow and other cities are paralyzed by famine and the army is becoming famished. It is necessary for us to use all means in our power to enforce delivery of foodstuffs by the peasantry."

Writing in the same paper, Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Minister of War and Marine, says:

"We want to see rebellions in other countries, so as to render an attack upon our country impossible. The Red Army is in dire need of food and clothing. If these needs are not supplied immediately, all our efforts will be futile."

COSTELLO GOES TO COLBY.

Asks State Department's Attitude on His Expulsion from England.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—E. J. Costello of Chicago, managing editor of The Federated Press, whose expulsion from England was ordered recently by the British Government, made formal complaint today to the State Department that he had been unjustly deported. Secretary Colby promised to have an investigation made and arranged for Mr. Costello to discuss the matter with the Counselor of the department.

In a memorandum to the Secretary, Mr. Costello said he wished to obtain from the department an expression of its attitude toward the cases of American newspaper men who incur "the displeasure of foreign Governments and who may in consequence be arrested and deported without a hearing and without charges being preferred." He declared that American correspondents in their work abroad necessarily must be expected to come into contact with persons of all shades of political belief.

Pointing out that aliens in the United States are never deported without being granted opportunity to know and to combat the charges against them, Mr. Costello asked if the American Government intended "to demand for its own citizens abroad the same simple justice that it accords to aliens within the United States."

Wins Office of Judge While Inmate of Jail

WHITESBURG, Ky., Nov. 5.—One unusual incident of Tuesday's election in Kentucky was the election of Fess Whitaker of Whitesburg, while in jail, as County Judge over Stephen Combs, Jr., the incumbent.

Whitaker, who was the jailkeeper, was sentenced to six months in jail for attacking county officers, including the Sheriff.

After being put in jail Whitaker escaped, was recaptured and again sentenced for jailbreaking. Following one of the most exciting campaigns known to the mountains of Kentucky, Whitaker won over Judge Combs by more than a thousand majority.

Governor Morrow three times refused to pardon Whitaker.

FRANCE IS UNABLE TO HELP WRANGEL

HIS POSITION IS SERIOUS

Danger That His Forces in the Crimea Will Be Wiped Out—Question of Food.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Further dispatches confirming the extreme gravity of the position of General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Soviet forces in South Russia, have been received by the French Foreign Office, but are being withheld temporarily. With the capture by the Bolsheviki of Perekop and the surrounding territory, regarded as the key to the isthmus, fears now are expressed in French official circles that General Wrangel's very existence in the Crimea may be seriously endangered.

It is reliably reported that General Wrangel has sent an urgent appeal to France and other allied powers, telling of the critical situation confronting him and requesting more aid. From an authoritative source it was learned today that France feels it now is "too late" to give further assistance to General Wrangel. It was explained that France had rendered all the assistance in her power to General Wrangel. Any further support will have to come from the other allied powers, among whom, the French say, there seems to be no disposition to act.

The confidence felt in French circles that General Wrangel would be able to retire and maintain his position in the Crimea now has given way to an expression of hope that he will withstand the Bolshevist onslaught.

Even though General Wrangel establishes himself in the Crimea the problem of feeding his army is a serious one and probably will fall upon France. The resources of the Crimea are inadequate for General Wrangel's army and the many thousands of refugees who are following his forces.

SEBASTOPOL, Nov. 4 (Associated Press)—General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Bolshevist Government of South Russia, has successfully withdrawn his troops to Crimea before the advance of the Soviet armies south of the Dnieper River. He is master of Perekop and Salkova.

At Salkova General Wrangel has captured thousands of men belonging to the units of General Budenny's cavalry. The spirit of his troops is good, but they are worn out by their long fight, which has lasted for five months, and are glad to be assured of a rest in Crimea.

Soviet forces are besieging the anti-Bolshevist trench system on the narrow neck of land leading from the Crimean peninsula to the mainland, but it is asserted only 10,000 of General Wrangel's troops will be required to hold Perekop and Salkova.

The number of Soviet cavalrymen captured by General Wrangel's forces at Salkova is placed at 10,000.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—General Baron Wrangel, whose forces have been driven back into the Crimean peninsula from Russia proper by Bolshevist armies, has broken a silence of four days with a characteristically laconic message to Baroness Wrangel. His telegram said: "We are fighting hard, in full hope."

The Baroness will leave for the Crimea to join her husband next week. She has spent many sleepless nights since the Bolshevist offensive began. Today she said: "All I want is the truth. No matter how bad it is, I can stand it."

RICH GERMANS ACCUSED OF EXPORTING CAPITAL

Nine on Trial for Trying to Smuggle Part of Their Fortunes Abroad.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—A remarkable case began before one of the Berlin courts today. Nine persons were charged with trying to smuggle large parts of their substantial fortunes out of the country. The sum involved amounts to between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 marks ($1,250,000 to $1,500,000 at normal exchange rates, but far less at present figures).

Of the nine, one is a secretary of legation and one a vice consul, four are high Government officials, all with the title of Commercial Councilor; two are merchants and one is a Munich lawyer.

By a law of November, 1918, the sending of capital abroad is forbidden except through banks and with the knowledge of the taxing authorities. The last mentioned defendant is charged with having arranged for sending the money in question out of Germany. The case came to the notice of the courts because it was discovered that he was managing to get checks for large amounts cashed abroad.

The defendants maintain that they are merely interested in business in Switzerland and did not wish to evade the attentions of the tax collector.

WARNS OF WAR IN GERMANY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—"In Germany a similar situation is developing to that which arose in Europe and led to the great war. At the present time a spark is enough to bring about civil war."

Such was the senational statement made by Herr Gessler, Minister of Defense, at Leipsic yesterday. He declared there was competition in more or less armed associations which maintained their raison d'être was self-defense, but the danger in the case of such organizations was that they went beyond the original design and were difficult to control by their leaders.

"We have only one means to carry us out of danger," said Herr Gessler, "and that is the common sense of the German people. But that is weakened by the dangers which appear on all hands, by the bad economic condition of the country, by increased unemployment and by the senseless luxury of the new rich."

DECISION IN TRAVIS INQUIRY DUE TODAY

Justice Kernochan Asks Controller to Appear at 10:30 A. M. to Hear Findings.

CRIME CHARGED BY PECORA

Prosecutor Argues That Both Travis and Judson Should Be Held to Grand Jury.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis has been asked by Chief Justice Frederic Kernochan of Special Sessions to appear at the Criminal Courts Building at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when, Justice Kernochan said, he would announce his decision in the John Doe inquiry into affairs of the State Controller's office.

Justice Kernochan did not explain his purpose in asking for Mr. Travis's appearance or whether it concerned his findings in the inquiry or the contempt charge against the Controller for refusing to answer questions relating to his personal financial transactions. Mr. Travis has been adjudged in contempt for seventeen separate offenses and Justice Kernochan has announced an intention to punish the Controller.

Assistant District Attorney Pecora, in an argument at the conclusion of the hearing, said that Controller Travis should be held for the Grand Jury under Section 1863 of the Criminal Code, which makes it a felony for any public official to audit or pay any fraudulent claim upon the State or any municipal corporation. The offense is punishable by five years imprisonment or a fine of $5,000, or both. He asked that Albert L. Judson, who was shown to have made $800,000 profits on bond sales to the State, should be held under Section 1872, which makes it a felony to fraudulently present for payment a bill or claim to a public officer of the State or a municipal corporation.

The inquiry was finally concluded, so far as the taking of testimony is concerned, with the examination of Controller-elect James A. Wendell, who is a Deputy under Travis. Mr. Wendell appeared in response to a subpoena, and was questioned about six letters relating to bond sales which were missing from the records turned over to the District Attorney by Mr. Travis. Mr. Wendell evaded answering the questions until Justice Kernochan had threatened to hold him in contempt. He finally agreed to answer, but his answers were to the effect that he did not remember anything about the missing letters, which related to transactions with William S. Fanshawe, a bond dealer, as a result of which Mr. Fanshawe lost $88,000 and the State $120,000 or more on a compromise agreement. Fanshawe was one of three dealers whose profits on bond sales to the State totaled $1,000,000.

Justice Kernochan reiterated his assertion that in his opinion the evidence did not connect Mr. Wendell criminally with the bond transactions. He said that no matter what his decision was the case was going to the Grand Jury.

Louis S. Levy of Stanchfield & Levy appeared for Mr. Wendell. Mr. Levy asked that the Controller-elect be granted the opportunity of consulting his counsel, John B. Stanchfield, and said that his own part was merely to represent Mr. Stanchfield for the purpose of getting an adjournment.

Wendell Threatened by Court.

"I have already stated," said Justice Kernochan, "that there is no evidence to connect Wendell with the commission of any crime in connection with these bond purchases. He is here merely to testify as to the missing letters. At the present time there is nothing that can hurt him in his testimony."

Mr. Levy contended that Mr. Wendell's constitutional rights would be invaded if he were forced to testify without having a chance to talk to his counsel.

"I advise the witness to refuse to answer," he added.

"Well, we will take the matter before the Grand Jury, then," said Justice Kernochan. "I have one contempt proceeding on my hands and I would just as soon have another."

Mr. Pecora proceeded with his questioning, but was interrupted by Mr. Levy, who restated his objection to the examination.

"I don't think I should answer," said Mr. Wendell, "after the objection of my counsel."

"Is that your sole reason," said Mr. Pecora, "or do you refuse to answer on the ground that it might tend to incriminate or degrade you?"

Mr. Wendell replied that the latter ground was not his reason.

Justice Kernochan, after describing Mr. Wendell's attitude as "most unseemly," said, "I am perfectly clear that these questions are proper and I'll hold him for contempt if he refuses to answer."

Mr. Levy asked permission to consult with Mr. Pecora for a moment, after which Wendell joined in the conference. Mr. Levy then announced that the Controller-elect would answer the questions.

Mr. Wendell said he could not remember ever having seen or written any of the letters, but said that he could not swear that he had never received the letters addressed to him, or that he had not written the letters ascribed to him by Fanshawe, whose testimony was at complete variance with the testimony of Mr. Travis, Mr. Wendell and others

Wall Street Deals Ruled Out.

The Controller-elect said that he signed between 200 and 500 letters a day which he had not even dictated. He admitted, however, that he had dictated the majority of letters relating to bond purchases by the State within the last five years.

Mr. Pecora asked Mr. Wendell why Mr. Fanshawe had been compelled, as one of the terms of the compromise settlement, to turn over all correspondence relating to the deal to the Controller's office. He replied that he did not remember. He denied that he was present at a conference at the Empire Trust Company when the sale was consummated on Nov. 16, 1917.

"Can you tell how we may get this correspondence that Fanshawe says he turned over?" Justice Kernochen asked, addressing Mr. Wendell.

Wendell, without directly answering the question, said that several people had gone over the files within the last six months and suggested that the letters might have been mislaid.

"Last time you testified," said Mr. Pecora, "you and your counsel, then Colonel Hayward, indicated that you would be willing to testify concerning your private Wall Street transactions after election."

"I have thought this matter over since our talk yesterday," interposed the Justice. "I suppose this concerns sums of money the witness has placed on deposit with the various brokerage houses. I do not think that this witness has been sufficiently connected with the bond transactions to allow testimony of this character. The Controller in his testimony took all the responsibility for making these purchases. Mr. Travis said that he agreed on the prices at which the bonds were purchased. Wendell, Judson and Baldwin have testified to the same effect. What the District Attorney may think concerning this testimony is not sufficient to permit me to disregard all this other testimony and infer that it is all to be disbelieved."

INVOKE ACT OF EDWARD III.

But English Judge Frees Man Who Fired Into the Air.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—An act of Edward III., passed in 1328, was invoked today at the Essex Assizes against a farmer named William Gridley. Last Whitmonday, after a disturbance at the village of Corringham, he had fetched a gun from his house and fired into the air, therefore he was charged with "going about a public street without lawful occasion in such a manner as to be a nuisance."

Justice Avery was not impressed by the old act. He said it was meant to apply to people going about in full armor, swinging a naked sword, and that sort of thing. He directed Gridley's discharge.

Addiction to Drugs Is Increasing in France; Government Starts Campaign to End Traffic

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The French Government is starting a campaign against the growing drug habit, which, with the commerce in drugs, has taken a new hold since the war. Powers are being sought in a new law to increase heavily the penalties on those engaged in the traffic. Opium smoking and the use of cocaine and morphine are said by the police to have increased enormously of late, and a regular traffic in drugs is carried on in the less reputable cafés of the Montmartre.

The police declare that much dope is smuggled through from Germany and that the cult of opium smoking is growing as common in certain circles as before the war. Elaborate fumeries have been filled up in fashionable streets, to which come the most cosmopolitan clientele. French men and women, Americans from both North and South America, Italians, Spaniards and Englishmen gather at night under the quiet attention of a patient Chinaman to dream till morning. There are artists, musicians, politicians and writers among them, attracted as often by the luxuriousness of the surroundings and the interest of the society as by the fascinating opium itself.

Such indulgence is only, however, for the very rich. Poorer people indulge in the infinitely more dangerous cocaine. Small packets sold clandestinely in the Montmartre are dear, but they are not too dear for those who have the fever in their blood. Its effects have been traceable in several recent crimes in the metropolis.

The police declare that the traffic is usually carried on by women, who are used by men for that purpose. Almost all the drugs sold are smuggled either through the ports or across the German frontier, and a stringent watch has been ordered to prevent further importation, pending the coming into force of the new law.

ADVERSE EXCHANGE AGAIN STIRS FRANCE

Francs 16.63 to the Dollar, Approaching Lo wRecord of Last Summer.

REPARATIONS AN INCUBUS

Currency Depreciated by Inflation Due to Expenditures Germany Must Meet Eventually.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—French exchange continues to slide down hill. Francs closed tonight at 16.63 for the dollar and 56.85 for sterling, both middle prices, 16.75 and 57 being asked respectively for large amounts. In the past month the dollar has gained nearly two francs, or more than 14 per cent., and sterling more than four francs.

Four reasons are given for the decline, which is approaching the record of the early Summer and arousing anxious comment in the Paris press.

First and chief is the delay over the settlement of the reparation problem. France is now spending more than 20,000,000,000 francs annually for reparations and pensions, no part of which is covered by the revenue. Although Germany is pledged to pay it back, and the Allies are pledged to see that she does, France today has to raise this immense sum by inflation—direct inflation by the increase in the volume of paper currency and indirect inflation of national loans. The obvious result is a further depreciation of the franc.

The second reason given is the tightness of money in America, which has led to the calling of loans made by American houses to French clients. I learn that this has certainly occurred in some cases, but whether the practice is general is an open question.

The third reason given is speculation. The large influx of foreign—chiefly American and British—banks has caused a good deal of jealousy in Paris. There is no doubt that these banks do a large business in exchange, and suggestions are not lacking in the press that it is extended beyond legitimate proportions. The principal American banks deny the charge, but naturally they do not refuse to buy or sell francs for clients, and they are not able to tell whether such transactions always represent bona fide business or are purely speculative. It is, however, generally admitted that speculation cannot cause an upward or downward movement of exchange, but can only intensify such movements as already exist.

The fourth reason is at present only whispered. Like speculation, it cannot be more than contributive, but it may contribute in a marked degree. It consists in deliberate pressure upon the value of the franc, exercised by a powerful group or groups interested in the internal trade of the country, which is now virtually at a standstill and cannot be resumed without heavy losses unless the franc falls.

The trade situation is simple enough. The prices of raw materials—cotton, wool and hides, for instance—have fallen nearly 50 per cent. during the last six months. The public knows this and will not buy from the retailers until prices fall. The retailers will not buy from the wholesalers, the wholesalers will not buy from the manufacturers, and the manufacturers will not buy from the importers. The deadlock is thus complete; but, whereas the wholesalers and retailers have for the most part now pretty well exhausted the stocks they bought at the former high prices, the manufacturers and importers are loaded to the Plimsoll line. In the textile area of Roubaix and Turcoing alone there are reported to be goods in stock—unsalable at present rates—to the value of 150,000,000 francs. Many factories are working only half time, and much unemployment is feared for the Winter unless the situation improves.

The importers are in no better plight. At Havre warehouses and wharves are choked with hides, coffee, wool, cotton, rubber, &c., which the manufacturers will not buy, but on which storage and insurance charges must be paid. To take the case of wool: The present price for 100 kilos is about 1,000 francs; but, owing to the higher prices which have prevailed, the importer is unwilling to sell at less than 1,200 francs. This he cannot get, and so the stagnation continues.

Every point, however, that the franc drops raises the price of imported goods. Pressure upon the franc, therefore, without necessarily wiping out the importer's losses entirely, must tend to diminish them. There is thus an adequate motive for depreciating it, and there is no doubt that the interests concerned are both powerful and faced with heavy and imminent loss.

DISCUSSING PLAN FOR DUTCH REPUBLIC

Commission Contemplates the Change in Default of Male Heir to Throne.

ARMY REDUCTION PROPOSED

Minister of War Thinks Half the Present Force Sufficient Under the League.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—The possibility of becoming a republic is in prospect for Holland under recommendations submitted today by the commission appointed to revise the Constitution. If these recommendations are adopted Holland will have the chance to decide upon doing away with royalty unless the little Princess Juliana, only child of Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Consort Henry, some day gives birth to a son by a husband whom the Dutch Parliament approves as her consort. The Princess is 11 years old.

The commission proposes that hereafter, unless there is a direct male descendant of a male ruler, the throne shall go to some male of the second generation of the last King. In the event of there being no direct male successor, however, the people shall have the opportunity to change the country's form of Government under the commission's scheme.

The reduction of Holland's army by nearly one-half was proposed by the Dutch Government to the Parliament today, and it is believed to be certain that the legislative branch will adopt the proposal, which was made by General W. F. Pop, the Acting Minister of War, in recommendations to the Parliament regarding military affairs, calling, among other things, for the reduction of the standing army from 460,000 to 260,000.

In his recommendations General Pop said:

"With the joining by Holland of the League of Nations the Government thought of maintaining a waiting attitude with regard to the influence our joining would have on international affairs. Nevertheless Holland considered her military program in the light of her participation."

In so doing, added the General, the Government took into account first, possible security against war, due to the League; second, the necessity for having some defense until the League was able to come to its assistance, and, third, the possible necessity for contributing troops under the League's provisions.

Even if security was not yet certain, he said, it was now possible to reduce the cost of defense.

General Pop's proposals call for the reduction of the standing army from twenty yearly classes of 23,000 men each to twenty yearly classes of 13,000 men, or a reduction of 200,000, and a cutting of the service period from eight and a half months to six months for the infantry, from eighteen months to twelve months for hospital and artillery men, and from two years to eighteen months for the cavalry.

In addition, the plan provides that conscripts be drilled only a few days each week instead of living in barracks. It includes compulsory physical training for school youths between the ages of 14 and 19 years.

MEXICO TO OPERATE MINES.

Foreign Owners Protest, but Washington Accepts Explanation.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 5.—American, British and French mining companies in the State of Coahuila plan a protest, to the Mexican Government against the latter's decision to operate many mines in the State owing to the inability of employers and striking workmen to reach an agreement ending the present strike. It is denied in official circles that the Government intends to confiscate the mines, but it is asserted that drastic measures are necessary to supply railroads and factories with fuel. The Constitution, it is pointed out, authorizes the Government to act in such an emergency.

Representatives of the Governor of Coahuila yesterday took over five mining properties, announcing that operations would start probably today. The men have been idle for ten days, following a strike in support of demands for wage increases ranging from 100 to 250 per cent. All profits, it is said, will be turned over to the owners of the mines.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Official protest against the seizure by Mexico of the coal mines in the State of Coahuila was averted by the explanation received today by the State Department from the American embassy at Mexico City that the Mexican Government did not contemplate the confiscation of the property.

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—Following the murder of a British army officer wild scenes occurred last night at Nenagh, County Tipperary.

Dublin Castle today issued the following communiqué on the matter:

"Lieutenant H. J. Hambleton of the North Hampton Regiment was murdered at about 6 o'clock last night while motor cycling from Templemore to Nenagh. On the arrival of the victim's body at the barracks in Nenagh, some of his men, incensed by the sight, broke out and set fire to two houses. They were quickly got back to barracks, and troops and police combined to put out the fires.

"Four suspects were arrested, two of them being brothers by the name of O'Brien. Their ordinary residence is in Nenagh, but they were found hiding at a farm four miles out. These two men attempted to escape from a lorry in which they had been put and were shot dead.

"It is stated that a licensed grocery establishment and a local creamery were destroyed by fire, and windows of several shops and houses were broken.

"A number of influential residents of Nenagh wired to the Chief Secretary and Inspector General of the Royal Irish Constabulary to prevent a repetition of reprisals, as a large number of people had fled in fear from the town."

"Peace and order have once more been restored in Tralee, the military having remained on duty all through last night, but the residents fear further outbreaks as two missing policemen have not yet been found. A deputation of representative merchants waited on the officer commanding troops in Tralee today and represented to him the extreme hardships which the people were subjected to through lack of food, especially bread, the supply of which is exhausted. Like all other establishments, the bakeries closed down, fearing that drastic measures were threatened. The officer informed the deputation that the place was not under martial law and he could not usurp the civil power. When his men left town after midnight on Wednesday everything was calm, he said, and they could not anticipate a further outbreak, but when they learned of it they rushed down and gave all the assistance possible. Fearing a further outbreak last night he kept his men on duty until morning, and promised to do the same tonight.

Last night the military got their fire brigade to fight flames in houses that had ben set on fire, and with the assistance of civilians they worked indefatigably for some hours and got the flames under control.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Premier Lloyd George reviewed fifty men of the Royal Irish Constabulary this afternoon in the quadrangle of the Foreign Office. Twenty-five of the men were regular constables and the remainder belonged to the auxiliary division. They had come to London as a funeral escort to two of their murdered comrades, Constables Casely and Larking, both London men.

Mr. Lloyd George was informed that most of the regulars were Catholic Irishmen, who had served in the war, while the auxiliaries were mainly drawn from a Scottish division and wore bonnets in which was the badge of the cross of St. Andrew.

Among those introduced to the Premier by Sir Hamar Greenwood was Constable Foley, who was wearing the ribbons of the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal. Foley distinguished himself by bringing in at great risk the body of one of his murdered comrades.

Irish Peace Conference Suggestion.

DUBLIN, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—The Irish Peace Conference, which is an association of moderate Irishmen of all parties seeking to solve the Home Rule problem, has written another letter to Premier Lloyd George, expressing the view that the situation has been materially changed by the Premier's latest pronouncement of Government policy and announcing the conviction of the conference that Parliament as now constituted does not sufficiently represent the Irish people to frame an acceptable constitution for Ireland.

It is suggested by the conference that Parliament should establish a constituent assembly, elected on the Parliamentary franchise on the basis of proportional representation, and that Ireland be given complete financial independence.

Asquith Again Criticizes.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—In a speech at Cardiff, Wales, tonight former Premier Asquith declared that evidence that servants of the Crown were being allowed, with virtual impunity, to engage in a campaign of organized outrage was overwhelming and irresistible. An appeal to Parliament, he said, was useless.

Alluding to statements attributed to him as advocating a separate navy for Ireland, the former Premier explained that he never intended that Ireland should have anything not granted to the great Dominions, and he would make it an absolute condition that the imperial navy should always have free access to all Irish ports.

Should Ireland be ill-advised enough to start her own navy, added Mr. Asquith, it must be under conditions agreed to by all the Dominions at an imperial conference.

Two interesting, although unofficial, attempts are being made to solve the Irish question, it developed today. The first of these is an effort by influential political quarters to induce the Government to communicate with the Sinn Fein members of Parliament in order to try to reach a practical agreement and prevent the ruin of Ireland.

The second is that three Coalition members of Parliament will finally propose a plan for withdrawing the military in Ireland to strategic centres and allowing the local authorities to take the responsibility for the preservation of law and order with the eventual view of negotiating a political settlement of the problem.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 5.—Mayor Usher of the town of Laprida, in the Province of Buenos Aires, has ordered the flag on the Town Hall at half-staff for two days in memory of Terence MacSwiney, the late Lord Mayor of Cork. He has communicated word of his action to members of the MacSwiney family in Ireland and Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic."

Mayor Ussher is of Irish descent.

Orders the Pocket Flask Barred in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The doom of Chicago's night life was forecast today when Charles A. Clyne, District Attorney, notified every well known cabaret in the city not only to cease selling liquor but to prohibit guests from bringing their own. Mr. Clyne threatened to close every place where guests were allowed to use hip pocket flasks and to arrest the proprietors and waiters for violation of the Volstead act.

At the same time, Police Chief Garrity asked the City Council for legislation giving the police greater power to regulate cafes and cabarets. Mayor William Hale Thompson last week revoked the licenses of two of the best known all-night cabarets after hearing charges that the use of liquor had been permitted on the premises.

GRANARD REPRISALS BY UNIFORMED MEN

Eyewitnesses' Story of the Sacking of the Town on Wednesday Night.

UNDER OFFICER'S DIRECTION

Part of an Extensive Raid Which Followed Murders of Several Policemen.

GRANARD, Ireland, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—The sacking of this town on Wednesday night by uniformed men ranks with the recent raids at Balbriggan, Mallow and Tubbercurry, according to accounts given to The Associated Press by eye-witnesses. The damage, which was carried out systematically, is said to have been under the direction of an officer, and was part of an extensive raid across the County Langford after the murder of several policemen in the district on Sunday and Monday.

Eleven lorries, which made up the raiding party, stopped first at the village of Edgeworthstown, where several houses were searched and a man riding a bicycle was shot. Next Granard was visited and thirteen buildings were burned here. The last village raided was Ballinaree, adjacent to Granard, where the raiders ran into an ambush of volunteers, losing three men killed and five wounded. They then were forced to retire.

The raiding party entered Granard at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night and proceeded immediately to the police barracks. All but two of the lorries were placed at strategic positions to prevent a surprise attack, and operating in two parties the men went methodically about the work of destruction.

At the town of Longford, the correspondent was told, eight soldiers accompanied the police, but did not take part in the reprisals.

A former soldier, one of the handful of the population remaining in the town after the shooting and killing of District Inspector of Police Kellegher on Sunday night, in his account of Wednesday night's raid on Granard, said the police were uniformed, wore helmets and caps and were commanded by a tall officer in a khaki uniform and riding breeches.

"The burning parties walked back after their visit to the barracks, carrying rifles and two Lewis guns, some of them playing melodeons and mouth-organs" he declared. "Machine guns were placed at a corner of the County Hall. Then with them the raiders fired several hundred shots, apparently to frighten the citizens. All of them seemed perfectly sober. There were no shots fired after the first fusilade. No explosives were used, the buildings which were burned being touched with petrol."

Inspector Kellegher, whose killing is supposed to have been the cause of the raid, is said to have been accused as one of the men responsible for the death of Lord Mayor MacCurtain of Cork. Inspector Kellegher was standing at the bar of the Grand Hotel Sunday evening when masked men entered and shot him dead. They made their escape.

HUGHES AGAINST IRISH CLAIMS

Tells Australian Parliament He Cannot Censure England.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Dispatches received here today say that Premier Hughes, in the course of a debate in the Australian Parliament on the Irish question, denied the contention of some of the members that Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork had died in a just cause.

While the Premier did not defend all the Government policies in Ireland, he said he could not ask Australia to censure England in the face of the Sinn Fein crimes.

The Australian Parliament, declared Premier Hughes, was not prepared to stand quietly by while endeavors were being made to establish a republic within such short range of England. In his opinion, settlement of the Irish situation was beyond the strength of any Parliament.

LONDON ART STUDENTS LAMPOON LEVERHULME

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Art made its protest today against Lord Leverhulme's recent action in cutting off the head of a portrait of himself and returning the remainder of th ecanvas to the artist, Augustus John, for which the painter is now suing the Baron for damages.

Hundreds of students from most of the London art schools took the matter of the "decapitation" into their own hands, and after a street procession headed by a band and flaunting caricature banners burnt an effigy labeled "Lord Leverhulme" in Hyde Park.

Led by an ex-service men's band, impressed for the occasion, the procession of students started from the Slade Art Schools at 11 A. M., the Quadrangle of University College at Gower Street being alive with jazz-colored figures of pretty girls and athletic young men. Most of them wore painters' smocks, on which were painted grotesque designs, while there were men ferociously bewhiskered, with grinning faces painted in ochre reds and vivid Prussian blues, set off by the picturesque black velvet birets of the Latin quarter.

At the head of the procession was a vast canvas bearing a caricature of the famous portrait, with the bold query: "What's the matter with it?" While behind was borne a monstrous looking top-hatted Guy Fawkes, waving a knife in his right hand.

Another banner was a canvas with a square hole showing where the head ought to be, while one of the major domos carried a fine black and white drawing of a haloed "St." John.

Swinging into Hyde Park Guy Fawkes was thrown down, a tin of petrol spilled over him, while a mock burial service was chanted and Last Post sounded. A great ring of students was formed, the band struck up a catchy air, and round went wildly leaping circles in a dance of the most eccentric sort.

JAPAN TO PROTEST ALIEN LAND LAW

HOPE OF SETTLEMENT SOON

Entertained in Tokio and Washington—Colby and Shidehara to Resume Parleys.

OKUMA ADVISES CALMNESS

Expresses Faith in America's Fairness, as Does a California Japanese Association.

TOKIO, Nov. 4 (Associated Press).—When confirmation has been received that the people of California have voted in favor of the proposed land law in that State, Japan will lodge a protest in Washington, pointing out the fact that the measure conflicts with Japanese treaty rights, according to the Yorozu Choho, an independent organ, which quotes a Foreign Office official to this effect. Formal negotiations, the newspaper says, will follow and an agreement permanently removing the cause of the trouble, which breaks out every four years, may be expected to be reached.

The Hochi Shimbun reports that M. Shidehara, Japanese Ambassador in Washington, and Secretary Colby have reached an agreement by which Japan will stop immigration to the United States, in return for which America will accord Japanese now in America the same treatment as other foreigners.

Marquis Okuma, former Premier, interviewed by the Yorozu Choho, declares that "only thoughtless people have talked of war between Japan and America over California."

"If Japan fights with arguments of dignity and impartiality," he is quoted as saying, "Americans will act justly."

The defeat of Governor Cox is attributed by Marquis Okuma to the League of Nations, which he declares "even Democrats dislike." He does not expect the Republican Administration will raise the tariff, owing to economic difficulties.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—Formal protest by Japan against the adoption of the anti-alien land law by California would be a usual course in diplomatic procedure, according to international lawyers here. Such action, it was explained, would be comparable to the filing of an objection by an attorney in the hearing of a law suit, and the effect would be to safeguard Japan's position in the diplomatic exchanges.

Discussion of the California law, which was begun many weeks ago by State Department officials and the Japanese Ambassador, will be resumed early next week, and at that time it is expected that an agreement will be reached which can be submitted for the consideration of the Japanese Government. The conferees are said to have reached enough common ground to cause them to hold the hope that an acceptable course of procedure will be mapped out.

While it is denied that a final agreement has been reached, it is understood that Secretary Colby and Ambassador Shidehara have agreed that the California law shall not be retroactive in effect, but shall apply only to Japanese who may hereafter come to the United States. Whether this agreement includes a stoppage of Japanese immigration, as reported in Tokio, could not be learned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—A call was issued today for a meeting here Nov. 15 of the Executive Committee of the Japanese Association of America to "determine what course the association shall follow as the result of the operation of the new anti-alien property law in California." The association is said to represent 60,000 Japanese in California, Utah, Nevada and Colorado.

K. Kanzaki, Secretary of the association, who announced the call, said that committee members were discussing the question of suspending the operation of the law through injunction. He declared, however, that he did not believe the injunction would be considered by the committee.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—The passage of the California alien land law is declared to be a great blow to the agricultural endeavors of the Japanese in a cablegram sent today by the Southern California Japanese Association to Premier Hara and Baron Shibusawa, President of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce.

"We have plans to solve the problem," the cable message added. "We are informed that the people are aroused to excitement by passage of the discriminatory act in California, but we earnestly advise Japan to be calm and patient at this moment. We believe that American fairness and national sense of justice will not permit discriminatory legislation by the State."

BANDITS STAGE RAID IN GERMAN TOWN

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Braunlage, a little town of 300 inhabitants and one of the favorite holiday resorts in the Harz Mountains, had an experience on Wednesday night which savors of life in the Wild West. Shortly after midnight a band of between twenty and thirty armed men, with their faces blackened, entered the town, apparently with the intention of carrying out robberies on a big scale. As a preliminary precaution they had cut all the telephone and telegraph wires.

They first held up the station, where they compelled the station master at the point of a revolver to open his safe, from which a goodly sum was obtained. Then the bandits turned their attention to the Post Office, but they were unable to secure entrance to the building.

They then went to the National Bank to see what booty could be obtained there, but before they could do anything an alarm had been raised. Though the town was plunged into darkness the fire brigade and police were called out and soon there was a big crowd in the streets.

Seeing that no more could be done the robbers made off, aided by the darkness. None of them was arrested.

PERMITS 10C. FARE ON FLATBUSH LINE

APPLIES TO ONE ROAD ONLY

O'Brien Will Take Case Higher and Ask a Stay to Stop Rise Pending Final Decision.

The Appellate Division, in a unanimous opinion yesterday, revoked the order of the Public Service Commission directing the Brooklyn City Railroad Company to cease charging more than a single 5-cent fare on its Flatbush Avenue line. Unless the commission is sustained later by the Court of Appeals passengers on this line will have to pay two fares and perhaps three where only one fare is charged now.

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien said last night that an appeal would be taken, and pending a final decision a stay would be asked to prevent any immediate increase in the fare. In any event the decision affects only this one line, as the proceedings were not instituted as a test case to blaze the way for higher fares by the surface lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system.

In its opinion the Appellate Division explained that when the Brooklyn City Company resumed possession of its property following a default in the rent due by the B. R. T. Company, which leased it, all conditions governing operation of the lines by the latter company ceased, and all of the old rights owned by the Brooklyn City Company were restored. These rights, the opinion states, could not be limited by any obligation assumed by the B. R. T. Company, such as the giving of transfers. Therefore the company had a legal right to charge a second fare on that part of its Flatbush Avenue line beyond the limits of Brooklyn as they existed in 1860.

Reviews History of Line.

A review of the history of the line is contained in the opinion. It shows that the Brooklyn City Company obtained a franchise in 1853 to operate between Fulton Ferry and the city line. Seven years later it obtained another franchise permitting the company to extend the line to Flatlands, and this town granted permission for an extension to Kings Highway. All of the territory in which the line operated was made part of Brooklyn before the property was leased by the B. R. T. Company.

Part of the opinion reads:

"We hold that the Brooklyn City Railroad Company in charging a second fare on that portion of the Flatbush Avenue line beyond the limits of the city line as it existed in 1860 is within its legal rights. The commission did not purport to inquire into the reasonableness of the rate or to exercise any of its powers to regulate rates. The question determined by it and the sole question before us is the legal right of the company to charge more than one five cent fare for each passenger carried by it from any point on its line to any other point under existing franchises and the effect thereon of general legislative enactments.

"The Legislature has not fixed a rate of fare specifically to be charged on this road nor has the Public Service Commission attempted to fix a rate."

O'Brien to Ask for a Stay.

The opinion did not go into the merits of the double fare but intimated that it might be reviewed in a subsequent proceeding.

Corporation Counsel O'Brien made this comment on the opinion:

" The decision does not, as the public may suppose, alter or adversely affect the rulings already made by the Court of Appeals with regard to increasing the 5-cent fare as stipulated in the franchises granted by the city. These franchises stand unimpaired. This decision involves simply a special situation which arose in regard to the Flatbush Avenue line of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, the Directors of which undertook last year to charge double fares, in all aggregating 10 cents. This situation does not apply to any other part of the old B. R. T. system.

" With due respect to the Appellate Division. I believe that it is fair to say that this court has construed ambiguous sections of the railroad law and Public Service Commissions law in favor of the company and against the public. I shall immediately take steps to carry this matter to the Court of Appeals and to secure a stay in the meantime restraining the company from collecting this double fare. I am quite confident that the Court of Appeals will take a different view of the law from the ruling just made by the Appellate Division."

BRYCE URGES OUR HELP.

Says League Covenant Is Not Perfect, but Can Be Amended.

OXFORD, England, Nov. 5.—Viscount Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States, in an address today at the British-American Club, said that the Old World at the present time needed the help of America more than it ever did, for never before was it in such a welter of misery and strife.

He said that he hoped means would be found by which America could render that help as a member of the League of Nations. The covenant of the League was not a perfect instrument, but it was susceptible of amendment, he declared.

MILLER MEETS GLYNN HERE.

Governor-Elect Pledges Early Action on Transit Problem.

Governor-elect Nathan L. Miller was in this city for a few hours yesterday, on his way to Atlantic City to rest from the fatigue of his campaign. At the St. Regis, he conferred with Chairman Glynn of the Republican State Committee on matters pertaining to the next administration at Albany. The Governor-elect told reporters he was happy but tired. One of the first matters to receive his attention after his inauguration, he said, would be the transit situation in this city.

" I favor concentrating authority in regard to transit matters in some way that will put an end to the present policy of drifting and promote action along lines that will insure ample transportation facilities for the people," said Judge Miller.

The Governor added that he would have nothing further to say on this subject until he had given more study to the problem. Regarding Prohibition enforcement he said:

" I am in favor of a State law, conforming in general to the act of Congress and providing for enforcement by local officials. If such a law were honestly enforced it should obviate the necessity of having an army of Federal enforcement agents quartered on the State.

While at the St. Regis Judge Miller received Governor Smith's telegram of congratulations, to which re replied:

Governor Alfred E. Smith, Albany, N. Y.

Please accept my sincere thanks for your sincere telegram of congratulation.

(Signed) NATHAN L. MILLER.

" I am satisfied of the absolute loyalty of the Republican leaders in this city," he said concerning the election. " They simply were not able to cope with Tammany methods concentrated in a fight against one man for the election of another man. The up-State counties did not have any such situation to contend with."

Hull Probably Wins in Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 5.—Returns received by The Nashville Banner from the Fourth Congressional District, where Representative Hull, Democrat, is having a close race with W. F. Clouse, Republican, indicate the re-election of Hull. With Morgan and Fentress Counties missing, Hull has a lead of 2,603 votes. The Tennesseean reports that Fentress has given 1,100 majority to Clouse and Morgan County 700 to 800. This would give Hull a lead of 700 to 800 votes.

GEDDES URGES LIMIT ON TRADE RIVALRY

Bars Competition Organized by Government and Supported by Political Action.

WARNS OF SHIPPING LAWS

Declares the British Policy Is Based on Equal Opportunity in Commerce.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—America and Great Britain must avoid national trade competition " organized by Government and supported by political action," Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, declared today in an address at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon here.

If the United States or Great Britain, he said, were to begin to organize areas of exclusive economic adventure there " would inevitably come a clash of interests that would at least strain the friendly relations between the countries."

Sir Auckland denied statements appearing in American newspapers that American ships had been placed at a disadvantage with British ships by British Government action. He declared, however, not " in any sense as a threat, however veiled, but as a matter of interest," that if the British Empire should adopt a law precisely similar to the American law limiting coastwise traffic to ships flying its own flag " there would be some far-reaching derangements in the business of non-British shipping."

" We are not thinking at present of adopting any such law," he added, " for our trade policy is based on the policy of 'fair trade and equal opportunity.' "

Speaking not only as the Ambassador of England but as the representative of all the British dominions and colonies, " of one-quarter of the human race," Sir Auckland said he had no hesitation in asserting that he misrepresented no opinion of importance when he declared it was the wish of all the British people to live in peace and amity with the United States and " with all the nations of the earth."

" I sometimes read in your newspapers," he said, " of these subtle, devilish schemes which the British Government is preparing with the object of preventing your trade expansion. I have been a member of the British Cabinet, I have been the Minister of the Crown responsible for the trade policy and activities of the Government, and I assure you formally and without reservation that the principle which underlies British trade policy is expressed in the five words: 'Fair trade and equal opportunity.'

" If we continue to trust one another, if we know as States we can trust one another, not to attempt to steal marches each upon the other, then I believe that the competition of our respective traders will add to and not subtract from the understanding of the one nation by the other.

" Let me declare without any possibility of misunderstanding, the British Government will welcome the co-operation of the Government of the United States in dealing with the problems of the East and the West, and that so far as trade is concerned it stands today by its old policy of fair trade and equal opportunity."

WOMAN SHERIFF WARNS 'BAD MEN' OF COUNTY

Mrs. Johnson of Michigan Says She Can 'Land Them' Herself if It Becomes Necessary.

ROSCOMMON, Mich., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Jane Johnson, 65 years old, and mother of three children, who is Sheriff-elect of Roscommon County, outlined today the platform on which she will go into office in January.

"I can land a bad man, or a bad woman myself, if necessary," she said, "but as a matter of precaution I will appoint my husband deputy. In the intervals between searching for and caring for prisoners I will look after my children (two girls and a boy) and the domestic duties in the county jail."

Mrs. Johnson added that in case it should become necessary for her "to arrest a bad man, he will know some one has been after him."

The Sheriff-elect gained her experience from her husband, who has been Sheriff for six years. She married him forty years ago.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 5.—Miss Alice Robertson, newly elected Congresswoman from the Second Oklahoma District, today congratulated Mrs. Jane Johnson, who has been elected Sheriff of Roscommon County, Mich. " Bless your soul," wired Miss Robertson, adding that she hoped that Mrs. Johnson would be a successful sheriff.

PRISONER KILLS WARDEN.

Trusty Also Beaten to Death in Mount Holly, N. J., Jail.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Nov. 5.—Harry Asay, a prisoner suffering from delirium tremens, killed Warden W. Harry King and Charles Vernon, a trusty, with an iron bar in the Burlington County Jail here today.

Warden King came to the cell with a bottle of medicine which he had been directed by the jail physician to give to Asay at intervals. The prisoner was waiting with an iron bar he had loosened from the cell window. As the warden entered Asay leaped at him and beat him to death. He then ran to the kitchen, where he attacked Vernon, crushing his head and causing his death a few hours later. Asay was later overpowered and disarmed by Sheriff Haines, Under Sheriff Fleetwood and Detective Doran.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The House of Commons finally passed tonight the first measure to give effect to the recommendations of the International Labor Congress held last year in Washington in connection with the League of Nations. The bill prohibits the employment of women and persons under 18 years old in certain processes of lead manufacture and lays down regulations for such work as they may do.

The penalty for any infringement of its provisions will be £20. Colonel John Ward, a labor member, hailed it as the first great step toward an international labor code.

Police Inspector Dwyer in Hospital.

Police Inspector John F. Dwyer, who is in command of the Police Reserves, was recently removed from his home at 436 Seventy-second Street, Brooklyn, to the Swedish Hospital, Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, suffering from a bad attack of pneumonia. At the hospital last night it was stated that although the Inspector is still a pretty sick man, he is resting easily and is not dangerously ill.

A Big Job
For A Big Man

Last week the 30th link was added to this fast-growing chain system of tire and accessory stores.

Although we now have stores in many of the principal cities of the East, there are hundreds of thousands of motorists in the more remote areas whom we can serve only through our agency plan.

We intend to begin operating this plan at once. It has been carefully laid and is without precedent in chain store merchandising.

We want the man who can sell this plan. First, he must be a highly successful salesman himself. He must have the ability to develop men, to organize and direct an intelligent, highly productive sales department, and his record irreproachable.

Remuneration is salary and bonus.

Write at once and at length. A personal interview will be arranged in New York or Philadelphia.

OVERCOATS & SUITS
at Prices that Will Create a Sensation

We move to our new store on November 18, and, by that date, our entire stock must be disposed of. This requires quick action, and so we've arranged our entire stock in two groups, one on each side of the store.

On the right-hand side we've placed all our highest - grade Garments, including our imported O'coats and the nationally advertised brands that sold regularly at $100, $95, $90 and $85. Your choice, during the next 3 days, at

$57.50

THE OVERCOATS — Imported English models in Raglans—warm but not heavy Ulsters and Ulsterettes; also Dress Overcoats made of the finest domestic and foreign fabrics.

THE SUITS—Finest unfinished worsteds in rich hair-lines, and in other pleasing patterns and newest colorings.

On the left side of the Store we've placed all the Suits and O'coats regularly priced $75, $70, $65 and $60, from which you can make your choice, during the next 3 days, at

THE OVERCOATS—Latest models of remarkably fine materials. Ulsters, Ulsterettes, Raglans; form-fitting, and conservative Chesterfields.

THE SUITS—Single and double-breasted models in large variety of all-wool fabrics. Many of them are from our Nationally Advertised Brands.

Every garment included—nothing reserved (excepting Full Dress Suits). $57.50 gives you choice of the entire stock for the next three days.

After 3 days' selling there will be an additional reduction of $5 on each group. Every 3 days thereafter another $5 reduction will automatically be made until the entire stock is sold.

It is well to remember, however, that, while you can save $5 or $10 on top of the above-mentioned enormous reductions—by waiting for the automatically lowered prices—you will not find so good a selection later. Wise buyers will prefer to come to-day and pick from the $100 and $95 models in Group 1, or from the $75 and $70 garments in Group 2.

Your money back, on request, for any unsatisfactory purchase

ROW BEHIND THE CURTAINS

'Robber!' 'Liar!' 'Thief!' Is Heard When Explanation Is Offered the 1,200 Present.

An opera chorus insistent upon pay in advance delayed the New York Opera Association's performance of "Aida" in the Lexington Opera House last night until the audience of 1,200 started a near-riot, and the police reserves had to be called from the East Fifty-first Street Station to save men in the box office from a beating.

Although part of the chorus of the association was composed of volunteers desirous of experience, most of the male singers were professionals who think more of breakfast than of high art. Dissatisfied with the association's treatment of them after the season's first performance of "Carmen" on Tuesday night these professional signers last night notified General Manager Theodore Van Hamert that they wouldn't even put on their makeup until they got their pay for the night's work.

This demand was served on the manager by a man who said he was Harry Chinchin of 162 West 116th Street, and a representative of one of the theatrical unions. While the crowds were taking their seats in the orchestra the argument raged behind the curtain. The patrons of high art took their seats and waited for an hour—and still the battle of words was waged on the empty stage.

An hour after the curtain had been due to rise, one of the managers heard a menacing roar from behind the heavy steel curtain and above the din of argument singers and managers heard a loud operatic voice reverberate from the mid-distance of the box office:

"Kill him! Punch him! If he won't give us our money back we'll choke him to death."

Then, instead of the blasting trumpets of Aida, a milling audience, many in evening dress, heard the shrill note of a police whistle, followed in a few minutes by the steady tramp of the police reserves, who struck menacing notes as their nightsticks hit the pavement here and there. With the police standing guard the patrons of art took their seats again and waited for the real trumpets of the Egyptian pageant.

Compromising quickly, the members of the chorus accepted $215 for their night's work—said they deserved $219—and started to put on their makeup. Then fresh trouble developed. Ada Paggi, contralto, didn't like the color of her check and said she wouldn't sing any of her notes until she had her fee in her pocket in legal tender of the U. S. A.

"How can anybody be artistic with so many mercenaries?" shouted the frantic Van Hamert. "I paid in cash money last Tuesday. I have been swindled. I paid myself. I can't pay any more. Now everybody can go home and we won't sing at all."

At 10 o'clock a man with a mighty voice edged his way in front of the curtain, faced a resentful audience of opera lovers, cleared his throat, and started:

"Ladies and gentlemen: Due to unavoidable——"

"Robber! Liar! Thief!" reverberated the booming voice in the distance.

When waving nightsticks had stilled the throng, the announcer was permitted to say that all those who wished their money back could get it today by presenting their seat checks at the offices of Allen & Fabiana at 101 West Forty-first Street. Pandemonium greeted this, but the police finally edged managers, singers and crowd into the street and turned out the lights—the programs said it was "Sicilian Night" at the opera.

IRISH INQUIRY NOV. 17.

Commission Announces List of Witnesses for Hearing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The American Commission on Ireland, which will hold a public inquiry into conditions in that country, beginning with hearings in Washington on Nov. 17, announced today that the following witnesses had been invited to come from Ireland:

The Lord Mayors of Belfast, Londonderry and Cork, the Chairman of the Urban Council of Mallow, John Derham, Town Commissioner of Balbriggan; Denis Morgan, Chairman of the Urban Council of Thurles; Mrs. Thomas MacCurtain, widow of the former Lord Mayor of Cork, who was slain in March; Miss Irene E. Swanzy, sister of Police Inspector Swanzy of the Royal Irish Constabulary, who was murdered in Lisburn.

Alexander Gunn in Piano Recital.

Alexander Gunn, a pianist of lively imagination and expression, who played last Winter in Aeolian Hall, returned there last evening in a recital that included a third hearing on the same stage this week of MacDowell's "Keltic" sonata. Mr. Gunn gave perhaps the best, certainly the most spirited, version of a finale descriptively entitled "Very Swift and Fierce," and he added a touch of humor by closing his program with "Maguire's Kick," from an Irish jig of Stanford's, adapted by Grainger. In more serious vein were Bach's "Italian Concerto," Ravel's "Sonatine," a pair from the French composer's "Le Tombeau de Couperin," and little pieces by Groviez and Debussy.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

John Henry Mears has arranged to send the Century Midnight Whirl, originally produced by Morris Gest, on tour under his own management and also plans to make two new productions in New York this season. These will be a comedy by John Willard, entitled "Home Brew," and, in the Spring, a revue to be called "Gossips of 1921."

"Honors Are Even," Roi Cooper Megrue's new comedy, will be produced in Washington by the Selwyns on Nov. 22. The cast will include William Courtenay, Lola Fisher, Boots Wooster, Gordon Johnstone, Horace Sinclair, Paul Kelly, Ethel Strickland and others.

Carlotta Monterey will join the cast of "The Dauntless Three" in Baltimore next week. This play, in which Robert Warwick is appearing, will probably be brought to New York in a few weeks.

"When We Are Young," a comedy by Kate L. McLaurin, will be produced in Stamford tonight by the Shuberts. The cast will be headed by Henry Hull and will include George Marion, Winifred Lenihan, Frank Monroe and others.

Leo Carrillo, who recently appeared out of town in a new play, "The Toreador," is entering vaudeville.

Basil Dean, who produced "The Skin Game" here, will sail on the Olympic today. Also on the Olympic will be John Murray Anderson, who will produce a revue in London.

MUSIC NOTES.

Laura Nemeth, who made her debut in "Faust" at the Scala in Milan, has been engaged there for the season, according to a cable dispatch to her father, John Nemeth, a banker of New York.

Cantor Josef Rosenblatt will sing tenor songs and airs at the Brooklyn Academy tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the Y. M. H. I. and the Daughters of Judea Mizrachi.

Yvette Guilbert will have the help of Emily Gresser, violinist, at a recital in Brooklyn on Monday.

Joseph Breil has arranged patriotic airs for the coming armistice week program at the Capitol Theatre.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The National Symphony Orchestra.

The National Symphony Orchestra gave another concert yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, following its last one with vertiginous rapidity. The audience looked rather small, and with the number of orchestral concerts impending, it is difficult to see why many audiences should look otherwise.

The program comprised Schumann's Fourth Symphony in D minor, Ernest Bloch's suite for viola and orchestra and Tschaikowsky's overture fantasia, "Romeo and Juliet." Mr. Bloch's suite is an orchestration of what was originally written for viola and piano, the form in which the piece was played here last season and in which it won the prize offered a year ago by Mrs. Elizabeth Shurtleff Coolidge. It was said at the time that the composer had the orchestra in mind when he was composing it, for which reason the form in which it was played yesterday may be considered the definitive one. Louis Bailly, who has borne the heat and burden of interpreting Bloch's suite ever since it was first made known, played it yesterday with distinguished skill.

The composer has employed a fantastic and highly colored orchestration that fits the quality of the work. It cannot be said that it adds beauty to music that has always seemed conspicuously lacking in that quality; in more than one place it seems, on the contrary, to add new excruciations. In the last movement, particularly, and to a somewhat less degree in some of the others, it serves to bring out more clearly the influence of the Far East that Mr. Bloch has avowed and that is plainly enough to be heard in the music.

Mr. Bodansky played Schumann's symphony as the composer directed it to be played, without pause between the movements. No doubt this helps the effect of the symphony by eliminating the disturbance of applause and of late comers forcing a way to their seats and slamming them down. And no doubt many another symphony whose composer has given no such direction would also gain similarly by the same treatment. He played the music with much crispness of rhythm and with pretty rapid tempos for the quick movements, and perhaps there could have been something more of romantic warmth in the Romanza, but the performance was effective.

Nelson Illingworth's Recital.

Nelson Illingworth, an Australian singer, made his first appearance in New York yesterday afternoon at the Princess Theatre in a song recital before an audience that might properly be called small. He presented a program made up entirely of German Lieder by Schubert, Loewe, Franz, Brahms and Schumann, all sung in English. Mr. Illingworth is said to have done important service in making this kind of music known in the Antipodes, especially in New South Wales, where there has been a great accession of interest in music, choral and instrumental, as well as the Lied.

He is an unaccustomed figure on the concert platform in his personal appearance as well as in his manner of singing songs. His voice is not of much beauty or volume, and the upper ranges of it are especially lacking in quality and frequently somewhat flat in pitch. But he manages to make his interpretation of the music he sings curiously interesting, even engrossing, by the intensity with which he enters into its spirit and the characteristic exposition he gives it. In this he is aided by a very intelligible enunciation of the English texts, as well as by an amount of facial expression and bodily movements that are obviously to a large extent unconscious, and are considerably more than are generally seen or expected on the concert stage. The song finished, Mr. Illingworth is as one emerging from a hypnotic trance.

He is most successful in songs of a serious or tragic nature, as Schubert's "My Abode" and "Atlas," Loewe's "Erl King" and "Edward," Franz's "Dedication," "On the Sea" and Brahms's "That I Would No More See Thee" and "Treachery." His versions of "Edward" and "Treachery" had such a grim and gruesome note as is rarely communicated by singers with many more resources of certain kinds than he possesses.

"LA JUIVE" TO OPEN SEASON.

Metropolitan Operas for First Week Include 'Elisir d'Amore' and 'Zaza.'

Halevy's opera "La Juive" will ring up the curtain on a new Metropolitan season a week from next Monday evening, with Caruso, Rose Ponselle, Evelyn Scotney, Orville Harrold and Rothier in the cast and Bodanzky conducting. On the following night the company will go to Brooklyn with Farrar, Harrold, Chalmers and Whitehill in "Faust."

General Manager Gatti-Casazza yesterday announced the other subscription operas on Broadway for the first week of his thirteenth season as director. The first Wednesday will be "Aida," with Destinn, Matzenauer, Martinelli, Danise and Mardones, led by Moranzoni; Thursday, "Elisir d'Amore," Caruso, Garrison, Scotti, Didur, with Papi at the baton, and Friday evening "Zaza," Farrar, Howard, Martinelli and De Luca.

First of the "novelties and revivals" will be an English "Tristan and Isolde" that starts the Saturday matinee subscription on Nov. 20. There will be a wholly new production designed by Joseph Urban, and the famous rôles in Wagner's love tragedy will be sung by Sembach and Matzenauer, together with Jeanne Gordon, Whitehill, Diaz and Blass.

Charlotte Williams, Violinist, Plays.

Charlotte Demuth Williams appeared as violinist at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon, as she had in a former season, dispaying a mature and intelligent musicianship, in contrast with some recent aspirants, yet without the redeeming warmth and youthful abandon of those rival players. Assisted by Mrs. William Mason Bennett at the piano, she gave Handel's D major sonata, Lalo's so-called "Spanish Symphony," four interesting "Rocky Mountain Sketches," by Cecil Burleigh and three arrangements by Kreisler, including the popular "Hymn to the Sun," from the opera, "Coq d'Or."

FRENCH AND CZECHS SIGN TRADE TREATY

It Makes Mutual Tariff Concessions on Articles Which Are Largely Exchanged.

PARIS, Nov. 5 (Associated Press.)—The preliminary commercial treaty between France and Czechoslovakia, which was signed yesterday in Paris, is the first of a number of similar compacts which France will negotiate with many nations of the world within the next few years.

Having denounced all existing commercial treaties, the French Government is planning to arrange new ones. Meantime the old treaties are being extended every three months until they are replaced by new agreements.

The Associated Press is informed that France has been urging a new commercial treaty with the United States, but that the American officials have pointed out that there are great difficulties in the way of negotiating any sort of treaty, and that this probably will nullify the French efforts.

The Franco-Czechoslovakia Treaty is a barter and trade agreement, with virtually no financial clauses. In it France and Czechoslovakia have made mutual tariff concessions on articles which are largely exchanged between the two countries. Barter and trade probably will be the chief features of all the French commercial treaties. Through such means France hopes to obtain the material she needs, and at the same time develop markets for domestic products. The treaties are to form part of the plan to re-establish the pre-war commerce of France.

Among the principal articles which will be exported to France by Czechoslovakia will be glass and wood, which are needed for rebuilding the devastated areas. In return France will export to Czechoslovakia phosphates, iron ore and all other raw materials which can be spared.

The details of the treaty with Czechoslovakia will probably be withheld until the final covenant is signed. It is understood that similar compacts are now being negotiated with Belgium and Italy, but that most of France's treaties will be delayed until the European economic situation improves.

French officials regard the Czechoslovak treaty as extremely advantageous to both countries, since it will have the effect of reducing purchases in those countries where the exchange rate is adverse to France and Czechoslovakia.

Will Preach on Girl Scout Plan.

Tomorrow will be "Girl Scout Sunday" in connection with a ten days' campaign for $1,033,400. Among the clergymen who have promised to preach about the Girl Scout movement are Archbishop Hayes, Bishop Charles S. Burch, Rabbi Nathan Stern, the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, Dean Howard Chandler Robbins, the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill and the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant.

MAD HATTER WINS; TWO RECORDS FALL

WINNER SETS TRACK MARK

Runs Mile in 1:38—The Porter Establishes Pimlico Figures for Mile and Three-Sixteenths.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—In one of the most thrilling contests seen on an Eastern track this season, Sam C. Hildreth's Fair Play colt, Mad Hatter, won the Pimlico serial No. 2 at a mile at Pimlico this afternoon, taking the measure of Commander J. K. L. Ross's two great performers, Billy Kelly and Sir Barton, and clipping a full second from the previous track record. The Hildreth colt ran the mile in 1:38. The previous record was 1:39, established by Hampton Court in 1910 and equaled three times since then.

This was not, however, the only sensational performance in a day of excellent racing, for Edward B. McLean's The Porter also broke a track record in the sixth race when he won easily from Boniface and Damask at a mile and three-sixteenths and ran the distance in 1:58 2-5 with 130 pounds up. This was one-fifth of a second better than the mark made by Manister Toi two years ago when the latter carried but 108 pounds.

Mad Hatter's race was the best he has run this year, if not in his entire career. He displayed remarkable speed after a slow start, and was much the best, though carrying equal weight with his rivals, of which Sir Barton is considered the king of the handicap performers of the year. It was a fine triumph for the Hildreth colt and marked his sixth straight victory, though this was the first time that he had been called upon to face strong contention since his winning streak was started.

Sir Barton Not at His Best.

On the other hand, Sir Barton was not the same Sir Barton which raced horses dizzy at Saratoga in August. He showed but a flash of that speed and, after going six furlongs, he cracked badly. He ran gamely today, but it was apparent that he was far from being at his best when the final test came. Sir Barton is just another of the several victims of the great Man O' War. Every horse that has tried to race with the champion has suffered a setback, and Sir Barton today plainly showed the effect of having tried to measure strides with the super-horse. But the condition of the Ross horse was not apparent until the race was being run and, therefore, Sir Barton and Billy Kelly were made an odds on choice as an entry. Commander Ross had hoped to win the prize of $1,000 offered to the owner providing two winners in the series of three specials.

Sir Barton broke with his usual early dash, and at once went to the front. In the first half mile he opened up a gap of nearly three lengths and, running in what appeared to be his best form, he seemed to be on the way to an easy victory. Billy Kelly was second to him and under restraint. Mad Hatter, which broke last in an outside position, was forced to go wide at the first turn and did not become prominent until the back stretch was reached. Then Ensor moved up gradually with him until he had disposed of Billy Kelly and was a length back of Sir Barton. Ensor did not make a further effort, but Sir Barton soon changed the aspects of the race. At the six furlong pole he began to slow up badly, and Mad Hatter, rushing past Sir Barton into the lead, soon had opened a gap of two lengths.

Kummer, who had the mount on Billy Kelly, then took up the chase, but Mad Hatter turned into the stretch with a comfortable lead, and though the Ross gelding made a desperate effort, he could not seriously threaten the winner, though he did force Ensor to go to the whip in the last sixteenth. Sir Barton got a short breathing spell, and, once in the stretch, he made another attempt to get up, but it was futile, for Mad Hatter was the only horse that had any speed left.

Sennings Park ran a very disappointing race and was evidently unable to carry equal weight with horses of this class. He was forced to go wide at the first turn and was never again able to get up with the front runners.

The Porter Shows Form.

The victory of The Porter came in the Monumental Handicap and was a remarkable performance for this stout little horse under his heavy impost. He was cleverly ridden by Butwell, who made his move at the right time, and was able to get home nearly two lengths in front of Boniface, with Damask third, a length back. There were seven starters. Bondage was so badly outrun that he was pulled up when nearly a furlong back of the field.

Bridesman led the way until half way through the back stretch, when he began to tire and The Porter took the lead. Boniface began to show his real speed as he turned into the stretch and made a determined effort to catch the leader, but The Porter fairly galloped home once he was straightened out in the stretch, and seemed not to mind the 130 pounds in the saddle. Damask was never a serious contender, but closed stoutly and took third from Thunderstorm with little trouble. Chassuer and Bridesman found the company entirely too fast for them at the distance, and Bondage always had a good view of the race from a long distance back.

As Commander Ross had horses entered in nearly every race, it was rumored it was to be a "Ross day." It turned out that the Canadian sportsman won but two of the several purses he tried for. His costly two-year-old, Pampas, gained a close decision over a large field of maidens at six furlongs and won by a nose from Tarantula after Kummer outrode Ensor in the last sixteenth of a mile. Baywood, the other victory for the Ross colors, came in the final race, a six-furlong dash, in which his choice finished with a rush and got her head in front of Bon Jour, with Bobby Allen but a nose further back. There were twelve starters in the race and it was a scramble all the way. His Choice was far back until headed for home, when Gruneson put up a strong finish.

Trench Mortar, the Ross colorbearer in the first race, was badly defeated when Pitter Patter got home first among the maiden three-year-olds and upward. Sir Clarence was second and Lady Beverwyck third among these cheap performers.

The best field of two-year-olds went to the post in the fifth race. It was won by Polythia, which had the most speed for this six-furlong dash. Bon Homme was second and Two Pair third. Bastille and Cavendish, from the Ross stable, failed to finish in the money. Polythia led all the way and just lasted to win.

Two-Year-Olds Face Mile Test in Walden Handicap

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—The Walden Handicap, a test for two-year-olds at one mile, which provides a good line on the coming three-year-olds, will be run at Pimlico Saturday afternoon. Seventeen of the best juveniles still in training have been named overnight for the race, and it promises to be one of the best juvenile contests since the running of the Futurity. Walter J. Salmon's Step Lightly, winner of the Futurity, has topweight with 120 pounds and will meet, among others, Knobbie, Ten Lec, Broomspun, By Jiminy and Sailing B., some of which have already been tried at a mile.

AMATEUR BOUTS IN GARDEN.

Four A. A. U. Tournaments to be Held in Madison Square Arena.

Plans were completed yesterday for the holding of four big amateur boxing tournaments in Madison Square Garden during the coming season. These shows will be held under the joint auspices of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union and Tex Rickard, who is an ardent advocate of all forms of amateur athletics despite his connection with professional sports.

The first tournament of the four scheduled at the Garden is the Metropolitan A. A. U. championships on Nov. 29 and 30, and this will be followed by the New York State championships on Jan. 3 and 4. A big intercity tournament, with boxers from Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York competing, is scheduled for Feb. 23 and 24, and on March 18 and 19 it is planned to conduct a special tournament, which will probably serve as a tryout to select the team to represent the metropolitan district in the national championships at Boston two weeks later.

"The Amateur Athletic Union has been promoting amateur boxing and boxing championships annually for the last thirty-two years, and all through this period the sport has been conducted on a high plane," said Frederick W. Rubien, President of the Metropolitan Association, last night, "but as a rule the annual championships of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. have been held at one of the big athletic clubs, such as the New York A. C., the City A. C. and the Crescent A. C., and none except members of these clubs and their friends has been admitted. The lack of a suitable public hall which could be obtained at a reasonable rental has been responsible for the amateur boxing championships being decided before the members of New York's exclusive clubs. The present arrangement will enable all lovers of boxing to witness our championship bouts."

When the situation was explained to Rickard by the officers of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U. he immediately realized that something ought to be done to give the public an opportunity to witness the boxing championships of the Metropolitan A. A. U. and entered into the agreement whereby the big amateur boxing shows, including sixteen championship bouts, will be held at Madison Square Garden during the Winter months.

In discussing the plans for these amateur boxing tournaments last night, Rickard had the following to say: "I realize there are many people in New York who would like to witness good boxing bouts and who cannot afford to pay the prices charged for the high class professional bouts, and I believe these amateur shows and championships at popular prices in Madison Square Garden will fill a long felt want."

JOCKEY IS DISCIPLINED.

Frank O'Neill of St. Louis, Leading Rider in France, Set Down.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Frank O'Neill of St. Louis, the leading jockey in France, was set down for an indefinite period today at the St. Cloud race track for having his mount left at the post. O'Neill, who had the leg up on Le Chatelet in the Royal Oaks Stakes, said the horse refused to break, although he put the whip and spurs to him.

O'Neill's winning mounts this season number 127. Guy Garner, another American jockey, is next to O'Neill, with 54 wins. Last June O'Neill won the Epsom Derby in England with Spion Kop, having obtained special permission from the late William K. Vanderbilt, who had first call on hs servcesl, t ccept the munt frm Spn Kpo's English wner, Major G. Loder.

STERLING WINNER OVER CAPTAIN MAC

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 5. — The Louisville Hotel Handicap at a mile and an eighth, a test for three-year-olds, was taken in clever fashion at the Churchill Downs track this afternoon by Sterling.

Captain Mac was installed as favorite in the field of four which went to the post, but second was the best the Captain could do. Off to a good start, Sterling quickly showed in front and was never headed thereafter. Captain Mac, interferred with soon after the start, challenged in the stretch run, but could not get up and hung a trifle at the end. He finished a length behind Sterling. Dresden managed to save show money from Travesty by a neck.

The other named race of the card, the Prospect Purse, at six furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, went to the favorite, High Cloud.

Low's bay colt was away well and followed the pace closely in the early stages of the running. He saved ground for the entire trip and took the lead coming into the stretch. He had to be hard ridden, however, to withstand the challenge made by Blushing Beauty. High Cloud finally won by a length. Blushing Beauty, which was the well-played second choice, began slowly and had to go wide coming into the stretch.

Cyclists Are Warned Again Against Unsanctioned Race

Chairman Richard F. Kelsey of the Board of Control of the National Cycling Association issued a statement yesterday to the effect that any rider taking part in the 22d Regiment Armory six-day bicycle race would be automatically suspended from competition under National Cycling Association rules, sanction for the race referred to not having been granted. This will prevent all riders who compete in this race from riding on the tracks governed by National Cycling Association rules at Newark, Boston, Philadelphia and Providence.

LYNCH IS WINNER IN BOUT AT GARDEN

The bantamweight championship ambition nurtured by Abe Goldstein, east side product of the local amateur ranks, was rudely shattered last night at Madison Square Garden by Joe Lynch, the little west side bantamweight, before a crowd which filled the big indoor arena. Lynch, with a succession of pile-driving right-hand blows to the jaw, sent Goldstein crashing to the floor of the ring in the eleventh round, where Referee Jack Skelly counted the little east sider out as he lay in a reclining position.

The finish of the contest came in a spectacular manner, two minutes and 38 seconds after the start of the round. Lynch, opening up in a burst of speed which surprised Goldstein, suddenly drove over a right to the jaw. Goldstein's little body shivvered under the impact of the blow and he sought the refuge of a clinch.

The west sider, quick to see his advantage, chased Goldstein about the ring, trying with extended left to force an opening for another crushing right. Goldstein covered himself well and tried to get close to his rival, but Lynch hammered him with a volley of stinging rights which completely stunned the east sider and made him an easy victim of one final, well-directed, decisive right crash on the jaw.

The blow sent Goldstein crumpling unconscious in the centre of the ring. Referee Skelly started the count, and when he reached eight Willie Lewis, Goldstein's manager, was crawling through the ropes, admitting defeat for his man. Skelly's back was to Goldstein's corner, so that he did not see Lewis, and proceeded with his count until he had tolled off ten.

The finish came with a suddenness which shocked the vast crowd. Up to the eleventh session there was no indication of a knockout by either boxer. Goldstein, showing strongly in the early rounds, weakened perceptibly as the contest progressed, and took advantage of every opportunity to hold in the clinches. Lynch was slow in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds, and in these sessions Goldstein showed to advantage. He beat Lynch to the jab repeatedly, and at close quarters prevented the west sider's attempts to deliver punishing blows to the body.

In the fourth round Goldstein shook Lynch with a stinging right cross to the jaw, but when he tried to follow the advantage Lynch was wary and in his excitement Goldstein was wild. Again in the seventh Goldstein hurt Lynch, this time with a left hook to the stomach, but Lynch returned the compliment with interest.

After this round Lynch opened up a notch and crowded Goldstein before him, seeking always for a presentable opportunity to crash home a right, but the chance did not come until the eleventh round had gone more than two minutes, when, like a flash, Lynch sent over the blow which started Goldstein on the downward path.

Lynch weighed 118 pounds, and Goldstein's poundage was announced as 115.

The opening bout brought together Billy Sterns of Minneapolis and Jimmy O'Gatty, a local product. Patsy Haley, making his debut as a referee under the Walker law, officiated. Sterns substituted for Willie Schaefer. The Minneapolis boxer gained the judges' award after six interesting rounds.

Phil Bloom, Brooklyn veteran, engaged Georgie Ward of Elizabeth, N. J., in the first of the ten round bouts. Ward received the judges' verdict at the end of the tenth session. The decision did not find favor with the crowd and the spectators openly voiced disapproval.

The next six-round contest produced the quickest knockout recorded in the Garden since the advent of boxing. The principals were George ("Knockout") Chaney, a Baltimore youngster who once aspired to Johnny Kilbane's title, and Georgie Brown of the West Side. The lads had been going exactly one minute and 37 seconds when Chaney, a southpaw, sent over a short, lefthand hook to the jaw with crushing force. Brown crumpled like a wet rag and was counted out by Referee Jack Skelly.

DUFFY TO MANAGE BOSTON AMERICANS

Veteran Outfielder Succeeds Barrow as Red Sox Pilot—Yankees Get Checks.

President Harry H. Frazee of the Boston Red Sox last night announced the appointment of Hugh Duffy as manager of his team, succeeding Ed Barrow, who resigned the place several days ago to become business manager of the Yankees. The appointment causes no surprise as Duffy had been regarded as the most likely successor to Barrow. Frazee had narrowed down the field to Duffy and Harry Hooper, but finally decided upon a bench manager instead of a playing leader.

Duffy's selection will strike a popular chord among Boston fans and it will be welcomed throughout the American League circuit. The new manager of the Red Sox attained his greatest fame as a player while a member of the Boston Nationals from 1892 to 1900. He ranks as one of the greatest outfielders that baseball has known. He has had plenty of managerial experience in the majors since the close of his playing days, having led the Philadelphia Nationals in 1904-05-06 and the Chicago White Sox in 1910-11. Of recent years he has served as a manager in the International League, as major league scout and as a college coach.

Checks were mailed yesterday from the Yankees' office here to all players who were with the club at the close of the recent season. Each check called for $400, covering the Yanks' third place share in the melon cutting following the world's series. The third place dividend amounted to $10,744 and twenty-five players drew down equal amounts. The remainder was divided among Trainer Al Wood, Groundkeeper Phil Schenck and the club's traveling Secretary, Mark Roth.

Word from Chicago yesterday was that Ban Johnson intimated that there would be no joint meeting of major league club owners in that city Monday afternoon. This is supposed to infer that the so-called "loyalists" will not attend the conference which was decided upon at the reorganization meeting of two weeks ago. Johnson is not speaking for those American League Club owners who are insisting on certain changes in the government of the sport.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, who has been on the sick list for several days with an attack of bronchitis, plans to attend the jonit meeting at Chicago. He will leave here Sunday, accompanied by Owner Harry H. Frazee of the Boston Red Sox, both being strong for the reorganization plan. It is not likely that C. A. Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox will pass up the meeting either. Colonel T. L. Huston of the Yankees will be unable to attend as he has not recovered sufficiently from a recent operation. President Charles A. Stoneham, Vice President John J. McGraw and Treasurer F. X. McQuade of the Giants will leave here today to attend the meeting. C. H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn club, George W. Grant of the Braves and William F. Baker of the Phillies are other National Leaguers who will leave here today for Chicago. A special meeting of the National League has been called for tomorrow afternoon in that city.

TWO BALL PLAYERS GIVE UP.

"Buck" Weaver and McMullen Are Released in $10,000 Bail.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—George "Buck" Weaver, third baseman, and Fred McMullen, utility player of the White Sox, surrendered to the State's Attorneys office today and gave $10,000 bonds each to answer to indictments charging them with complicity in the conspiracy to throw the 1919 world's series.

They are the first of the thirteen ball players and gamblers indicted last week to appear here.

"The charges against us are a fabrication, and we can prove it," Weaver told newspaper men. "We ask the baseball public to withhold judgment."

Paraphrasing a Quotation of Robert Burns

"To have others see us as we see ourselves"—that would indeed be a happy accomplishment at this period of the most complete overcoat exhibits in our career.

Here is a world-wide collection of fine overcoats—garments done abroad to the last stitch—fabrics woven abroad for American tailors to skillfully develop—coats of all-American lineage.

There is the "Guards Coat," made for us by Rimasop of London as an accurate copy of a coat worn by the Prince of Wales—we're showing it, too, in fine Foreign Overcoatings tailored in America.

There are Burberry Imported English Coats (of which we sell more than any house in America), manifesting again superior English Coatings tailored with typical Burberry knack.

There are enveloping "warmth-without-weight" Great Coats in which one asks Jack Frost "Where is thy sting?"

There are Balfour double breasted slight form-tracing coats which slip over a Dinner Coat or a Dress Suit with the air of being to the manner born.

Slip-ons, Chesterfields, Ulsters, Ulsterettes, Great Coats, Motor Coats, Polo Coats—we've run the gamut of overcoatdom—with full representation for all that are worthy.

And one is impressed, throughout by the rigid regard for principles of proper grooming—a regard which has always identified the stylings of these stores.

As for prices, they are comforting—reflecting every purchasing advantage we have gained as well as a decided lowering of our own profits. $45 and up.

HARVARD FAVORED TO DEFEAT TIGERS

BOTH FIT FOR HARD GAME

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—The final practice of the Harvard eleven on the eve of its game with the Princeton Tigers was short today, the coaches simply sending their eleven out to the field to run through plays and to drill on kicks. There was a high wind blowing and the balls were blown pretty much all over the field, causing much fumbling and considerable worry for the back-field men.

The undergraduates, hundreds of them, trooped to the field about the time the players were running through signals for the last time, and followed the 'Varsity men to the locker building, where the band played, the students sang, and there was cheering for the entire 'Varsity outfit. The betting here favors Harvard, with the odds fluctuating from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1.

The men who will start tomorrow and substitutes all were driven to the Country Club after the practice, dining there, but returning to their own rooms to sleep.

Coach Fisher said tonight that he considered his team better than the eleven he placed against the Tigers a year ago and that he thought the Jerseymen would find it difficult to get the jump on Harvard, as they did down in the Palmer Stadium in 1919. Fisher feels that his men are splendidly conditioned. Hubbard, the right tackle, is the only man who is thought unlikely to last the game so far as being in the injured list is concerned.

Princeton Line Lighter.

The Crimson's lineup will be the same as arranged all the week. This makes an average weight of 192 pounds on the line, but Churchill brings the average of the back field down to about 170 pounds. The Tiger line is lighter, but behind the line there will not be much difference when the game starts.

Owen did some fine kicking both with and against the wind today, and tomorrow Harvard expects him to compare very favorably with Joe Scheerer of Princeton. Because of the length of the time the team as it will start tomorrow has been together, the coaches are looking for not only power but real smoothness in the Crimson's attack against the Jerseymen. There are plenty of veteran players on the line, although behind it all except Horween have had no big game experience. Harvard has spent much time preparing to meet the Jersey end and off tackle attack, and also the forward-passing game, of which the Jersey team has made so much this year.

The Princeton players arrived at the stadium late this afternoon, the Harvard men at once leaving the field. Coach Roper took the entire squad into the stadium for a workout. The high wind continued and the Tigers had much trouble with the currents as Harvard previously had had.

Coach Roper said he had not fully decided on his lineup, but intimated that the last list published probably would be the one. Big Bill Edwards, Captain of Princeton's team 21 years ago, was with the large staff of coaches and old Varsity henchmen who accompanied the team. With Coach Roper were Hank McGraw, Nat Poe, Tom Wilson, Reggie Bigler, Young "Snake" Ames, Parke Davis, Jimmie Cormick, Phil Brashier and Maury Trimble.

40,000 to See Game.

Keene Fitzpatrick watched his men carefully during their punting and signal drill and at dark took the entire squad to Belmont where the men will spend the night at the Country Club. Roper said tonight that he believed firmly that his eleven would find itself tomorrow. The coaches were looking for some of that 2 to 1 money against the Tigers, but had not located any up to the time of their departure for Belmont.

There will be more than 40,000 in the stadium tomorrow, all seats having been sold. A splendid football day is promised, but the players will not welcome any such breeze as blew over Soldiers Field today.

There seems equal confidence in the camps. Harvard figures that its line will prove stronger than that of the Tigers, but recognizes that Roper doubtless has his team better versed on attack than the Jersey men have been in years. Princeton has had harder tests this year than Harvard has had, and also the eleven has been against a very powerful scrub team all the year while the Harvard team has not.

The Crimson machine is expected to work together much better than in the early part of the game last Fall. The backs are in better trim and work more smoothly. The Crimson ends are not so good as those of last year. Roper concedes Harvard a little edge between the tackles, but is strong in the belief that he has the better kicker, a shiftier set of backs and ends who will prove superior to Harvard's on all around line play, and also in getting down the field under kicks.

TIGERS AWAIT WHISTLE.

Believe Victory Will Go to Team Making Fewer Errors.

WAVERLY, Mass., Nov. 5.—The last word has been said, the Tiger's claws are sharpened. Everything and everybody are ready for "Tiny" Maxwell to blow his whistle in the stadium tomorrow afternoon.

The Princeton team will remain here at the Belmont Spring Country Club till just before the game, getting breakfast and luncheon there, the morning program consisting of a short walk and then relaxation until game time. Keene Fitzpatrick, the grizzled trainer of Nassau's teams, said: "My boys are physically and mentally fit."

Although Harvard will lineup a slight favorite, it is evident that the game will go to the team that makes the fewest errors and takes the fullest advantage of its opponent's slips. Harvard's attack will centre in the hopes that her powerful forwards and heavy backs can wear down the lighter Tiger line. On the other hand, old Nassau hopes to show Johnny Harvard just how a forward pass is executed. Little Don Lourie, the fleet Tiger General, has some trick stuff up his sleeve that will make the Crimson think quickly and act a little the same way.

CADETS EXPECT EASY GAME.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Army took its final workout today for the game with Lebanon Valley. The Pennsylvania collegians are not expected to cause any trouble for the soldiers and it is probable that with three or four of the first string men still used up from the hard game of a week ago Coach Daly will send a team made up mainly of substitutes in at the kick-off. Most of the 'Varsity men will be in during some period of the play, however.

The drill today was confined principally to kicking, passing and a running through of the signals of plays which will be used tomorrow. The probable line up of the army will be as follows: Enderton, centre; Goodman, right guard; Lou Storck, right tackle; Don Storck, right end; Stewart, left guard; Triplet, left tackle; Meyers, left end; Ogden, quarterback; Richards, right halfback; Lawrence, left halfback; French, fullback.

FOOTBALL ENTERING ITS HOME STRETCH

Today's Games Bring Season Near Its Zenith—Strong Attractions for Local Fans.

With the games to be played today, the football season of 1920 breaks into the home stretch. All the preliminary games are over, the sheep of line and backfield have been sifted from the goats, and the men who play today are the regular, or, at worst, the first string substitutes, who will win their letters this year.

Of course the game of games today is the clash at the Stadium in Cambridge between Princeton and Harvard. Princeton has not won at the village by the Charles since 1896, and has not taken a gridiron game from the Crimson since 1911, when the antelope-footed Sam White scooped up a loose ball and sped across the goal line for a touchdown.

But so far this year no Sam White has appeared at Jungletown, and for several seasons Harvard coaches have impressed it on their charges that the man who leaves a ball unchaperoned on the playing field has no place on the eleven. So, barring the unlikely, history will probably not be repeated. On the other hand, Harvard has no Brickley to do the pinch drop-kicking, and, in the forward passing department, there is no "Felton to Casey" this year. Hence, the two teams seem to be unusually evenly matched, and it will be a great and glorious occasion, whichever wins.

A game of great importance in the bearing it may have on subsequent events is the little set-to scheduled for New Haven between Yale and Brown. About one half the Eli 'Varsity will be at Cambridge, sizing up the plays, and the other half is—or is reported to be—either in the infirmary, or next door to it. Hence Tad Jones must fight the Brunonians with substitutes, even though the game be lost. Jones, however, is not averse to playing substitutes in this encounter, and very probably would do so in any case. The strength of a football team is in its reserves. And, from the way some of these Bulldog second-string men played against Colgate, their work today will bear watching.

Two Big Local Games.

Of contests on today's card for local gridirons that between Cornell and Dartmouth at the Polo Grounds should prove the premier drawing event. The teams are apparently about evenly matched. Cornell, on the basis of comparative scores, looks better, but in this case scores mean less than nothing. Each team has played five games, and although Cornell has rolled up 194 points to only 14 tallied by opponents, and stands unbeaten to date, the teams which met the Ithacans were all of lesser calibre. Dartmouth, with 112 points scored and 23 against, has been vanquished by Penn State and Syracuse. Cornell has met no such opposition as that offered by Penn State. The outcome at Brush Stadium will depend largely on whether Robertson of Dartmouth is able to get into the play.

At South Field Columbia and Swarthmore will try conclusions. Buck O'Neill's pupils should have no difficulty in pulling out the match provided the Morningside bunch plays up to last week's form as displayed against Williams. And this again is contingent on the amount of experimenting with his lineup which the Blue and White coach elects to do—or, rather, elects not to do. Man o' War Boynton seldom found track room last week, largely because of one Pulleyn, and if O'Neill sticks to the combination which went against Willians it is difficult to see how Columbia can come out other than on the long end of the score.

Fordham has no game scheduled for today. N. Y. U. will line up on Ohio Field against Union College. Union was recently snowed under by Cornell, 60 to 0, and although the Violet players have not been formidable this season they should be at least a shade or two better than their up-State playmates.

Of local interest also is the match at Hoboken between Stevens and Delaware. The Engineers play good football and their followers are intensely loyal. Other New York State games are Syracuse and W. and J. at Syracuse and Rochester and Colgate at Rochester.

Severe Test for Nebraska.

Doubtless the game to attract most interest in the East outside of the Harvard-Princeton and the Cornell-Dartmouth contests will be that between Nebraska and Penn State at State College. Nebraska will have to put up a better brand of football against the Pennsylvanians than was shown against Rutgers if the Cornhuskers are to return across the Mississippi as conquerors of the East. Whether the Westerners can do this or not depends entirely on whether they can gather up their waste power and concentrate it against their opponents. In the game against Rutgers on Election Day Nebraska wasted enough energy to furnish power to two college elevens and had enough left over to supply a prep. school team or two in addition.

The University of Pennsylvania will line up at Philadelphia against Pittsburgh. But since the two recent defeats of Heisman's charges the Philadelphians have somewhat faded from the mental picture of challengers for 1920 gridiron laurels. Unless they display a surprising reversal of form they are likely to prove easy prey for the Panthers.

Other Eastern games are Wesleyan and Amherst, Lafayette and Bucknell, Lehigh and Muhlenberg, West Virginia and Washington and Lee. Boston College should make short work of Boston University, and the Navy will have to bring all its sixteen-inch guns to bear if it is to win against Georgetown.

The Army has filled its open date with a game with Lebanon College, recently beaten by Penn State by the score of 100 to 7.

But if football history is in the making today in the East, so is it also in the West. In the Western Conference two colleges, Illinois and Ohio State, rate each 1000 per cent. Chicago stands next, at .667. If the boys from the Windy City can grab off the game with Illinois, especially if Michigan can at the same time defeat Ohio State, the result will be an interesting grouping to watch through the remaining games. The outcome defies prediction. Chicago is preparing for a crowd of upward of 30,000, which shows the hold this tournament football has upon Western fans.

TWO YALE STARS WILL BE MISSING

Captain Callahan and Acosta Are Not Expected to Start Against Brown Today.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Captain Tim Callahan and John Acosta will probably not enter the line-up in Yale's football encounter with Brown here this afternoon. Both men are below par physically and the coaches seem to be of the opinion that it will be wise to take no chances on their being able to enter the Princeton and Harvard games. It had been thought for a time that Thorne Murphy, too, would be kept out of the play today, but Head Coach Tad Jones said tonight that he would start tomorrow's game at quarterback. Coach Jones was assisted today by Brink Thorne and Paul Veeder.

The withdrawal of "Big Ben" Jordan from the team has been quite a shock. He is laid up with tonsilitis and cannot play tomorrow and may not be able to start against Princeton next week.

The policy of Head Coach Tad Jones of developing a first-class squad of second-string players will allow Yale to place a remarkably strong reserve team on the gridiron tomorrow, and football men here cannot understand the confident policy of Brown backers, who are giving even terms on their eleven.

Yale expects about 40,000 people to attend the game. The Yale management will be host to the members of all the boys' clubs of the city, numbering in all about 8,000 youngsters.

This afternoon the Yale eleven visited the Bowl for signal practice, but took only the lightest work.

Both elevens are expected to use forward passing extensively. The developing of the Elis in this respect, with Herbert Kempton hurling the ball, has been one of the surprises of the last fortnight.

The probable lineup:

YALE.		BROWN.
Cutler	L. E.	Williams
Walker	L. T.	Johnstone
Quaile	L. G.	Fuller
Cross	C.	Hoving
Herr	R. G.	Gillian
MacKay	R. T.	Johnstone
Dilworth	R. E.	Albright
Kempton	Q. B.	Oden
Campbell	L. H. B.	Armstrong
Kelley	R. H. B.	Spellman
Sturm	F. B.	Brooks

The officials will be W. J. Crowell, Swarthmore, referee; H. C. McGrath, Boston College, umpire; A. F. Noble, Amherst, linesman; Fred W. Nurleigh, Exeter, field judge.

COLUMBIA VS. SWARTHMORE

Blue and White Eleven to Meet Little Quakers Here Today.

The bugaboo of injuries loomed up on the Columbia horizon last night on the eve of the important game with Swarthmore on South Field this afternoon. With several of his first-string backs still nursing minor injuries, Coach Buck O'Neill was at a loss last night as far as selecting his lineup was concerned. His wide selection of backfield men has been cut down in the last week to only one or two completely fit men—Harris at quarterback and Applebaum at fullback. The other two positions will be selected only after O'Neill has had a chance to look the men over shortly before game time.

Indications last night pointed to Frank Canapary and Moszczenski being the men likely to get the final assignment. Canapary has had his lightest week of the season, but seemed fit enough in yesterday's brief workout. Moszczenski is encountering trouble with his leg, Thornton has a broken bone in one of his hands, and Bob Burtt is out of the question as a starter. It is probable that O'Neill will have to fall back on Johnstone, Anderson, Habernicht and Riley as reserve backs.

A nip-and-tuck battle this afternoon was the prediction last night, with Columbia not able to present its full strength. Despite Swarthmore's dubious record to date, the little Quakers are considered formidable and likely to uncover a lot of trouble at any time. The visiting eleven will be somewhat heavier than most of Columbia's previous opponents, although it is expected that the Blue and White will still have a slight edge in this respect. Columbia will be able to present a complete line, and the forwards will have to bear the brunt of the afternoon's work, especially with the backfield broken up by injuries.

The game will start at 2 o'clock, a half hour earlier than usual, because of the end of daylight saving time. The seat sale this week was as heavy as usual, and forecasts a capacity crowd when play begins. It will be the last game of the season on South Field. Next week Columbia will travel to Cornell for the season's biggest test, and on the following week-end the Blue and White will entertain Penn at the Polo Grounds.

The probable lineups will be:

COLUMBIA.		SWARTHMORE.
Pulleyn	L. E.	Kemp
Modarelli	L. T.	Larkin
Walder	L. G.	Valentine
Brodil	C.	Cornell
Herman	R. G.	Nicholls
Scovil	R. T.	Dudley
Forsythe	R. E.	Butterworth
Harris	Q. B.	Geiges
Moszcenski	L. H. B.	Yarnall
Canapary	R. H. B.	White
Applebaum	F. B.	Asplundh

"BABE RUTH OF FOOTBALL."

Gipp, Notre Dame's Phenomenal Player, Earns New Sobriquet.

Special to The New York Times.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 5.—More than 12,000 fans are fighting for tickets for the Notre Dame-Purdue game here tomorrow. The reserve seat pasteboards have been exhausted and only general admission tickets are available. Fans who never saw a football game are clamoring for a chance to see George Gipp, the "Babe Ruth of the gridiron," in his final appearance on the Notre Dame field.

The Purdue squad, twenty-five strong, arrived today. Coach Scanlon is confident his pupils have a fighting chance to win. The victor will meet Indiana for the championship of the State.

CORNELL AND GREEN ARE FIT FOR FRAY

Ithacans and Dartmouth Meet on Polo Grounds for Fourth Game in Twenty Years.

Another strapping big Cornell eleven will try today for the fourth time in two decades to overcome Dartmouth on the gridiron. When the two machines line up this afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Polo Grounds a throng of 20,000 men, women and pretty girls is expected to be there, waving red or green banners. A Cornell-Dartmouth battle has come to be something more than an important game. It is a football event, although only three previous meetings have been held, two at Ithaca and one here in New York last Fall.

In the twenty years since Dartmouth first beat the Cayugans by 24 to 6, back in 1900, the Ithacans have not since scored on the teams from New Hampshire. Twelve years later Dartmouth won by 24 to 0, and last year by 9 to 0, all nine points of the 1919 game being scored by Captain Jim Robertson, whose phenomenal drop kick has been estimated at distances varying from 47 yards to 55.

Cornell's band of thirty-five players and its throng of rooters, comprising nearly half the student body, arrived in town early yesterday morning. Betting is taboo at Ithaca, or at least has been discouraged officially by Romeyn Berry, graduate manager, but even so there is a cockiness about the supporters that indicated even money would be the rule instead of odds being asked. There are reasons good and plenty. Cornellians point to the fact that their team is undefeated this season, whereas Dartmouth has been laid low twice. But more than that they pin faith in the greatest pessimist among football coaches, a breed that is notoriously pessimistic, one Gilmour Dobie, who, after doing great stunts out on the Coast and later at Annapolis, is this season handling the reins at Cornell for the first time.

Yes, Sir, in Dobie, they say, Cornell has a coach who can develop a machine capable of beating Dartmouth after others have tried it off and on for twenty years.

Dobie Is Reticent.

Dobie wouldn't and didn't announce a lineup last night, not even a probable one, and the coaches, managers and camp followers took the tip and likewise were reticent. After breakfasting he took the Cornell team up to the Polo Grounds to show to the newcomers all the features of the gridiron, the lights, shadows, skylines and field. No practice was held, for the team didn't even change from street clothes into football togs. Dobie has centred his attention around the same group of first-string players all week, and except for left end, where he has alternated Gouinlock and Finn, there is little doubt about the combination he will start.

Cornell has a real scoring machine this year, something entirely different from Speedy Rush's timid aggregation, which had a disastrous 1919 season, losing, in addition to Dartmouth, to Pennsylvania, Penn State, Colgate and Lafayette, played to a scoreless tie by Oberlin, barely beating Williams by a field goal, and triumphing impressively only over Carnegie Tech. This year, however, Kaw, the 160-pound left halfback, in scoring 72 points, is second only to Benny Boynton among high scorers of Eastern players, and has alone scored more precious points than the whole team last year during the entire season.

Dartmouth has suffered more than its share of injuries this year, but its rooters maintain that it is a team of equal strength to the Ithacans. After beating Holy Cross decisively, a team which later trounced Syracuse, Dartmouth lost to the Orange, partly, if not mainly, because of the absence of Captain Robertson. His ability as a 70-yard punter as well as a sensational drop kicker is known far and wide. In losing to Penn State an intercepted forward pass in the last four minutes brought about defeat.

Coach Spears has decided not to start Robertson this afternoon, but will hold him under a blanket on the sidelines, ready to trot on to the field when a field goal is necessary. Either Burke or Holbrook will start at left half, Bower will be the other half, and Shelburne will be at full. Shelburne has just returned to duty after a four weeks' layoff.

Dartmouth Arrives Late.

The Dartmouth squad didn't leave Hanover until yesterday morning, and it arrived at the Pennsylvania Hotel about dinner time last night. The players will line up on the Polo Grounds, therefore, without the usual day-before inspection of the field of battle.

The Pennsylvania Hotel, for a couple of days the headquarters of college gridiron warriors, appeared last night like a college campus the night after final examination. Hardly had the Princeton squad left yesterday morning for Harvard when Cornell's horde of players and nearly 2,000 students edged their way into the lobby. All day long Dartmouth students arrived, until by 9 o'clock last night both football teams were registered there, both glee clubs, the Dartmouth band which will purvey music at odd times this afternoon, and the Dartmouth cross-country team, which will race against Columbia and Pennsylvania at Van Cortlandt Park this morning. The combined musical clubs of Cornell and Dartmouth held a joint concert and songfest in the Pennsylvania's grand ballroom last night, but before the dancing began cautious trainers of both teams bundled their players off to bed.

The probable lineup:

Wt.	Dartmouth.		Cornell.	Wt.
165	Moore	L. E.	Gouinlock	165
190	Sonnenburg	L. T.	Knouss	185
171	Merritt	L. G.	Pendleton	190
179	Cunningham	C.	Brayton	183
185	Aschenbach	R. G.	Miner	195
180	Neidlinger	R. T.	Dodge	196
156	Lynch	R. E.	Munns	185
156	Jordan	Q. B.	Hoff	172
159	Holbrook	L. H. B.	Kaw	160
160	Bower	R. H. B.	Mayer	165
181	Shelburne	F. B.	Jewett	174

SPEAR IN ERRATIC FORM.

Champion Loses to Low, 150 to 127, in Class C Balkline Play.

Another surprise was sprung last night in the Class C balkline tournament being played at the Broadway Billiard Academy for the metropolitan championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. George Spear, who won the title a year ago, failed in his first effort to defend his crown when the veteran John Low lowered his colors by a score of 150 to 127 in fifty-one innings. Low averaged 2 48-51 with high runs of 19 and 14. In spite of the fact that Spear made a high run of 35, the best that has yet been recorded in the tournament and an unusual performance for a Class C player, his average was only 2 35-51.

In a second match Joseph Johann, who was one of the finalists in the recent interborough championship tournament, defeated Gus Gardner, 150 to 130. Johann made the best average that has yet been established, 4 2-37. Gardner's average was 3 19-37. Gardner held the lead until the thirteenth inning, when Johann jumped ahead with a run of eight and stayed in front to the finish.

22 HIGH SCHOOLS IN RUN.

Big Entry for Interscholastic Cross-Country Event Today.

Twenty-two high school teams will strive for honors in the eighth annual interscholastic cross-country race of Columbia University this morning. The race will be held through Riverside Park, beginning and ending at South Field, a course that is practically three and three-quarter miles long. The Kirby Trophy, donated by Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the American Olympic Committee, will be at stake.

WESTERN ELEVENS IN KEEN CONTESTS

Results of Today's Games in Conference May Bring About Return Engagement.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Whether Western Conference football history will repeat itself and bring the 1919 combatants together in a return engagement to decide the 1920 championship may be decided tomorrow, when Ohio State clashes with Michigan at Columbus and Illinois meets Chicago at Chicago.

Illinois and Ohio State, undefeated in the championship drive, must emerge victorious from their battles tomorrow in order to meet with clean slates at Urbana two weeks hence. Tomorrow's game will be the last for Ohio before the contest with Illinois, while Illinois will meet Wisconsin at Madison a week from tomorrow.

Of tomorrow's contests the Michigan-Ohio game has the commanding interest, although the game between Chicago and Illinois, because of traditional rivalry, has aroused great interest.

Of the two undefeated elevens Ohio State, in the opinion of experts, will have the harder task to keep its slate clean. Michigan has shown a remarkable "comeback" spirit since defeated by Illinois, and Coach Yost and his players realize that they may go into a tie for the "Big Ten" championship if Ohio is beaten. Illinois is expected to score an easy triumph over Chicago.

Northwestern is expected to hold Iowa to a close score at Iowa City tomorrow, while the clash between Wisconsin and Minnesota at Minneapolis promises to be stubbornly fought. Notre Dame will take the field against Purdue at South Bend. Centre College will give battle to Depauw at Indianapolis.

N. Y. U. TO PLAY REGULARS.

Injured 'Varsity Players Are Ready for Game with Union.

The New York University football warriors went through their final workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for this afternoon's game with Union. Coach Gargan put his charges through light work, consisting chiefly of signal practice and the rehearsing of formations.

This will be the first game this season in which the Violet will be represented by its regular team. Captain Weinheimer, who did not get into the Trinity game because of an injured ankle, will take his old position at halfback in place of Nelson, who has been substituting for him. Brinn, the regular centre, also is expected to start. He was injured in the Hamilton game, and has been on the side lines ever since. He will replace Adelstein, the second string centre.

POLY PREP A WINNER.

Brooklyn Schoolboys Defeat Glen Cove Eleven, 41 to 6.

Poly Prep School's strong football eleven vanquished the Glen Cove High School team yesterday in a one-sided game on the Poly Prep gridiron, by the score of 41 to 6. The victorious eleven completely outclassed Glen Cove and scored in every quarter. Parks and Bell each scored one of Poly Prep's touchdowns while Dube and George Johnson each accounted for two. The goals were kicked by Yale. Glen Cove's only score came in the third period when Nathanay intercepted a forward pass and raced over the Poly Prep line.

COLLEGIANS IN LONG RACE.

Penn, Columbia and Dartmouth to Compete in Cross-Country Run.

Pennsylvania's strong cross-country team is favored to win first honors in the triangular meet with Columbia and Dartmouth this morning at Van Cortlandt Park. The Quakers will be represented by a sterling batch of veteran harriers, with Earl Eby, E. M. Shields, E. A. Brown, Samuel Kiviat and Walter Irwin leading the list from which the Red and Blue will select its team.

HARMONY REIGNS AS TRAP SESSION ENDS

Control of Sport Passes to Amateurs Without Opposition in Final Meeting.

For a meeting at which the government of one of the largest sports in the curriculum passed from one body to another the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the American Trapshooting Association, concluded with a second all-day session at the Hotel Astor yesterday, was one of the most harmonious in history. Ordinarily when two factions are in the field discord is the order of the day, but not so with the trapshooters. The encompassing of what virtually amounts to complete control of the sport by the amateurs was accomplished without encountering the slightest opposition; in fact, the representatives of the manufacturers seemed to welcome the change. However, it was not a complete abdication. The representatives of the munitions concerns, which for so long have fostered the sport, still have a share in the government, although that share has been so greatly curtailed that it now can be listed as being in an advisory capacity only.

While the amateurs did not add to their control at the second day's session, as it was generally expected they would, the election of an amateur, Elmer Shaner of Pittsburgh, as president at Thursday's executive conclave, and the re-election of an amateur, George Edward (Stony) McGlinn, as secretary-manager, coupled with the amateur committee of five members, gives the amateurs a substantial balance of power in the government of the sport—so substantial, in fact, that it can be said to be virtually complete. The amateurs welcome the presence of the representatives of the manufacturers on the Executive Committee and the feeling prevails that increasing the Amateur Committee from five to ten members was not an imperative step and one that was not essential to swing the pendulum of power to amateur shoulders.

No Action on Grand American.

Business of vital importance to the sport was transacted at yesterday's meeting, but some matters in which there is widespread interest were not definitely decided upon. For instance the naming of the time and place for the holding of a Grand American Handicap—trapshooting's biggest event—was deferred until a meeting to be held in Chicago on Jan. 7 and 8, when all details for next season, such as the number of registered tournaments to be held, the dates and places, will be completed. No official bids have been received for the classic, but it is known that the South Shore Country Club of Chicago, which staged the event in 1917, 1918 and 1919; the Lincoln Park Traps, a municipal shooting association of Chicago, and Indianapolis are anxious to procure the Grand American for 1921.

In connection with this event the General Committee appointed President Shaner and Secretary McGlinn as a committee of two to consider officially all bids for the handicap and to report their decision at the meeting in January.

Abolish Long Run Prizes.

During the coming season the official individual averages of shooters will be based on 1,000 registered targets. In the past it has been 2,000. It was also decided to abolish the long-run prizes. Heretofore it has been customary to award prizes to shooters breaking their first string of fifty straight and to award prizes on a point system for like subsequent performances. The General Committee decided that this arrangement was not popular among the shooters and caused too much criticism. It was further decided that any club wishing to hold a registered tournament must have at least fifteen shooters affiliated with the American Trapshooting Association.

Just prior to convening with the Executive Committee yesterday the Amateur Committee met and elected Samuel S. Foster of Mason City, Iowa, Chairman. He succeeds Jay Clark, Jr., who was Captain of the American Olympic team which scored such pronounced successes abroad last Summer. Then the Amateur Committee, composed of Sam Foster, Jay Clark, Jr., Daniel Bray, Columbus, Neb., and F. D. Stoop, Kalispell, Mont., met with the newly appointed Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is composed of Frank G. Drew, Chairman; T. H. Keller, New York; C. W. Hymer, Wilmington; J. Leonard Clark, New York, and E. R. Galvin, Wilmington. These two committees compose the General Committee.

MILLS DEFEATS WICKERS.

Wins Pocket Billiard Match, 100 to 48, in Interborough Tourney.

Playing in the pocket billiard tournament for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, John Mills last night defeated Ardie Wickers by a score of 100 to 48 at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. Neither player accomplished anything of a sensational nature in the way of high runs, but, on the whole, the game was well played and interesting.

While there is little doubt that Mills scored a well-earned victory, it is equally true that Wickers has a wealth of alibis to offer to explain his failure to make a closer battle of it. Wickers was the victim of a series of misfortunes that spoiled any chance he may have had to defeat his rival. Playing under conditions that were strange to him, Wickers encountered a succession of frowns from the fickle brow of Dame Fortune that would have discouraged a less game player than he is. The balls rolled badly for him and he was the victim of no less than nine scratches, most of which came at times when he was in a position to collect some nourishment. Several of them occurred when he drove his cue ball into the bunch to scatter the ivories. Nothing was wrong with these shots, but he was unfortunate in having his cue ball kissed into the pocket.

Mills, on the other hand, was extremely steady throughout. Only two scratches interfered with his scoring. He took the lead in his first inning by making his high run of eighteen balls. In his third turn at the table, he knocked in thirteen. This gave him a big working margin which enabled him to play very carefully. At no time during the match was he compelled to take any real chances. He made some very good shots and his position play stood him in good stead.

HOPPE IN GOOD FORM.

Beats Peterson, 300 to 104, in Match Notable for Line Nursing.

Some of the best line nursing that he has shown this season was displayed by Willie Hoppe in an exhibition 18.2 balkline billiard match against Charley Peterson at the Maplewood Field Club last night. The champion won by a score of 300 to 104. He ran out the game in the sixth innning with a cluster of 166. It was during this run that he made more than 100 points by line nursing.

Peterson, too, was in better form than he has displayed in any of their recent games. Both players made some excellent massé shots. Hoppe averaged an even 50 and Peterson 17 2-6. They will play at the Hollywood Inn, Yonkers, tonight.

Wooster Wins from Kenyon.

Valparaiso an Easy Winner.

Minnesota-Wisconsin Game To be Reported by Wireless

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 5.—Reports of the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game at Northrop Field tomorrow will be flashed throughout the Northwest to scores of private and public wireless stations from the press box by students of the University of Minnesota Engineering College. The engineers have set up wireless apparatus in the grandstand and will report the game play by play. Advance sale of tickets for the contest indicates a record throng for Minnesota.

INVITES ENGLAND TO FENCING TEST

American League Challenges Britons to Series of Matches to be Held Here in 1921.

A series of international fencing matches between representative foilsmen of England and this country will be held here next Spring if present plans of the Amateur Fencers' League of America materialize. It became known yesterday that the A. F. L. A. had issued an invitation to the Fencers' Association of Great Britain to send a team here next Spring for a series of matches. The indications are that England will accept, since, before America's Olympic fencers sailed for home, after the competition at Antwerp, the Britons assured them they would accept an invitation for American competition if one were issued.

The tentative plans of the A. F. L. A. provide that the Britons appear in matches in Washington, Philadelphia and this city. It is proposed to hold a dueling swords event in the nation's capital some time in May. A sabre competition is planned for the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, a week later, and the following week, according to the tentative schedule, the British fencers will compete at the Hotel Astor here. The Washington and Philadelphia competitions would be held outdoors under conditions similar to those which prevailed at Antwerp. This feature is expected to strike favor with the Britons, who were outscored by America in the Olympic competitions and are determined upon revenge. It will be remembered that at Antwerp the full strength of American fencing was not represented, inasmuch as two leaders in the sport, Sherman Hall and George H. Breed, former champions, were not included on the team because of business exigencies at home.

In the invitation it is suggested that the British team include up to but not more than twelve fencers. Under the plan for the matches the visitors would engage in team events only, the matches being so arranged that the winning team would be determined in best two matches out of three. A bronze trophy will be donated for each match by the A. F. L. A., and each member of the victorious team will receive a replica of the team award. In the event that the invitation is accepted it is planned to make the competition an annual affair, held in the two countries alternately. This, it is expected, would greatly stimulate interest in the sport. Henry Breckenridge of the Washington Fencers' Club is Chairman of the international committee in charge of the arrangements for the prospective British invasion.

ADVOCATE CHANGES IN BILLIARD RULES

For the first time in the history of American billiards the playing rules appear likely to be standardized alike for amateurs and professionals. The National Association of Amateur Billiard Players has undertaken a general revision. The determination to bring this about was one of the paramount questions of discussion at the annual meeting of the body last March. At that time the Executive Committee was directed to fulfill the task and to bring the proposed revision before a special meeting of the association. This meeting will probably be held in January.

The reports as to pocket billiards and three-cushion carroms have already been made. In both instances the committee advocates the adoption of the professional rules as revised for the championship tournaments at these respective styles of games last season. Robert Weld, Chairman of the Pocket Billiard Committee and a member of the New York Athletic Club, together with Edward W. Reynolds, New York State champion; Henry Osborne of Connecticut and John I. Ryan were unanimous in presenting their report as to standardizing the amateur professional rules.

Two of the competitors for the three-cushion carrom championship, Whelton H. Flinn of the Amateur Billiard Club and Dr. W. O. Campbell of Chicago, have declared that for the multiple cushion game the amateurs could not do better than follow the laws laid down by the professionals.

There has been no revision of the professional rules as to balkline for many years. It is generally admitted that these rules are not satisfactory. Julian Rice, the national Class B champion, heads the group of players now at work upon the balkline revision. This group includes Edward W. Gardner, former Class A titleholder; Percy N. Collins, the present Class A champion; J. E. Cope Morton of Philadelphia and L. A. Servatius.

There has been so much dissension over the class handicaps for balkline tournaments that there is sure to be a revision. The committee in charge of this is composed of G. O. Rudolphy, Chairman; T. Henry Clarkson and J. W. Paris. Hereafter the Class C players will be required to count strings of 125 points instead of 115, as heretofore. The limit of 175 points for Class B players and 250 for Class A will probably remain unchanged.

COHEN DEFEATS QUINLAN.

Scores Victory in Handicap Three-Cushion Billiard Tourney.

In the amateur handicap three-cushion billiard tournament at Joe Thum's Academy last night, M. Cohen scored his second victory by defeating William Quinlan, 35 to 30. The winner had the advantage of three points handicap on his opponent. The game consumed 105 innings, being one of the longest yet played in this event. This was due chiefly to the fact that both players frequently resorted to defensive tactics. Quinlan played thirteen deliberate safeties and Cohen twelve. Cohen took the lead at the start and held it throughout.

THE TRUCK containing these cigars, in cases, stopped in front of the drug store at the corner of Perry and Washington Streets, New York City, at about 6:40 P.M. on November 3rd.

While the driver was absent for a few minutes the truck was taken away. It was found empty on the same night at about 8 P.M. on 27th Street, between 9th and 10th Avenues.

The cases contained Robt. Burns Cigars and Robt. Burns Laddies in lots of 5,000 and 10,000. Three national sizes of Robt. Burns were included —Longfellow (foil wrapped), Invincible and Epicure.

These National Brands of the General Cigar Co., Inc., were marked for shipment to several distant points—Los Angeles, New Orleans, Milwaukee, Worcester, Burlington, San Francisco, Denver and Buffalo.

The case numbers, together with destination, were plainly marked as follows:

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Industrials Decline, Railways Strong, Then Weak — Heavy Declines in Foreign Exchange.

Recurrence of 10 per cent. call money, emphasized by another rapid decline in foreign exchange and in the commodity markets, affected the Stock Exchange yesterday as was to have been expected. Ten per cent. for speculative loans is not prohibitive, judged by past experience; Wall Street has seen the time when the stock market paid a rate of 125 per cent. rather than abandon its "bull market." But the present rate has exerted a powerful moral influence ever since the Stock Exchange learned to interpret it as a signal that further speculation for the rise could not be supported by existing bank facilities.

Yesterday's market opened with the railway shares again rising sharply while the industrials were falling. The early advances in the one group ran to a point or more, while prices in the other group were declining 1 to 4 points. But the movement of money stopped the advance in the railways very abruptly, and many of them ended the day at a net decline.

Sterling exchange declined nearly 3 cents in the pound, reaching the lowest rate since March. Italian, Dutch, Swiss and Spanish exchange went to further new low records for the war period, and French and German rates declined sharply. This extreme pressure is part of the general strain on money markets throughout the world incident to an economic readjustment at the height of the active business season. Until this condition passes away holders of drafts on Europe are as likely to realize at a sacrifice for the sake of cash as are holders of commodities.

The vague idea that the election would change the course of prices was more prevalent in the commercial markets than on the Stock Exchange; but in that direction it has been even more completely disappointed. Cotton for December delivery fell below 20 cents a pound yesterday for the first time since Oct. 23; December wheat sold at less than $2 for the first time since Monday of last week; these markets had recovered to 22¾ cents and $2.12¼ during the interval. In the case of wheat the renewed weakness, which yesterday carried the Chicago price to $1.98, was clearly attributable, on the one hand, to the large production figures for other countries than the United States; on the other to the inevitable breakdown of the grain growers' plans to "hold wheat for $3."

As for outside production, the probable decrease from last year in our own country's yield by 200,000,000 bushels is offset by the estimated increase of 100,000,000 in Canada, of possibly 100,000,000 in Australia, and of 35,000,000 in Argentina, and by a harvest well above the recent average in France and Central Europe. As for the "holding plan," its futility was manifest from the start. Even if the wheat grower was not in need of ready money (and he always is in need of it at this time of year), he is quite aware that his refusal to sell under existing circumstances would probably lose him his chance of getting cars for shipment, and that meantime Canada would be filling the world's immediate requirements.

The case of cotton is more far reaching, because it is closely connected with the whole position of textile manufacture. It is no longer a question, as it was in September and August, of minimum purchases by Europe; at the recent prices we have been sending out twice as much cotton to that market as we sent in the same weeks of 1919. It is our own spinners' takings which have lately fallen 20 to 50 per cent. from last year's figures. The cotton market's action throws its own light on what Bradstreet's weekly review of trade conditions indicates as the vehement criticism of retail dealers in merchandise by the wholesalers and middlemen "for not being willing to reduce prices to a point where demand will reawaken." In October, Bradstreet adds, even the mail-order sales "fell 38 to 40 per cent. in value behind October of last year."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Several New Low Records Are Established—Business Slackens as Quotations Recede.

The record of foreign exchange movements yesterday was one of severe declines, only a few Far Eastern rates holding steady with Thursday's final quotations. Sterling at 3.38¾ touched the lowest point since 3.36¾ was quoted on Feb. 27. The Holland sight rate of 29.93 established a new low record, as did the lire at 3.51. Francs sold at 6.00½, with a late recovery to 6.02½, compared with 6.10½ at the close of business the day before. The German mark rate reached 1.21, closing at 1.23½, in contrast with 1.27 on Thursday. Trading declined in volume when rates weakened most extensively in the late afternoon.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

That High Money.

We have been having 10 per cent. money, or, as some of the money brokers say, 9 per cent. and a fee money, for two solid weeks. Beginning with Friday, Oct. 23, there has been only one day intervening on which the call rate was not 10 per cent. at some time, while 9 per cent. has been the minimum for each session with one exception, and the continuance of these rates has begun to get on professional Wall Street's nerves. Predictions of a lower level have been frequent but unrealized thus far and now that a reasonable time has elapsed since the Nov. 1 disbursements and still no lower rate has come, the Street is beginning to think that perhaps it will have to wait until the first of the year, or very close to that time, before it really gets the lower rates.

More Exchange Weakness.

It would be a difficult matter to find a single quotation in yesterday's foreign exchange market which was not below that of the preceding day. Virtually all of the European exchanges broke; sterling to below $3.40 for the first time since the end of February, when the market was working back from the Feb. 4 panic, and the others if not to new lows for all time at least to the lowest levels since the early Spring. In the foreign exchange market itself, which is to say among the dealers who handle most of the business, there was no news to account for the precipitous decline; they simply said the offerings were very heavy and the demand very light. Also, they pointed to the wholesale offerings of grain and cotton bills and the week-end statistics of grain and cotton exports bore them out. According to Bradstreet's, the total exports of wheat since July 1 have been 180,532,000 bushels, against 113,292,000 bushels at this time last year, while the exports of corn have amounted to 2,569,000 bushels, compared with only 865,000 bushels exported in the corresponding months of 1919. Unofficial cotton exports since the beginning of the cotton year, Aug. 1, have been totaled to 1,150,608 bales, compared with just about the same amount last year, but most of the cotton to go forward so far this season has moved within the last five or six weeks.

Municipal Bonds.

State and municipal bonds of a par value of $60,201,003 were floated during October, according to the records of The Daily Bond Buyer. This amount brought the total for the year to date to $600,236,608, which, with the exception of last year, is the largest sum for the same months of any year in the last decade. "The market price of municipal bonds," says the publication, "reflects the new demand in a rise of several points since Oct. 1. Bonds of the larger cities in which savings bank funds may be invested are now offered at a substantial premium for 5 per cent. bonds having a maturity of fifteen years or more. This means that many cities which have been waiting months for an opportunity to offer 5 per cent. bonds will now come into the market with large new issues."

Atlantic Gulf Under Pressure.

Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies shares were especially weak yesterday, the decline amounting to 6¾ points. Apparently the reaction was directly attributable to rumors afloat throughout the financial district that the company's large well in Mexico was showing salt water. There was no verification of the rumors; in fact those who are in close touch with Mexican oil affairs said they had not heard of any such happening. The gossip, however, was persistent and paved the way for steady selling of the issue, much of this being for short account. The appearance of salt water in a Mexican well is a serious manifestation. It was only a relatively short time ago that one entire field in Mexico became permeated with salt water. There is a theory that Mexican oil is floated on salt water and the appearance of this in a well is sometimes an indication that the life of the well has been exhausted.

Industrials Heavy.

Those who have been looking fondly at the industrials hoping that they would rally could not help but be a bit amazed when they showed such pronounced weakness yesterday. Aside from the fact that the position of the industrials has been undermined because of the general business situation, there is probably another factor of consequence to account for the continued heaviness. This is nothing more than the desire of speculators to switch from the industrials to the rails, and in the case of those speculators outside of the professional group there is a disposition to take losses in the industrials and endeavor to get aboard the rails in time to recoup. Then, too, there is doubtless some selling to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Steel Average Declines.

Another decline in the average price of eight leading iron and steel products as compiled by The Iron Age is shown this week as compared with a week ago. The current figure is $79.73 a ton, where as a week ago the average was $80.10. The inroads that price cutting has made in iron and steel can be appreciated somewhat from the fact that a month ago the average was $84.04. The decline during the past week, however, was not by any means as great as during the three preceding weeks. The average price of the eight products on the basis of the United States Steel Corporation quotations is $63.49, so that there is still a wide gap between the level of the largest producer and the prices now being set by the independents. The decline in the average this week was due entirely to a break in pig iron from $46.96 a gross ton to $43.96.

A "Rehashed" Plan.

In authoritative quarters yesterday the report that a reorganization plan had been completed for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad which called for an assessment of $30 a share on the stock was characterized as a "rehash" of a plan which had been proposed a long time ago. It was also stated that no such assessment was being considered now by those working on the reorganization of the property and that its publication was an unfortunate occurrence. But the mischief was done before a denial of the report was obtained from those in close touch with the reorganization proceedings. In the market 1,400 common certificates changed hands with a net loss for the day of 4⅞ points, the opening quotation being 10 and the closing 7⅛, which was also low. In the preferred the turnover was the same, and the price after opening at 10 sold off to a low and final price of 7, the net loss for the day being 3½ points. Times and conditions have changed since the $30 assessment on the stock was being considered, and the road is in better financial position now than it was then.

Capitalizing Surplus.

It was not strange yesterday after news was received in the financial district regarding the filing of an application before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad for permission to capitalize surplus through an issue of stock and bonds, that the speculative element should turn to the shares of other railroad companies which have big surpluses and may eventually take similar steps. In the commission houses some interest was displayed in the possibilities offered in Pennsylvania Railroad, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and other lines, which have put large sums back into their respective properties. But while an obvious effort was made to move both Atchison and Pennsylvania, both stocks proved too unwieldy for the easy manipulation which has followed professionals in the case of a number of the other rail shares not in such good supply in this market, and price changes were comparatively narrow. It is true that the prices of many of the securities owned by the Pennsylvania have appreciated in value a great deal in the last six months, but this fact alone failed to move the stock even when there was some shrewd buying done coincidently.

Great Northern and Northern Pacific Would Get Majority Stockholders' Share.

BOND ISSUE ALSO SOUGHT

Approval of Interstate Commerce Commission Requested for $109,000,000 6 Per Cent. Offering.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad applied today to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to increase its capital stock by $60,000,000 and to issue 6 per cent. first and refunding mortgage bonds to the amount of $109,000,000. On Dec. 31 last the property investment account in road and equipment of the line as set forth in the application was $492,716,639, with a total property investment of $535,210,890. On that date the road had a corporate surplus of $241,781,197.

A total of $48,514,239 was charged off to depreciation on equipment, including the period of Federal control. If the application is granted there will remain a corporate surplus of $101,781,197, the road stated. The total capitalization of the road was given as $278,889,100, of which the capital stock outstanding amounts to $110,839,110, and the funded debt in the hands of the public to $168,050,000.

The issue of capital stock would be distributed pro rata among the stockholders of the road. This would transfer to capital account $60,000,000 of the railroad's surplus of about $200,000,000. The issue of bonds is sought to reimburse the railroad's treasury for expenditures out of earnings in additions and betterments on the line. Of the total, $80,000,000 worth of their proceeds would be held in the railroad's treasury for any lawful purpose, including dividends, while the remaining $29,000,000 worth would be disposed of for future additions and betterments to property.

The majority of the stock of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, or 1,076,135 shares, is held by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroad Companies, according to the Burlington's last annual report.

Wall Street was surprised yesterday when word was received from Washington that application had been made to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad for permission to issue $109,000,000 first and refunding mortgage bonds and $60,000,000 additional capital stock, the latter to be distributed to shareholders, thus capitalizing part of the surplus.

It has been known for some time in authoritative quarters that Chicago, Burlington & Quincy officials have had a capitalization plan in mind. In fact, the plan almost came to a head just before the Interstate Commerce Commission took control of all new capital issues by carriers last June, but because of intercompany opposition it was held in abeyance. The fact that other railroad companies have announced segregation and capitalization of surplus and assets plans is thought to have paved the way for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy request.

First reports, which were incorrect, had it that the road would apply for permission to capitalize all of its surplus and that the distribution to shareholders would be very large. As a result Northern Pacific shares, which would benefit under the plan, opened substantially higher than the preceding closing. But later in the day, when it appeared that the earlier reports were too favorable, the stock was freely offered, and closed for the day 1⅝ points lower than the last price on Thursday.

Mr. Markowitz has withdrawn therefrom and the business will be continued by Mr. Horn at the same address under the same trade name. Dated, Nov. 1, 1920.

BENJAMIN HORN,
MAX MARKOWITZ.

BIG WHOLESALE PRICE DROP

Cost Level on Nov. 1 Was at Lowest Point in 18 Months.

The level of wholesale prices on Nov. 1 was at the lowest point in eighteen months, according to Dun's index number, which covers a wide variety of products, including foods, clothing and metals. As measured by the index number, the fall of quotations has proceeded without interruption for six months, the reaction from the maximum point of the year, reached on May 1, being 13.7 per cent. The price reaction during October was 4.3 per cent., the index number on Nov. 1 being $227.18, compared with $237.341 on Oct. 1 and $238.573 on Nov. 1 of last year.

The seven divisions into which products covered by Dun's calculations are divided all showed declines from the figures of Oct. 1. The widest changes appeared in breadstuffs, clothing and meats. The breadstuffs group, owing to severe declines of cereal prices, is now at a point not reached since January, 1917, while the clothing class, resultant from the depression in raw cotton and wool and hides and leather, is at the lowest level since May 1, 1919. The index number of all food declined 4.9 per cent. during October.

WOOLEN MARKET CHAOTIC.

Feeling in Wool Trade Better, However, in Hope of Tariff.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"Business in the local wool market during the week has been quiet and prices have been rather irregular and weak, although the trade is feeling better over the outlook, as a result of the Republican landslide, with its guarantee of a tariff revision in favor of more production.

"The goods market is still chaotic and the manufacturers are floundering around trying to find a working basis. Retailers are held to be the chief stumbling block to a resumption of normal business since they will not make cuts in prices, apparently waiting for the holiday trade to help them liquidate high cost inventories.

Spring Outlook in Dry Goods Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Marshal Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was less in volume than during the corresponding week last year. Orders from road salesmen showed a decrease over the same period of last year, but were larger than for the preceding week. There were fewer customers in the market. Collections were not up to the standard of a year ago. Reports from retail merchants indicate that the colder weather has stimulated their sales to a considerable degree. Salesmen are now leaving for their territories with complete lines for Spring, and it may reasonably be expected that merchants will place orders on a conservative basis for Spring delivery."

Atchison Spends $18,000,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—Announcement was made by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway here today that contracts are being completed for delivery of $18,000,000 worth of new rolling stock for the system. Fifty locomotives, 2,000 refrigerator cars and 500 coal cars are included. Before the war the same equipment would have cost $6,000,000, the company said.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The West End Bank, with capital of $200,000 and surplus of $100,000, will open for business on Monday. The officers are S. Fromm, President; W. S. Germain, cashier, and J. P. Kelly and Seldon Raimforth, Vice Presidents.

A detailed record of all external loans of foreign Governments payable in the United States has been compiled by C. F. Childs & Co.

F. Wilson Prichett, formerly a partner in Frazier & Co., has opened a Philadelphia office and will act as fiscal agent for railroads, public utility and industrial companies.

CUBA SUGAR CANE CO. NETTED $12,344,134

Common Earnings Up from $7.77 to $17.69 a Share for Year Ended Sept. 30.

BIG RISE IN CURRENT ASSETS

Evidence of the big profits which the sugar companies made this year as a result of the abnormally high price of sugar is to be found in the report of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation for the year ended Sept. 30. The figures made public yesterday show that net profits, after due allowance for Federal taxes, depreciation and all charges, were $12,344,134. This was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $17.69 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year the earnings available for dividends were $7,384,580 or the equal of $7.77 a share on the common, after providing for the preferred stock.

Operating profits last year amounted to $22,249,020, an increase of $11,179,140 over a year ago. A heavy increase is shown in the reserve for Federal taxes, this amounting to $4,248,301 or $3,268,811 more than in the 1919 report. Likewise there is an increase in the amount charged off for depreciation, the present item of $3,500,000 being more than double that of a year ago.

The balance sheet shows a decidedly improved position, this being in part attributable to the funding of the bank loans and acceptances through the flotation of an issue of $25,000,000 in bonds. Net current assets are placed at $31,958,675 whereas in the report a year ago they were $74,447. The list of assets shows cash in banks and on hand amounting to $20,328,749 as against $5,241,163 in 1919. Surplus account on Sept. 30 of this year amounted to $23,473,102. There has been set aside out of earnings since the organization of the company $10,000,000 to cover depreciation and this together with surplus is equivalent to about $67 a share on the common stock.

W. E. Ogilvie was elected President of the company yesterday to succeed Manuel Rionda who desired to be relieved of some of the burdensome details of the business. Mr. Rionda was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee, a new office. Mr. Ogilvie has lived in Cuba for twenty years. He is Vice President of the Czarnikow-Rionda Company and a Director in all of the Rionda sugar corporations. Frederick Strauss resigned as Chairman of the Board of Directors and was succeeded by Albert Strauss who was Chairman until he resigned to take up war work, later becoming Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, which position he has relinquished.

New Haven Road Would Pledge $80,000,000 to Pay Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Authority to issue $95,000,000 in 6 per cent. gold bonds was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Eighty million dollars worth of the bonds, maturing in ten years, would be pledged as security for funding the road's indebtedness of $60,000,000 to the Government incurred during Federal control. The remainder, maturing in fifteen years, would be used as security for a loan from the Government amounting to $8,830,000.

The New York Central Railroad asked authority to issue refunding and improvement 6 per cent. mortgage bonds to the amount of $7,000,000 to be pledged with the Director General of Railroads as security for a promissory note in payment to him for additions and betterments made during Federal control.

COLDER WEATHER HELPS RETAILERS

MAIL-ORDER SALES SLUMP

Purchasers Generally Are Waiting for Evidence That Price Readjustment Is Over.

In regions where cold weather has set in there has been an improvement of retail sales, according to this week's report of the mercantile agencies, but broad trade and business conditions have not changed from recent dullness.

"Retailers generally are still inclined to buy only for immediate necessities," says Bradstreet's, "and trade in primary lines still lacks the normal Fall volume. As a measure of retail buying, largely in rural communities, it might be noted that mail order sales fell 38 to 40 per cent. in value behind October a year ago. Among wholesalers and jobbers the disposition is still to criticise retailers for not being willing to reduce prices to a point where demand will reawaken, though some retailers' cuts have evoked more popular interest."

The exportation of wheat, flour and corn is proceeding on a large scale. Bradstreet's records show that wheat and flour equivalent were shipped out in the week ended Nov. 4 to a total of 10,370,554 bushels, compared with 9,564,365 bushels the week before, and 4,505,254 bushels in the first week of November last year. The exports went from ports of the United States and Canada. In the eighteen weeks ended Nov. 4 exports amounted to 180,531,254, against 118,292,477 bushels in the corresponding period of 1919. Corn exports for the week were 339,400 bushels, against 265,933 the week before and 82,897 bushels a year ago.

"With nearly all purchasers waiting for evidence that the price readjustment has run its course before committing themselves for the future," says Dun's Review, "comparatively few new orders are being received to replace those which have been completed and manufacturers are not disposed to accumulate reserve stocks of goods during the present period of uncertainty. The proportion of inactive producing capacity, therefore, has increased in textiles, leather, iron and steel, and elsewhere, and an easing of conditions in the labor market, with some downward revisions of wages, is reported in various industries."

SHARP COTTON FALL AFTER HEAVY START

Southern and Liverpool Sales Carry Futures Down $5 Per Bale—Exports Off.

There was no noticeable change in the character of the cotton market yesterday. News developments were as discouraging as they have been right along for some time past and selling was general, including both Southern and Liverpool liquidation, and there was no buying worth while except from speculative interests which were covering shorts for profits. There was an initial decline of 40 to 48 points in near and 25 to 30 points in distant months and only a nominal recovery after that. Then the market again pointed downward and sold off by late afternoon 85 to nearly 100 points for the near and active options and about 30 points less for the others. The low figures were virtually the closing prices.

Spot prices here were down 80 points to 20.85 cents, which is only 35 points above the extreme low of two weeks ago, and in the South there was a general shading of spot quotations. New Orleans, Mobile, Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth all got under 20 cents and losses of 50 to 75 points were recorded all along the line. Reports from the South spoke of "quiet" markets, and reported sales were rather small, but the fall in quotations was disheartening to local traders and probably had something to do with the sharp break at New Orleans, where futures fell even before ours did.

Weather conditions continue almost ideal and there was no improvement in trade news. In fact, some of the trade news was very ominous, one report stating that Southern yarn spinners have agreed to a 50 per cent. cut in production for an indefinite period. Added to all this, the National Ginners' Association came out with a report estimating the final crop at some 637,000 bales more than the Government's final estimate.

Exports were very low for the day, totaling only 474 bales, but thanks to the big movement earlier, the week's total was 194,638 bales, against 156,586 bales last week, and the largest in quite some time.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Wheat Goes Lower, Corn Advances — Spot Cotton Approaches Low Price of Year.

Cash wheat was again weak Friday, declining 4 cents a bushel, to $2.22. Corn was steady at an advance of 2 cents. There was an easier tendency in oats at a recession of one-half of 1 cent. Eggs advanced 2 cents, to 75 cents. In the metals market, iron No. 2x, Philadelphia, dropped $1.29, to $47.50. Spot cotton was weak at a net loss of 80 points, to $20.85, and at this latter price approximates the low for the year.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER.

Depressed Foreign Exchange Causes Decline of 1¼ to 2¾ Cents.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Acute depression of foreign exchange had a bearish influence today on the wheat market. Prices closed unsettled, 1¼c to 2⅝c net lower, with December $1.98 to $1.98¼ and March $1.93 to $1.93½. Corn finished at ⅛c decline to ⅞c advance, and oats lost ⅜c to ⅝c. In provisions the outcome varied from a setback of 15c to a rise of 25c.

General selling on the part of commission houses took place in the wheat pit, and no doubt was expressed but that the principal immediate reason was the tumble of francs to the lowest point since last May and severe breaks which had occurred in other European exchange. Various aspects of the domestic industrial situation tended further to weaken values. Subsequently, indication that export interests had been buyers on the decline led to a rally, but the effect failed to last, although receipts were not large and country offerings were regarded as small. In Chicago the arrivals totaled only sixteen cars.

Corn was relatively strong owing to meagerness of stocks available for delivery on December contracts here. Oats traders took their cue from the downturn of wheat and ignored the corn bulge. Provisions lacked support, despite higher quotations on hogs.

The Civil Service.

City.

An examination has been ordered for prison keeper. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age. The subjects and weights will be: Physical examination, 2; mental, 5; experience, 2; citizenship, 1. Candidates should have a common school education. Experience in the handling of men or in skilled trades will receive special consideration. Minimum height, 5 feet 5 inches; minimum weight, 140 pounds. The entrance salary is $1,537 a year. There are a number of vacancies in the correction department.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for superintendent and director, men or women, regardless of age, in the Bureau of Fisheries, one for duty at Key West, Fla., at $1,800 a year, and the other at Beaufort, N. C., at $1,500 a year. Living quarters, unfurnished, are available at both stations. Appointees may be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. There are opportunities for promotion to positions paying $2,000 to $2,500 a year, as vacancies occur. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on: Physical ability, 10; education and experience, 90. Applicants must show that they are graduates of a college or university of recognized standing, and that they have had at least one year of postgraduate work and five years of experience in the conduct of biological or fishery investigations, preferably in zoology as relating to the fisheries. They should have had administrative experience or be able to show that they possess qualifications for administrative work. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1st, 1920.

Notice to Holders of
New York Shipbuilding Corporation
First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent Sinking Fund Gold Bonds.
Dated November 1, 1916
Due November 1, 1946

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund provided in said mortgage, to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($187,500.00), being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund. The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on November 24, 1920, of such bonds. As provided in said Mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half per centum (102½%).

As soon as may be, on or after November 17, 1920, the undersigned Trustee, will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptances may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 24, 1920.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelope, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 17, 1920.

BARNES OPPOSES FARM PRICE FIXING

Upholds Present Grain Marketing System in Advising Federation Committee.

COMMENDS FUTURE TRADING

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Julius H. Barnes, former Director General of the United States Grain Corporation, today appeared before the Marketing Committee of Seventeen of the American Farm Bureau Federation, offered opinions and suggestions on grain marketing and outlined major influences on price fluctuations on trading exchanges.

He stated his conviction that the present system of grain marketing through open exchanges, by maintaining a highly competitive market at all times, worked to the advantage of both producer and consumer, and that future trading was beneficial in that it furnished insurance for traders against destructive losses on commitments which would of necessity be taken in wider margins of profits without exchange hedging.

He urged the development of a better understanding of "the great Exchanges and co-operation with them in developing their full service and eliminating their defects and abuses," and commended the committee for its temper to "lay aside prejudice and previous conceptions to learn the truth about basic facts on which sound marketing must proceed."

Touching on recent declines in wheat prices and the contention of some agricultural interests that they have been unwarranted by existing supply and demand, Mr. Barnes said that the wheat producer had "escaped the full effect of deflation" because of the "cushion" found in future trading. He cited figures tending to show that the decline in wheat from the peak post-war price to the current level had been only 18 per cent., as against a decline of 68 per cent. in potatoes, for which there is no exchange market. Similar comparisons revealed declines of 55 per cent. in cotton, 47 per cent. in beans and 46 per cent. in barley, he said. Indications that the deflation was world-wide in character and not confined to American farm products alone, Mr. Barnes added, were found in the fact that imported farm commodities, such as sugar and coffee, fell off from 61 to 66 per cent. during the same period.

In answer to a question as to whether it would be feasible for producers to market their own crops, Mr. Barnes said the present system maintained a lower trade toll between producer and consumer than would be possible in any system which eliminated hedging, and that in his opinion any organization of farmers for price fixing would not be decreed just by the American public.

Particular emphasis was given the statement that co-operative efforts of producers in local territories to eliminate unfair practices where monopolies existed were not to be confused with a nation-wide marketing system which would itself constitute a monopoly. The former, Mr. Barnes asserted, should be encouraged, was sound in economic principle, and would succeed, while the latter was not sound in that it sought to establish market influences other than the fundamental laws of supply and demand.

First among constructive suggestions submitted by Mr. Barnes was that "exact and accurate information on all phases that affect marketing and price both national and world-wide, verified and endorsed by an organization in whose judgment the producers have confidence [illegible] to aid them in determining values.

Reports that Mr. Barnes is to head a $6[illegible]00,000 corporation [illegible] exporting grain were denied by him before the committee.

CRAIG DENIES BOND RUMOR.

Says None Will Be Sold Pending Normal Money Market.

Controller Charles L. Craig denied yesterday the report that the city was about to offer for sale a large amount of corporate stock or serial bonds. He said that stories were being circulated in the financial district that the sale was to be from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

"The financial situation of the city is such that the sale of long-term corporate stock or serial bonds need not be considered until the money market has been restored to normal conditions and rates of interest," said the Controller. "Not only is the question of a bond sale not under consideration at the present time, but it will not be considered until long-term bonds can be sold on a 4½ per cent. basis, or better.

"The rumors circulated in the financial district are calculated to arouse distrust and uncertainty in the minds of the present holders of New York City bonds, and to induce them to sell them at prices below their value."

DRIVE FOR 5TH AV. HOSPITAL

$2,000,000 Campaign Opened at the Biltmore with Gifts of $485,000.

The two weeks' effort to raise $2,000,000 for the building fund of the new Fifth Avenue Hospital opened last evening with a dinner in the Hotel Biltmore, at which about 250 persons identified with business and social interests of the city discussed the plan of campaign. Fred B. Smith presided, and among those who spoke were Thomas E. Wing, who emphasized the need of hospitals in this city, and Mrs. Charles S. Mergaard, Chairman of the Women's Committee.

After the speaking these subscriptions were announced: T. Frank Manville, President of the hospital, and H. E. Manville, $300,000; Mrs. R. L. Sweet, $3[illegible],000; William A. Nash, $30,000; Corn Exchange Bank, $30 000; Fifth Avenue Bank, $30,000; J. H. Emery, $30,000, and Mrs. George J. Jackson, $30,000.

The Fifth Avenue Hospital is now in the course of construction in Fifth Avenue, between 105th and 106th Streets. It it a consolidation of the Hahnemann and the Laura Franklin Free Hospital for Children. One million dollars of the $3,000 000 needed has been obtained through the sale of the old Hahnemann Hospital property.

SAVES FAMILY FROM FIRE.

Passer-by Raises Ladder to Window and Aids Three to Escape.

Katrine Suydam, 10 years old, was awakened by smoke from a fire in the basement percolating into her bedroom on the second floor of the duplex apartment house at 123 East Nineteenth Street early yesterday morning. She aroused her father, Hendrick Suydam, and her mother in an adjoining room. Suydam opened a hall door and found that escape apparently was cut off. Rushing back, he said, he tried unsuccessfully for several minutes to reach the Gramercy telephone exchange. Then, almost overcome by smoke, he and his family went to an open window and called for help.

J. B. Pearman of the New York Athletic Club, a walker who won second place in the 10,000-meter race at the recent Olympic games, heard their cries, ran across the street, and obtained a ladder, by means of which he aided the Suydams to reach the street.

The fire was confined to the cellar and did about $2,000 damage. The New York Telephone Company issued a statement declaring its records showed there had been no delays in passing calls of citizens who had tried to report the fire. Soon after the fire started a cable serving the section failed, which would account for the inability of Mr. Suydam to reach the operator, the statement said.

TAUNTS DAUGHTER IN WILL.

Merchant Leaves Small Sums to Remind Her of Quoted Remarks.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 5.—Two witnesses were heard today in Orphans' Court here in the case of the caveat filed by Mrs. Joseph Kramer with the will of her late husband, a clothing merchant of Perth Amboy, when the will was filed for probate on July 3 last. The will left the bulk of the estate, about $250,000, to the Perth Amboy City Hospital, the Jewish memorial building fund, and a son, Arthur, and a daughter, Esther.

Kramer said in the will that he would not have left his wife anything, except that the New Jersey law required him to leave her a dower interest. To another daughter, Jennie, he left $12 a month, to be paid in three instalments: "$5 a month," the will reads, "to remind her of the time in 1916 when she said to me, 'Black pig, don't sleep with my mother'; $5 per month to remind her of the time in 1918 when she struck me when I was in the kitchen, and $2 a month to remind her of the time, that, when I was sick in bed in January, 1920, she said to me, 'Don't cough so loud: you are making too much noise. I will have you arrested for disturbing the neighbors.'"

State Senator Charles Brown, counsel for Mrs. Kramer, held that Kramer was insane when he drew the will. Jacob Wasserman, the first witness, an intimate friend of the family, told of frequent visits to the house. On one occasion, at supper, he said, Mrs. Kramer complained that Kramer did not give her enough money to support the family. The case is to come before the Court of Chancery.

COAL PRICES ARE DROPPING.

Special to The New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 5.—With the price of coal in the Connellsville region showing a downward trend, prominent operators and brokers admit best screened coal will drop as low as $4 a ton. f. o. b. mines. This morning the market was very weak and only the very best grades of coal were being purchased. Sales of pool 34 coal at $5.50 a ton were numerous and some isolated sales were lower.

Hundreds of cars of coal were rejected today. In one Pennsylvania Railroad yard 156 cars failed to pass inspection of the consignee's agent.

The coal market has been uncertain for the last three months, and with the nation well supplied and many furnaces shutting down the demand naturally eased off. Conditions have reversed themselves since mid-July. This morning, with hundreds of mines without sufficient orders to absorb their production, fuel purchasers were naming their own prices for the best grades of coal. Before Jan. 1 hundreds of smaller operations, it is said, will be forced out of business.

The demand for spot coke is almost unheard of and the market is soft. Frequent sales at $10 were made today. Coke appears to be headed toward the $6 mark.

OIL RUSH IN CANADA.

Government Revives Yukon "Grub-Stake" Laws to Prevent Suffering.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—The spectacular rush of hundreds of oil prospectors to the Far North, where "strikes" have been reported, has caused the Government to revive the old grub stake ordinances of Yukon days.

As the situation threatens to become serious, it is proposed to prevent those who go in from becoming charges upon the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Therefore only those in physical condition to stand the rigors of an Arctic Winter and with enough "grub" to keep them will be permitted to go.

Discovery of oil at Fort Norman, in the Mackenzie River basin, has resulted in departure of several parties from Edmonton, Alberta, with dog teams to stake claims in advance of others who will travel by the river route in the Spring. At the present time every available berth on all the boats plying to the north has been taken for the Spring months.

NEW VIENNA GOVERNMENT.

Schober for Head of Ministry, Rintein or Mayr for President.

VIENNA, Nov. 5.—Belief was expressed in high political quarters today that Herr Schober, Police President, will head the new ministry, either as Chancellor or Minister President. The Federal Presidency was said in the same circles to lie between Herr Rintein and Dr. Mayr.

The new Cabinet is expected to be composed chiefly of civil servants, with a few Parliamentarians holding the more important portfolios. It is intimated that the army will be greatly reduced and the civil list trimmed by pensioning.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Police President Schober, who is likely to become Austrian State Chancellor, has, by his remarkable talents and tactful energy, been mainly responsible for the maintenance of order in Vienna during the last eventful years and the complete defeat of Bolshevist tendencies while nearly all other central European capitals suffered terrible upheavals.

Herr Schober appeared at the election party arranged by the American colony, attended by numerous members of the American and British missions, who warmly congratulated him on his splendid services in behalf of the maintaining of peaceful conditions in Vienna.

New Sweden-Chile Sailings.

Representative Carew Re-elected.

Revised returns yesterday made certain the re-election of Representative John F. Carew, Democrat, in the Eighteenth Congress District, New York City. The vote was: Carew, 11,58[illegible]; O'Connor, Republican, 10,491; MacDonald, Socialist, 5,003—a plurality for Carew of 1,094.

JAPANESE MINISTER VISITS SHINTO SHRINE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Advices from Tokio state that Baron Yujiro Nakamura, Minister of the Imperial Household, has made a pilgrimage to the Grand Shrine of Ise, although he is a Christian.

Japanese custom demands that every high official, as soon as possible after taking office, shall make a pilgrimage to the chief of all Shinto shrines, regardless of his religious views.

It is related that Prince Yamagata, when he recommended Baron Nakamura for this important post, was not aware that he was a Christian, and when he learned the fact dispatched a messenger to the Baron advising him to visit Ise at once.

In this connection persons recently returned from Japan state that some American missionaries in Japan maintain that the tenets of Shintoism, stripped of superstition, do not conflict with the teachings of Christianity, and that a Japanese may be a Christian and Shintoist at the same time. Shintoism, which is nurtured by the Japanese literati and authorities, they declared, is a system of paying respect to ancestors, from the ancestors of the Emperor to those of the lowliest subjects.

It has been observed, however, that of late years many high Japanese officials have been neglecting their visit to the Shrine of Ise, and a section of the Japanese press has been criticising them for it. Prince Saionji was reported not to have visited Ise before he left for Paris to represent Japan at the Peace Conference, and also neglected to visit Ise after his return.

There are two shrines of Ise, both situated at Yamada, in Ise, to one of which the Emperor himself makes pilgrimages and dispatches special messengers to pay respect to his ancestors and to acquaint them with important affairs of state. More than 500,000 Japanese pilgrims visit these shrines annually.

JAPANESE VIEWS DIFFER.

Some Papers Welcome Republican Victory, Others Fear Imperialism.

TOKIO, Nov. 5 (Associated Press).—The Asahi today explains the Republican victory in the Presidential election in the United States by dislike on the part of Americans for President Wilson's "despotic methods" and the League of Nations' excessive obligations, which, The Asahi says, are not in harmony with the American spirit.

The newspaper expresses the belief that what it terms the Republican tendency toward centralization will facilitate a settlement of the Californian problem better than the "subservience of the Democrats to State rights."

The Hochi Shimbun says the outstanding feature of the Republican Party is its stand on Americanism, which, the newspaper declares, is a sort of imperialism. Mr. Harding's victory, the Hochi asserts, means that this imperialism will pervade the policy of the United States and extend her influence to the Orient. The Hochi says it fears American tariff increases would injure Japan.

The Yorozu Choho says the election result shows that a majority of Americans dislike the League of Nations and thus a permanent peace becomes an empty dream and armaments must continue. The newspaper says it thinks the choice of a journalist indicates that the American people love a President who is close to the commonalty.

The Kokumin Shimbun welcomes the victory of Mr. Harding. It says a Republican President has always understood Japan well and expects that the traditional policy of co-operation will be revived.

The Chuo Shimbun says that when the Republicans were in power they co-operated with Japan regarding China. It declares the Republicans' reappearance is like that of an old friend, but asserts there is no difference between the Democrats and Republicans in that both desire to maintain Japan's friendship.

The Osaka Asahi Shimbun of Osaka asks who will be the American Secretary of State. From Japan's viewpoint, it declares, it would be undesirable to have an imperialist like Seward or Blaine. The newspaper expresses the opinion that America's abundance of wealth will lead to a positive policy in the Orient which will cause Japan anxiety.

VETERANS PARADE IN ROME.

ROME, Nov. 4.—Representatives of all regiments of the Italian Army, gathered from all parts of Italy, marched in the great parade held today to celebrate the second anniversary of the armistice with Austria, which, so far as Italy was concerned, ended the great war. The men, all of whom fought during the war, marched through the main thoroughfares bearing their regimental flags and singing patriotic songs amid the applause of immense crowds which lined the streets.

Those who engaged in the parade were for the most part simple peasants and workingmen. The majority of them did not wear uniforms, but proudly carried Italian flags and bore on their breasts decorations won in the long struggle. An idea of the splendor of the procession may be gained from the fact that nearly 3,000 flags were borne through the streets. The American flag, carried by the director and students of the American Academy here, received a warm welcome.

King Victor Emmanuel received continuous applause as he drove through the streets to the base of the King Victor Emmanuel monument, where he bestowed gold and silver medals upon regiments and warships for their services during the war.

THINK POLES WANT LIBAU.

Letts Mobilize to Defend Port Against Outlaw Troops.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 5.—A special dispatch to the Berlingske Tindendo from Kovno says the Lithuanians have succeeded after hard fighting in reconquering the town of Gidroizi. In the north the town of Dukschty was taken by the Poles, who advanced to the Lettish frontier, where fighting is now going on around the frontier towns of Novo Alexandrorsk and Terrnont.

It is generally supposed that the Poles intend to occupy a part of Latvia. The Government is mobilizing in order to meet eventual Polish invasion. The impression is the Poles will try to realize their plan for a corridor through Latvia to Libau in continuation of the Polish zone along Latvia's frontier.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—8 per cent. for the best names.
Thursday—8 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Holiday Silk Business.

Silk manufacturers are exceedingly desirous of seeing lower prices reach the public through the stores when the holiday business is inaugurated. So far it is felt that the full extent of the wholesale declines has yet to be given generally to the public. If a universal repricing on the basis of replacement cost could be attained before holiday buying starts, it is the opinion that silks of all kinds, in view of the exceedingly good values represented, would show up wonderfully well in the Christmas sales.

Gray Goods Still Dormant.

There was again a lack of snap to buying in the local market for gray goods yesterday. November business was done in 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths at 10 cents, and for the same delivery there were sales of 38½-inch 60-48s at 8¼ cents. Further printcloth business for shipment this month was transacted in 39-inch 80-squares, which brought 13½ cents. The clothing styles and fine-yarn cloths were devoid of interest, and the same was largely true of sheetings. In the latter, however, 5.50-yard goods were disposed of at 7½ cents.

Bargains for Averaging.

Although a good many retailers have objected to the criticism that prices to the public have not reflected wholesale reductions, it is true that many wholesale offerings are being submitted to the retail dealers as bargains that will enable the merchants to average prices and get prices attractive to the consumer. Because so many bargains are being offered in this way, it is regarded as proof in wholesale circles that a great number of stores are trying to move out their high-priced stocks by averaging values instead of figuring their merchandise at replacement cost. There are wide differences between the prices quoted at retail on even branded and well-known articles.

A Course in Textiles.

The Textile School, under the Board of Education, has announced the opening of an evening class for those interested in textiles. The course will embrace the study of raw materials, yarns, finishes, cost calculations and identification of silk, cotton, woolen and worsted fabrics, and classes will be on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9. It is intended for those who are employed during the day with various textile houses, as well as those who are in the garment manufacturing industries. No special qualifications will be required, as the course of instruction will be both elementary and progressive. Prospective pupils and those interested may obtain further information at the Textile School, 124 West Thirtieth Street.

Naming Clothing Prices.

Unless the Spring clothing openings scheduled for Nov. 15 show what retailers feel are legitimate reductions under existing values, it is thought highly probable that the quotations named will only serve as a target for the rest of the wholesale trade to hit. Retail buyers have in mind the constant readjusting of values which followed the naming of Spring prices on woolens and are anxious that full instead of piecemeal reductions be made in clothing so as to conserve the best interests of the business. Some manufacturing clothiers have already determined not to open up new lines until the first of the year or later, and this delay may be for the purpose, it is suspected, of quoting prices lower than competitors. The retail trade, therefore, would like to see the first price cuts sufficiently attractive to eliminate further price competition.

Floor Coverings Trade Surprised.

Buyers of floor coverings, and some sellers as well, have been considerably surprised by the developments in that trade during the last few days. First came the announcement by the biggest concern in the business that it would stage a sale of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 worth of carpets and rugs here next week. This was closely followed by an announcement by another prominent house which apparently promised a repricing of the goods it sold for the regular Spring season. Inasmuch as these goods were sold at the recent opening under a guarantee against decline to the end of the season, there is quite a little speculation as to just what the next week will bring forth. In the case of the concern which will hold the auction, two things caused surprise. The first was the volume of merchandise to be put under the hammer, and the second the high rate of interest—10 per cent.—allowed for anticipation.

Want Underwear Held Back.

If the jobbers have their way, openings of Spring lines of men's balbriggan underwear will take place on dates varying all the way from next Monday to Feb. 1. Nothing was done here during the present week in the way of important Spring buying of the few lines already opened, although two leading producers have put goods on the market as cheaply as $3.25 a dozen. Some jobbers are expected here next week, but it is beginning to look as if the big business promised for the period following election will not develop much before Dec. 15. Sellers who are Republicans assert that the victories at the polls have done much to improve the tone of the market, and some of them argue that active buying will begin within the next two weeks.

To Make Print Prices Next Week?

The downward revising of prices on printed cottons, by leading textile printers who have not yet taken that step, will probably come early next week, according to comments heard in the Worth Street district yesterday. One of the large print works cut prices on its goods very sharply—50 per cent.—recently, and since that time the trade has been waiting to see what the other "big fellows" would do. Now that election is past and over, trade comment is to the effect that nothing in particular is to be gained by waiting any longer. It is further asserted that a general repricing of prints downward at this time would do much to encourage jobbing buyers to trade more freely than they have for some months.

To Spend Half a Million Here.

The Bailey Company of Cleveland will buy $500,000 worth of merchandise at the Broadway Central Hotel, this city, on Monday and Tuesday of next week, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dan Seman of the Merchandise Division of the Affiliated Retail Stores. Among the merchandise to be bought will be women's and children's ready-to-wear garments, boys' clothing, men's furnishings, millinery, piece goods, silks, velvets, shoes, underwear, gloves, hosiery and fur coats. The first floor showrooms of the hotel have been rented by the company to accommodate the numerous salesmen who are expected to call on the buyers. According to the announcement, "no quantity will be too large, and there will be a real opportunity to convert merchandise into cash for immediate delivery." The proposed purchase is expected to have a stimulating effect on the wholesale trades, most of which are now stagnant.

WHOLESALE PRICES DROP.

Those of Certain Foodstuffs Are Not Among the Declines.

Although neither in extent nor number did the downward revisions shown by Dun's current list of commodities prices equal those of last week, enough declines took place to outnumber the advances by a little more than four to one. About the biggest reversal in the list as between last week and this, was the increased price strength shown by the foodstuffs. The "ups" registered by them this week slightly exceeded the "downs," whereas last week the latter nearly quadrupled the former. In actual figures, the current list shows a general total of 68 declines and 16 advances, compared with last week's record of 97 and 15, respectively.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

About the most important change in the local market for foodstuffs was the decline of 25 cents a barrel which took place in Spring patent flour. Middle Western lard and bacon were also lower here, with hams unchanged. Mess pork and live beef were not revised at Chicago, but short ribs were cheaper there. Live hogs and sheep, on the other hand, were quoted higher.

Advances of 3 cents a pound in the best creamery butter and 5 cents a dozen in the best Western eggs marked the week in the local dairy products list. None of the other listed items showed change either way. The advance in Western eggs put them 8 cents a dozen above the corresponding 1919 price, but the quotation in creamery butter is still 6 cents a pound under that of last year's at this time. The listed fresh fruits were bare of changes, and the only revisions in the dried ones was an advance in choice apples.

In the vegetables a decline of 25 cents a hundred pounds in choice marrow beans contrasted with a similar advance, per barrel and bag, respectively, in cabbage and onions. Blue rose rice declined.

Both of the basic grades of Brazilian coffee were quoted higher during the week, but the tea list was again unchanged. Spices showed no revisions, either, but both 96 degree raw and fine granulated sugars were cheaper. The decline in the latter amounted to a cent a pound. Revisions in the grains consisted of declines in wheat, rye and malting barley and advances in corn and prime timothy hay. Hemp was quoted lower.

Only two of the twenty-four changes recorded in the combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils were upward. They took place in 76 per cent. caustic soda and in pure neatsfoot oil. In the naval stores resin and turpentine were higher. The metals list was bare of advances, but thirteen declines were shown. Five of these were seen in the various grades of pig iron listed. Wire rods and galvanized sheets also declined, as did furnace and foundry coke. In the minor metals the "downs" were confined to electrolytic copper, spelter, lead and tin.

Building materials and lumber together showed eight declines for the week, with no advances. Eastern spruce lath was cheaper, and the same was true of red cedar, plain and quartered oak, white ash, birch, yellow pine and basswood. A drop in hemlock sole was the only change in the leather list. In the hides a rise in No. 1 Texas stock contrasted with declines in No. 1 packers, heavy native cows, and No. 1 kips. Crude rubber, both Brazilian and Eastern was cheaper. There was also a break in Shanghai raw silk.

As to the textiles, not much in the way of change took place in silks or woolens. Burlaps showed a decline for the week, and several grades of unfinished cotton goods also were quoted lower.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

AMERICAN TRANS-OCEAN CORPORATION.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against American Trans-Ocean Corporation at 491 Broadway by United Salvage Corporation, a creditor, for $39,500 in excess of value of securities held.

WEINSTEIN, BERNSTEIN & NOVICK COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Gassian Schwartz, Joseph Weinstein, Max Bernstein and Charles Novick, co-partners, trading as Weinstein, Bernstein & Novick Company, manufacturers of cloaks and suits, at 22 West Nineteenth Street, by these creditors: Foleck & Schwartz Bros., $600; Fudeman & Katz, $3,367, and J. Newman & Co., $2,000. It is stated that the liabilities are about $90,000 and the assets about $50,000.

MARKO SILK COMPANY.—Judge Mayer has appointed Benjamin Farber of Paterson, N. J., ancillary receiver, in $2,500 bond, of the assets, in this district, of Benjamin, Hyman, Morris and Jacob Markowitz, trading as Marko Silk Company. It is stated that a petition in bankruptcy was filed against Marko Silk Company in New Jersey on Sept. 18, and that Mr. Farber was appointed receiver there, and that the assets, in this district, consist of silk worth upward of $8,000.

FINKLESTEIN BROS.—Judge Mayer has appointed Henry H. Kaufman receiver, in $10,000 bond, for Finklestein Bros., importers and jobbers in embroideries, at 3 West Nineteenth Street. It is stated that at a meeting of creditors held in the office of Shaine & Weinrib on Oct. 28 a majority of creditors, in number and in amount, were present; that a committee was appointed with full authority to act for the creditors and that it was deemed advisable to continue the business pending a settlement.

P. JAFFE & SON.—Judge Mayer has appointed Taylor More receiver for P. Jaffe & Son, furs and skins, at 289 Seventh Avenue, in $3,000 bond. It is stated that the liabilities are in the neighborhood of $60,000 and the assets about $15,000; also that P. Jaffe & Son are the lessees, of a building on Seventh Avenue, parts of which are rented out, and that the firm has deposited $10,000 security for the faithful performance of the lease covenant. Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 5.—As the result of an application by Joseph Oxman and Thomas Armstrong, holders of 27,500 shares of its stock, the Court of Chancery has named Robert H. McAdams of Elizabeth receiver for the Superior Body Co., Inc., with plant at Rahway. The receiver was authorized to continue the business and issue certificates of indebtedness for the money needed to keep it going.

The company claims to have orders for 300 auto bodies at $1,065 each, and another 100 orders in sight. But, the petition says, it has not the means of meeting its current expenses. Its present debts amount to $76,000, according to the petition, and its assets are stated at $239,000.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—J. E. Youtz, insurance broker of Pasadena, today filed a petition in bankruptcy here. His debts, all unsecured, total $11,867. His assets, he says, consist of $4,000 in life insurance and $150 in clothing, claimed to be exempt.

WOULD CANCEL SCHOOL BID.

Contractor Tells Board Figure He Submitted Was Too Small.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held yesterday to consider building contracts. President Prall said Mayor Hylan had promised that the building program would be carried out.

There was discussion over the request of P. J. Brennan & Son that they be permitted to withdraw their $844,100 bid for the construction of Public School 60, the Bronx. The firm contends its bid is $89,921 short of the figures it intended to submit. Prall said that it might cost the city considerable if this bid were allowed to be withdrawn.

The matter was referred to the Committee on Buildings and Sites, which will report at next Wednesday's meeting.

Woolen Sentiment Unimproved.

The talked of improvement in conditions in the woolen market to follow the election has failed to materialize as yet. Consequently the time for expecting an upturn has now been put off until the new Administration comes into power. There is some evident disappointment in the trade that, with the election over, conditions have not shown an immediate betterment, but the certainty of a governmental change has not helped put buyers in a different state of mind. The latter are still anxious to pick up what little needs they find at the lowest prices, and no quotation goes unquestioned.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Burling, Dole & Co., auctioneers, will offer 1,000 pieces of men's and women's wear woolens and worsteds from the American Woolen Company on Tuesday and Wednesday. A similar amount of goods from other mills will also be sold.

David Mesibov, formerly of Mesibov, Glinert & Levy, Inc., has become connected as vice-president with the Le Grande Costume Company, 15 West 27th St.

OTTO KAHN UPHOLDS HIS NATURALIZATION

Statement by Cravath Asserts Congress Nullified Technicality in the Law.

ANSWERS WOMAN'S ATTACK

Mrs. Clara de Poy Had Charged That His Citizenship Papers Were Illegal.

The naturalization papers of Otto H. Kahn were alleged to be illegal in a letter sent yesterday by messenger from Mrs. Clara de Poy of Great Neck, L. I., who is said to be connected with a pure ballot organization, to United States District Attorney L. W. Ross of Brooklyn.

This was denied by Paul D. Cravath on behalf of Mr. Kahn, who is ill at his home, 1,100 Fifth Avenue. The defect alleged by Mrs. de Poy was that sixteen years had elapsed between the time Mr. Kahn, then a naturalized British subject, took out his first papers here in 1901, and 1917, when he received his final papers, whereas the law forfeits the first papers after seven years unless final papers are taken out. Mr. Cravath said the lapse of time would have prevented Mr. Kahn from obtaining final papers in New York, but that he obtained his first papers and final papers at Morristown, N. J., where he formerly resided, and that a difference of Federal decisions made the naturalization in New Jersey legal. In addition, Mr. Cravath said, a law had since been passed by Congress confirming the citizenship of persons so naturalized.

Mr. Kahn was born in Germany of an American father. He became a naturalized British subject in 1893, when he did not anticipate settling in America. Coming over here shortly after 1893, because of his business connections, he took out his first papers in 1901. Uncertainties as to his plans, it was said yesterday, caused him to hesitate about his final papers until 1914. His intention to take them out then, it was said, was set aside by the war—he did not desire to relinquish his British citizenship at a time when it might seem to be an evasion of obligation. When this country dismissed the German Ambassador and prepared to enter the war, however, it was said, he applied for and obtained his final papers.

Being born in Germany of an American father, Mr. Kahn would have originally had the choice of declaring himself an American or a German. During the war the British Parliament passed laws cancelling the naturalization of British subjects born Germans, with some exceptions.

Mrs. de Poy yesterday denied she had acted from a personal motive.

"I do not even know Mr. Kahn," she said. "I learned of the facts contained in my letter for the first time a few days ago, and merely acted as a citizen in forwarding them to the Federal District Attorney in order that the papers might be cancelled if defective. I understand that Mr. Kahn did not vote at the recent election on account of illness."

Mr. Kahn took an active part in the campaign in favor of Senator Harding and against the League of Nations. His lawyer, Mr. Cravath, made the following statement:

"The American naturalization proceedings, taken by Mr. Kahn (who was naturalized a British subject in 1893) were in charge of an excellent New Jersey lawyer. Mr. Kahn received his final papers in March, 1917, from the Court of Common Pleas at Morristown, where he then lived. He was entitled to his final papers under the decisions of the United States Court embracing New Jersey notwithstanding his original application was more than seven years old, though a different rule had been laid down by the district courts in some other circuits.

"The whole question was set at rest by an act of Congress enacted in May, 1918, which validated all naturalization certificates issued upon petitions filed prior to January, 1918, upon declarations of intention filed prior to Sept. 27, 1906. That act was undoubtedly passed because there were many cases like Mr. Kahn's that were subject to doubt because of conflicting decisions in different circuits."

MUST PAY REMARRIED WIFE.

Court Grants Mrs. Goldfisch $5,200 a Year from Former Husband.

Samuel Goldwyn, who was divorced by Mrs. Blanche Goldfisch several years ago, lost yesterday an application to the Appellate Division to strike out an allowance in his wife's decree for the payment of $5,200 a year. He told the court his wife had remarried, and he contended the payment was alimony, which was to stop if plaintiff remarried.

The court decided that the $5,200 a year was not alimony, but was in consideration of the relinquishment by the plaintiff of all claims to Goldwyn's property. A further payment of $2,600, which was to continue so long as the plaintiff remained unmarried, was alimony, the court said, and this payment would stop.

The papers showed that Goldwyn's daughter, Ruth, 7 years old, who was to be supported out of the payment to her mother, no longer bore her father's name.

NILE BOATS TO RESUME.

Service from Cairo to First and Second Cataracts Begins Jan. 11.

J. I. Young, traffic manager of Thomas Cook & Son, steamship agents at 245 Broadway, announced last night that he had just received a cable dispatch from the head office in London stating that the company's Nile steamboats would resume service from Cairo to the First and Second Cataracts on Jan. 11, 1921, after being suspended since 1914.

During the war two of the large Nile steamboats were burned near Cairo, it was said by German spies, and some of the smaller vessels were used by the British Government to transport troops on the River Tigris.

SLEEPY HOLLOW THIEF CLUE

Former Telephone Operator Gives Detectives New Lead.

A clue to the robbers who got jewelry valued at $50,000 from members and guests at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club several months ago, has been obtained by private detectives, according to a statement in Special Sessions yesterday by James I. Russell, a probation officer. His statement was in connection with the arraignment of John McCullough, 20, a former elevator operator at the club, on a charge of breaking his parole.

Russell told the court that McCullough, who had for a time been under suspicion in the investigation of the robbery, had admitted that a certain employe of the club, now missing, had questioned McCullough as to the occupancy of certain rooms and whether the occupants had money and jewelry. This former employe is said to have been the head of a gang that made a specialty of such robberies.

Election Officer's Conviction Reversed.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court reversed yesterday the conviction of Max Brinkman, sentenced to serve six months for violation of the election laws in making a false canvass of the ballots cast at the 1917 primary election. Brinkman testified that he relied on the statements of the Chairman as to the result of the canvass. The trial Judge charged that "it was his duty and he was presumed to know the facts," which the Appellate Division decides was an error.

BUYERS OVERWHELM APPLE DISTRIBUTERS

Special State Stand in Jefferson Market Unable to Keep Up with Demand.

"Apple Week, which has only one more day to go, I can say unqualifiedly has been a great success so far as this city and State is concerned," declared Joseph Sicker, Chairman of the Committee of the International Apple Shippers' Association, at his office 202 and 204 Franklin Street, yesterday afternoon. "Viewed from every standpoint," he continued, "the week has been a great success. It was put over in much better shape even than we expected, and our hopes were very high.

"The purpose of the week was to acquaint the public generally with the value of the apple and of its various uses. To a very large extent we have succeeded, through the newspapers and the various other agencies that have aided us in this undertaking.

"Then, the State Division of Foods and Markets, headed in New York by Herschel H. Jones, Director, has not only taken hold of the idea and given every assistance possible in pushing our educational campaign, but has actually opened sales places where apples could be had by the public in small quantities at wholesale prices. Mr. Jones has worked indefatigably to make this week a success, and the International Apple Shippers' Association appreciate his efforts.

"I am satisfied that as a result of our efforts and the efforts of the State Division of Foods and Markets the apple is a much more popular food than it was a week ago. And this is well, because New York State, which produces such a large proportion of all the apples, has a bumper crop this year."

Mr. Sicker received yesterday a letter from Miss Grace Schermerhorn, Director of Cooking of the Board of Education of this city, in which she said:

"I wish to express my deep appreciation of the apples that were provided for the domestic science classes and for the lunch rooms. They have enabled us to do real 'apple teaching.' We have been able to interest the children in apple eating. 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away.' In the domestic science classes we have cooked, and cooked, and cooked apples to every one's great delight."

Mr. Sicker set out to distribute 2,000,000 apples to children of the charitable and other public institutions, but he said last night that the number had gone to at least 3,000,000, and requests are still coming in for more apples. "Just as long as the committee has a dollar left we will send out these apples free," Mr. Sicker said, and added that funds were now running low. The money for the free distribution of the apples was raised among the shippers themselves, the farmers, it was asserted yesterday, having contributed nothing.

More than 1,000 women visited the space in Jefferson Market donated by Commissioner of Public Markets Edwin J. O'Malley, for the sale of apples by a Woman's Food Committee, designated by Mr. Jones. "We simply couldn't supply the demand," Mr. Jones said, and there were long waits in the afternoon while trucks were bringing in more fruit. Mr. Jones promised that there would be no lack of supply today, and he asserted that they were being sold at wholesale prices, plus the small cost of handling.

Broker's Wife Sues for Separation.

Raymond Terry, a broker, who was sued in Massachusetts by Morris Levenson, a New York ship broker, for alienating the affections of Mrs. Helen Hauser Levenson, and who was directed to pay $5,000 by a jury at Pittsfield a year ago, was sued in the Supreme Court here yesterday by Mrs. Frances Terry for a separation. The couple were married Aug. 28 last at Atlantic City. Mrs. Terry accuses her husband of repeated cruelties and says he was intoxicated frequently.

A plot 100 by 200 feet, on the north side of Thirty-fifth Street, 100 feet west of Fourth Avenue, has been purchased by the Lind-Lef Realty Corporation from the Realty Associates. It will be improved with a garage.

Meister Builders sold the three three-family houses, each on a lot 20 by 100, at 1,058 to 1,064 Nostrand Avenue, to clients for occupancy. They were recently purchased from James R. Kinney.

Plots in Marlboro, one of the development tracts of William E. Harmon & Co. in the Thirty-first Ward of Brooklyn, have been sold to J. C. Bennett, A. C. Bennett, J. J. Lee, Thomas Barr, G. A. Smith and M. Levy.

William P. Jones and Frederick B. Holter sold for Lucia W. Winters to Palo Sammizaro the two lots, each 20 by 100, on the south side of Sixty-first Street, 320 feet east of Seventeenth Avenue.

Tenement Trading.

Ella Wertheimer and others sold to Margaret A. Oldham the six-story apartment house, 343 and 345 West Eighty-fifth Street, on a plot 50 by 102.2 for $117,500.

Francis Mayer sold to Philip Wadd 1,342 Park Avenue, a five-story flat on a lot 25 by 100.

Isaac Rappaport bought from Bertha Allen 314 Rivington Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 18.9 by 100.

The five-story flat on a lot 25 by 100 at 129 East 101st Street, has been sold by Charles E. Sands, as trustee, to Max Pass for $16,350.

The James Stokes Society sold to Annie Blitt, for $25,500, 18 West 118th Street, a five-story flat, on a lot 25 by 100.

New Jersey.

The three-story residence at 94 Clinton Avenue, Newark, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, has been sold through Louis Schlesinger for John E. Kelley to John D. Piller. The same broker also sold the dwelling at 370 Summit Avenue, plot 50 by 180, for Arthur E. Sanford to Joseph D. Samuelson.

Hugh Seery sold 90 Park Street, Montclair, N. J., to W. S. Throop for $15,000. Simpson-Merritt Company negotiated the sale.

Recent Buyers.

Kate Berry is the buyer of the three-story house at 95 Thompson Street.

NEW APARTMENT FOR PARK AVENUE

COST PLACED AT $1,000,000

Site One Block Below Plot Where New Fifth Avenue Baptist Church Is Being Built.

In the choice apartment house centre on Park Avenue in the lower Sixties a new twelve-story structure, estimated to cost more than $1,000,000, will be erected next season. The building will be erected on the southeast corner of the avenue and Sixty-third Street by the recently formed A Park Avenue Corporation, of which Samuel Augenblick is President. The immediate corner is now occupied by the six-story Hetherington apartment house, fronting 75.3 feet on the avenue by 100 feet on the street. This has been leased by the new building interests from the Boardman estate, and, in addition, the four-story garage at 112 and 114 East Sixty-third Street, fronting 50 feet, by 135 feet in depth, has been leased from Abraham B. Cox and Julia T. E. Kannon. The combined parcels will provide a total frontage on Sixty-third Street of 150 feet, by 75.3 feet on the avenue. The two properties have been leased for a term of twenty-one years, with two renewal privileges, the rental for the first period approximating $750,000.

Horace S. Ely & Co. were the brokers in the transaction. The present leases on the buildings expire next May, and it is stated that work will then begin on the new apartment. Edwin H. Updike, as attorney, represented the owners of the parcels, and Louis B. Brodsky acted for Mr. Augenblick's corporation.

The locality is in the centre of some of the finest apartment structures on Park Avenue, and another important improvement now under way in the vicinity is the excavation at the southeast corner of Sixty-fourth Street, one block north of the Sixty-third Street parcel, for the new edifice of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, a large plot having been acquired there more than a year ago by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the new church, which is still occupying its old building in Forty-sixth Street, just west of Fifth Avenue. That property was sold some time ago, and on the removal of the church to its new home, will doubtless be improved with a business structure.

Business Property Deals.

William H. Whiting & Co. sold for the estate of Euphemia Whittredge and Katharine Foot the five-story building at 59 Beekman Street, extending through to and including 89 Ann Street, covering a lot 23.9 by 109.7.

The four-story loft building on a lot 25 by 100 at 171 Mercer Street has been sold by Evelyn Candel to Abraham Jarmulowsky.

Twenty-Foot Site for Church.

The Concordia Lutheran Church, located at Oak Terrace and Crimmins Avenue, has purchased the lot, 20 by 80, at the northeast corner of Brook Avenue and 142d Street, Bronx, opposite St. Francis Hospital. The little church building, being portable, will be easily moved to its new location.

MANHATTAN STORAGE BUYS.

Increases Its Holdings by Purchase of Six Buildings.

The Manhattan Storage and Warehouse Company, which occupies the block front on the east side of Seventh Avenue, between Fifty-second and Fifty-third Streets, has increased its holdings by acquiring the six three and four story houses at 140 to 150 West Fifty-third Street, from George C. Atwater, who recently bought the property from M. D. Rothschild.

The purchase by the storage company involves a site 113.4 by 100, and with it the concern now controls a frontage of 305 feet on Fifty-third Street, 200 feet on Seventh Avenue and 225 feet on Fifty-second Street, making it one of the largest holdings in single ownership in that section. It is reported that the company plans to make extensive improvements on the site just secured.

Suburban Transactions.

Reuben Wing Howe of Manhattan has purchased from the estate of Margaret E. Zimmerman the Furniss estate at Lenox, known as Edgecombe, and for years the scene of notable gatherings in the Berkshires. The estate has been closed since the death of Miss Clementina Furniss in 1915. The Cruikshank Company, in conjunction with Graham E. C. Root of Lenox, negotiated the sale.

The Rye Marine and Country Club has been formed by several wealthy residents of Rye and Mamaroneck, who have bought the George C. Park estate on Post Road, Rye, with a large frontage on Long Island Sound and several hundred acres of rolling land. The charter members subscribed $150,000. They include Mayhew Wainwright and Colonel Anthony J. Drexel Biddle.

R. Franklin Hull has sold for Robert P. Ellis his home at 150 South Broadway, White Plains, to William B. Egan of Washington, D. C.

Buys Fine Great Neck Home.

George Edward Smith, President of the Royal Typewriter Company, has purchased the former C. H. Goddard property at Great Neck. It consists of a large plot with frontages on Cedar Drive, Bayview Avenue and Ridge Drive, having a commodious dwelling house overlooking the Great Neck Golf Club links. The holding price was $60,000. Harvey Craw was the broker.

Commercial Leases.

The Cross & Brown Company leased for the Sidney B. Bowman Auto Company the building at 225 and 231 West Forty-ninth Street to Sally Wiesbader, Inc.; also, for the 615 West Fifty-seventh Street, Inc., the building at 615 West Fifty-seventh Street to Graham Brothers.

J. Arthur Fischer leased for the 135 West Forty-fifth Street Realty Company the five-story building at 135 West Forty-fifth Street for a term of twenty-one years to a client in the restaurant business. The premises will be extensively altered.

The Herbert Hecht-H. C. Kopp Company leased for the Louis K. Liggett Drug Company the store formerly occupied by Rollins, the tailor, in the Hotel McAlpin to the Schulte Optical Company for a long period of years at an aggregate rental of $300,000.

The six-story loft building, on a lot 25 by 98.9, at 54 West Twenty-third Street, has been leased by Annie W. Gould and others to the Goldberger Manufacturing Corporation for more than twenty-one years at an annual net rental of from $8,000 to $9,000.

Tankoos, Smith & Co. sub-leased for a client to Hugh Beirn for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $45,000 the store at 280 Canal Street, in the building at the southeast corner of Broadway. The lessee will conduct a lunch room.

PEREMPTORY SALE
For Account of Whom It May Concern,
Real Estate and Equipment of
THE WEST JERSEY SAND & SUPPLY CORPORATION
Westville, Gloucester Co., N. J.
TO BE SOLD
Wednesday, November 24, 1920, at 12 M.
AT THE REAL ESTATE SALESROOM
1519-21 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The property is situated in Deptford Township, Gloucester County, about 1½ miles from Westville, on the Almonessen Road and Big Timber Creek, with a frontage of 1,000 feet on Big Timber Creek, which is a navigable stream.

REAL ESTATE—About 82 88-100 acres of real estate, about 45 1-3 acres of which are used for farming purposes, having a frame farmhouse, with outbuildings, barns, shed, etc. The balance, 37½ acres, contains the plant and has been mined. The top soil is very light, making it unnecessary to strip. The depth of sand to waterline is about 15 feet.

EQUIPMENT — Complete sand washing plant designed and equipped by the Link Belt Co. of Philadelphia, including 80 Cu. Ft. Marion steam shovel, 2 boilers, 40 and 60 H. P., 36 in. gauge Davenport locomotive, 8-4 cu. yd. side dump cars, about 1,000 ft. railroad track with 60 lb. rails, sand screens, settling tanks, 6 ft. centrifugal pump, 50 H. P. horizontal steam engine, about 300 ft. 24 in. Link belt conveyor, with 20 H. P. steam engine.

Big Timber Creek has been bulkheaded at the Washing Plant and is dredged to a depth of about 8 ft. of water at low tide.

May be examined any week day between 9 A. M. and 4 P. M.

Will You Reach These 750,000 Liberal Buyers

ANY three-quarters of a million prospective buyers constitute an enormous market. But the 750,000 readers of Farm Life offer an exceptional opportunity to manufacturers of the necessities, conveniences and luxuries of living.

A most comprehensive survey, recently completed and tabulated, proves conclusively that Farm Life readers are liberal buyers of nationally advertised goods. A questionnaire published in the May issue of Farm Life was filled out and returned by 6,115 subscribers. This questionnaire was not sent to a hand-picked list, but, on the contrary, went to every reader of Farm Life in the form of a full-page advertisement in the paper itself.

Of these 6,115 readers who responded, 64% own the farms they operate, 46% own automobiles, 41% own kitchen cabinets, 43% own washing machines, 42% own gasoline or oil stoves, 33% own phonographs, 48% buy standard brands of paint, 22% buy prepared roofing, 12% own heating plants, 7% own lighting systems, 12% buy advertised makes of men's clothes; and these 6,115 Farm Life families own 10,966 watches of which 7,046 are Swiss, Elgin, Waltham, Hampden and Hamilton.

To Sell Farm Life Readers You Must Use Farm Life

National advertisers cannot reach Farm Life subscribers through magazines, metropolitan dailies, or other national farm papers. Our survey shows that, if a national advertiser uses all the leading magazines, he will reach only 21% of Farm Life readers (only 7% with the magazine giving the greatest duplication). If he uses all the big metropolitan dailies he will reach only 16% of Farm Life readers (only 1½% with the metropolitan daily giving the greatest duplication). If he uses all the other national farm papers he will reach only 28% of Farm Life readers (only 9% with the national farm paper giving the greatest duplication).

Obviously, to sell this big market, the quality of which is reflected by the standard products already owned and now being purchased by Farm Life readers, it is necessary to advertise in Farm Life.
